Angry about tax bill? Join others

by TERRY HERSHEY

Hundreds of Wheeling Township tax bills were received by residents Thursday showing dramatic increases this year, some as much as double last year's bill.

Arlington Heights residents who pay taxes to elementary Dist. 25 were hardest hit.

Wheeling Township hall was flooded with calls from irate residents who threatened to not pay their bills. Others said they would be forced to put their houses up for sale.

Henry Leark was one of them. "I'm ready to put a 'For Sale' sign on the house. I've lived here all my life, but I don't know what I'll do now."

Leark's tax bill on his house at 724 N. Mitchell St., Arlington Heights, is nearly $900, $357 more than last year.

Apparently Leark's situation is typical. And so is his reaction, according to Wheeling Township assessor Marshall Theroux.

Thursday afternoon, Theroux already had a backup of about 75 calls. And they were all irate homeowners complaining about their tax bills.

Theroux said he always receives calls and complaints when tax bills come out, but nothing like this.

"Some areas of the township had absolute unprecedented increases — simply the highest in history. People are worried and concerned — and they're madder than hatters."

The largest increases, he said, were for older homes in Arlington Heights Dist. 25. The reason for that was twofold.

First Wheeling Township was reassessed, resulting in assessments going up between 20 and 25 per cent. Also, ti seems reassessments on older homes were higher because their past assessments had not kept pace with the homes' market value.

Second, a referendum passed by Dist. 25 voters increased the school levy from $2.667 to $3.148 per $100 assessed valuation, an 18 per cent increase. Schools account for two-thirds of the tax bill.

A couple in Theroux's office had a tax bill that had more than doubled from last year, going from $323 to $687, despite an exemption for people over 65.

Another couple that visited Theroux Thursday, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Anderson of 827 Walnut St., Arlington Heights, said the assessor told them that he couldn't do anything about their bill.

Mrs. Anderson said they were told that the only possibility was to have their home reassessed to see if it had been valued too high. But that would cost them about $100, an expense the retired couple doesn't feel they can afford.

Theodore Preuss, 606 Elm St., Arlington Heights, also is retired and is upset about his bill.

"Two hundred and eighteen dollars and nineteen cents. That's how much it went up. I'm really put out. I'm retired and I just can't afford it," he said.

"I've never seen anything like it," Preuss said, referring to the 30 per cent increase in his tax bill. "When it's that much more than the previous tax bills, there's something the matter. I plan to file a complaint. And if they don't listen to me, I may not pay it at all."

Another resident was calm when first asked about her tax bill.

"Yes, it came in the mail today," Dolores Yarck said quietly. "But I didn't open it. That's not like me, at all, but I just decided to put it on the table and not open it."

But then her curiosity rose, and she decided maybe she would open it.

"Now I understand why people are upset. I'm dumbfounded. How high can anything go and people still keep up? It's got to stop sometime but I don't know when," she said.

"I expected it to go up, but not $300," she said. "It's getting so you can't afford a roof over your head."

Leark agreed. "I'm too old to worry about these things, but it's impossible to live like this. Things are just out of hand.

"To pay these kind of taxes is absolutely ridiculous. I remember when I first moved in this house in 1931 and I got my first tax bill. It was $11. I still have the receipt."

HENRY LEARK says he may put a "For Sale" sign on his house at 724 N. Mitchell in Arlington Heights. Leark and his neighbors are upset over their high tax bills. "I've lived here all my life, but I just can't afford to pay these taxes," he said.

Sox ride high

Rookie White Sox hurler Ken Kravec turned in the outstanding game of his short major-league career Thursday, a three-hit, 2-1 victory over the expansion Toronto Blue Jays as the Sox kept riding high atop the American League West. Was copter lured?

The Rev. Paul Lindstrom, chairman of the National Remember the Pueblo Committee, charged Thursday the U.S. helicopter shot down by North Korean gunners was not in enemy territory when hit by gunfire. Informants claim the North Koreans lured the aircraft into the demilitarized zone. — Page 10.

ABC-TV split up

A little relief

A little relief will be in the air today as temperatures hit the upper 80s with the chance of thundershowers this morning. Skies will be partly sunny and cooler. The low will be in the 60s. Saturday will be partly sunny, hot and humid with a chance of thunderstorms and a high in the 90s.

Chicagoans recall N.Y. adventure

by JOHN LAMPINEN

They were supposed to be weary.

They were supposed to be mildly irritable. They were supposed to be a little annoyed.

Indeed, the suburban passengers arriving at O'Hare Airport from New York Thursday were arriving home from a night of candles, humidity and sirens.

But while they were somewhat tired, there was little irritation in their voices after having been caught in the huge blackout that struck New York Wednesday night and Thursday morning.

Even William T. O'Connell of Wheaton was cheerful about it all.

He had spent the night in a dark, muggy hotel room, walked down seven flights of pitch black stairs in the morning, eaten a hard roll and black coffee for breakfast and had his business meeting canceled Thursday.

AND THAT WAS just the start of it. He went to LaGuardia Airport in hopes of catching a plane back to Chicago and waited in the hot and "very uncomfortable" airport until the American Airlines jet finally left. Then, when he got to O'Hare, flight officials had trouble finding his luggage.

Yet, he spoke of the blackout only in terms of adventure.

"It was very interesting," he said. "It wasn't so much a disaster as it was very interesting."

HOWARD D. GOLLAY and Jack Howard, both of Springfield, leaned back against a railing at the airport terminal and talked enthusiastically about their time at Shea Stadium.

They have, they pointed out, made a career out of being at places around the country where news is happening.

Earlier this year, they had been in Washington, D.C., at a hotel next to the B'nai B'rith headquarters when the Hanafi Muslims seized three city buildings, including the headquarters.

And a year ago, Howard came off a plane in New York only to be hurriedly rushed out of the airport because of a bomb scare.

"We're always where something is going on," he said.

New York comes in from the dark

NEW YORK (UPI) — America's largest city came in out of the darkness Thursday, 25 hours after "an act of God" and maybe mistakes of man cut off power for nine million New Yorkers and unleashed an orgy of ghetto looting.

President Carter, New York Gov. Hugh Carey and Mayor Abraham Beame launched investigations aimed at insuring that New York — and no other U.S. city — ever again undergoes the ordeal by darkness suffered for 11 hours in 1965 and once more since Wednesday night.

From the Statue of Liberty to Yankee Stadium, from the United Nations to Grand Central Station, the lights came on again. Subways started. Elevators rose. Air conditioners cut the 90-degree heat.

AT 9:39 EASTERN time the Consolidated Edison Co., New York's power company, said all power in the city had been switched on. The return to light came last in Harlem and the other neo-Hell's Kitchen ghettos where police ducked sniper fire and arrested more than 2,500 looters.

Beame accused Edison of "gross negligence." The mayor, running for reelection, said of the power company, "Sometimes I think we ought to condemn them to hang."

Charles Luce, Edison board chairman, called that power politics. He predicted all New York would be relit by midnight.

"It was an act of God," said Joyce Tucker, the firm's spokeswoman.

In the south Bronx looters broke into the Ace Pontiac Co. and drove 50 new automobiles away through the showroom door. In Harlem, Policeman John Ryan said hundreds of shops "have been wiped out as if a bomb was dropped. There is not a single television set left in Harlem."

More than 10,000 policemen patrolled the streets Thursday night.

Carter avoiding trouble in Korea

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter said Thursday North Korean gunners shot down an unarmed U.S. helicopter, killed three of its four crewmen, and captured a fourth, when the chopper blundered into their territory and tried to escape.

Facing the first major military crisis of his administration, Carter said his main concern in the Thursday morning shooting near the Demilitarized Zone was to convince North Korea the incident must not escalate into military conflict.

But the Koreans at first rebuffed every U.S. effort to discuss the matter immediately, and boasted their gunners had blasted the fleeing craft into the Nam Gang River because it "illegally intruded deep into the air above our side."

ON CAPITOL HILL, some angry members of Congress called for "sterner action" than just talk on Carter's part.

But White House and Pentagon officials said the President had not called any special alert for U.S. far eastern forces, and Carter himself stressed his efforts to explain the air intrusion to North Korea, get the captured crewman back and avoid trouble on a larger scale.

And in response to questions, he said the incident has given him "no reason to re-evaluate" his decision to withdraw U.S. ground troops from South Korea over the next five years.

"OUR PRIMARY interest is in having the incident not escalate into a confrontation and also to account for the crew."

He said the craft, a Chinook cargo helicopter delivering construction supplies to outposts along the four-kilometer wide buffer zone, had apparently lost its way and drifted just inside North Korea despite the desperate attempt of South Korean gunners to turn it back with warning shots.

Confusion clouded early reports of the incident. But Carter, briefing reporters personally in a halting, somber voice, said the Chinook landed briefly on North Korean soil apparently to inspect gunfire damage. Then, he said, it took off again as North Korean troops approached.

He said the Korean machine gunners shot the craft into the river and that two crew members apparently died in the crash while a third was shot to death.

The condition of the fourth man, believed captured, was not at first known.

Kilowatts, temps skyrocket

Ninety degree temperatures returned to the Chicago area Thursday, bringing these developments:

- Record consumption of electricity.
- A high of 97 degrees at Midway Airport and 95 at O'Hare. The record is 99.
- An ozone advisory issued Tuesday remains in effect.
- A forecast the heat won't last.

The northern fifth of the state, which includes more than 2.8 million residents, used 13.8 million kilowatts of electricity between 2 and 3 p.m. Thursday, breaking the old record of 13.6 million kilowatts set last week, Commonwealth Edison reported.

More than two-fifths of the output was used for air conditioning, said a company spokesman, who added that Edison had no problem filling power demands.

Fifteen of the last 30 days have seen temperatures hit the 90s, with two of them coming Monday and Thursday, the National Weather Service reported. Last year the high for July 14 was 99, a record. The all-time low was 50 degrees in 1926.

The ozone advisory alerts persons who suffer from respiratory and heart ailments to use caution.

The forecast was a bit better: a 40 per cent chance of thundershowers this morning with temperatures and humidity dropping. A high in the upper 80s is forecast.

Blackout match for tennis fans

by Joe McKee
and Wendy N. Jones (Special to the Herald from the Yonkers Herald Statesman)

YONKERS, N.Y. — Daylight broke clear and with it the train from Grand Central Station to White Plains finally pulled into the commuter station.

What began as a quiet evening for thousands of New York's suburban residents — watching a tennis match at Felt Forum in Madison Square Garden — ended with the reappearance of daylight.

In all, 3,000 persons filed into the Garden Wednesday night. It was the local return for Wimbleton champion Virginia Wade and the New York Apples. And it was a hot, muggy summer night. It was to be a night of honor for Mrs. Wade but turned out to be something much different.

As in other areas of the city and Westchester County, the place fell black. Most of the lights went out first, then all of them.

Later, emergency power brought light and the crowd began to wait.

WITHIN HALF AN hour, the match was suspended "because of the nature of the blackout." Then the real announcement — the entire city of New York was black.

During the delay everyone remained calm and most recalled the blackout of Nov. 9, 1965. Others began to realize the difficulty to be encountered on the way home to Long Island or Westchester or for that matter, just getting through the traffic in mid town Manhattan. It would not be easy.

Outside, the streets of the city were dark except for the headlights of cars, flashing lights of emergency service vehicles and flashlights carried by those who could find them.

Millions of candles cast an eerie glow through the five boroughs, and in the streets residents both helped and hurt when it became apparent that the region was vulnerable because of the power outage.

THE ENTIRE WORK force of the city's police and fire departments was called in to cope with the city's latest crisis, at first rescuing those trapped in elevators or found helpless with medical emergencies, later hitting the streets to stem a massive wave of looting that struck the city.

Numerous volunteers aided those lost on darkened streets. Many stepped into intersections to help direct traffic snarled by a lack of signals.

Traffic accidents were reported surprisingly low.

Others were not so kind. By 4 a.m., arrests for looting numbered 1,300. East Harlem and the Bronx were hardest hit.

MEN, WOMEN AND children roved streets in gangs, their arms filled with clothing, food and furniture stolen from block after block of shops in 7th Avenue in Harlem and in certain areas of the Bronx. Streets in those areas were paved with broken glass.

Along 34th street, 5th Avenue and 42nd Street between Pennsylvania Station and Grand Central Terminal, the crowds were calm. Most just wandered around trying to keep cool on the balmy night.

At a darkened Grand Central, Westchester-bound commuters were forced to wait because the Conrail trains are powered by electricity. Those unwilling to wait out the blackout looked for taxicab rides home. Cabs were going in the neighborhood of $25 or more.

MEANWHILE, OTHERS began to find a place to wait. By 1 a.m. the Red Cross had set up an emergency station in the terminal's lobby to provide water. People reclined on the benches either sleeping or talking to pass the time.

Many slept on the old terminal's floor or on benches. Others discovered narrow ledges in front of the off-track betting parlor windows.

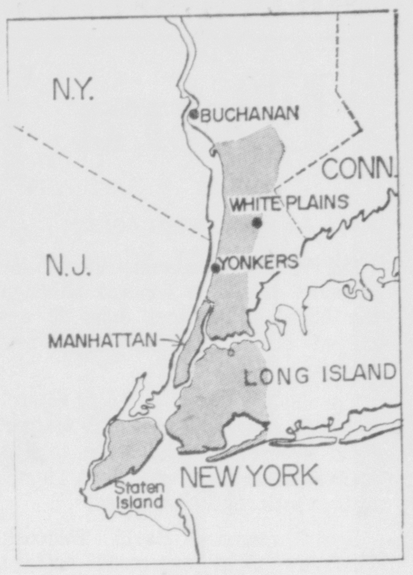
They were awakened when television film crews dropped in to interview people on where they were when the lights went out.

BACK OUT ON 42nd Street, the crowd and traffic were beginning to die down. By 2 a.m. only a few stragglers remained on the streets along with night workers who were asked to evacuate skyscrapers.

Inside the terminal, 3 a.m. passed and the wait continued. Rumors began to spread that power was being restored in some sections of Queens and Westchester.

At 3:45 a.m. word came that a Harlem division train making all stops from Mt. Vernon to Brewster was loading on track 39. So a walk through the darkness to a far corner began for this group of tired and happy Westchesterites. Gradually, the two cars were loaded and the northbound train left at 4:05 a.m.

An hour later they were home in White Plains, tired, battered, but safe.



NEWSMAP POINTS out area in New York where 9 million residents lost power Wednesday night. Lightning knocked out power lines around a nuclear generating plant in Buchanan, leading to the blackout in New York City and parts of Westchester County.

Coping with the blackout

Cubs third baseman

"Darnest thing I ever saw," Cubs third baseman Steve Ontiveros said. It was the bottom of the sixth with the Cubs leading the New York Mets 2 to 1 and Ontiveros playing third when the lights went out at Shea Stadium. Herman Franks, Cub manager, herded the team onto the bus and they headed back to the hotel.

Nowhere to go, nothing to do, no one to meet — Ontiveros and his teammates were adrift in Fun City with no fun anywhere in sight. Twenty-five pleasure-hungry ballplayers with lots of time on their hands. "We went back to our dark rooms and called it a night," Ontiveros said. "There wasn't much else to do."

Coney Islander

Herman Garms looked up just as the lights went out at the Coney Island amusement park in Brooklyn Wednesday and wondered how he would rescue the eight people stranded at the top of the Wonder Wheel ride. "My first thought was to get the equipment ready to take them down," Garms, the operator of the Wheel, said.

The facilities to crank the giant ferris wheel around manually took almost an hour to assemble, Garms said. "But there was no panic whatsoever. All those at the top were adults and they were just there to have a good time," he said. "They didn't let the dark spoil it for them."

On the phones

Minnie Steiman of New York City is not a switchboard operator, but Thursday the Consolidated Edison employe was answering the phones. "I'm kind of here because of the emergency," she said. "People keep calling for information. They want to know when it's going to end."

Ms. Steiman left the phone for a few seconds to summon one of the regular operators. When she returned her tone was brisk. "I'm sorry, we're really backed up right now and we don't have time to answer your questions. We're trying to handle as many customers as we can."

Taxi dispatcher

"You had to be careful who you picked up and where you picked them up," William Kerstein, chief dispatcher for the Brooklyn Two-Way Radio Taxi Assn., said. "People were asking to go to crazy places and you had to be careful you weren't dealing with looters." Kerstein said traffic was not as much a problem as dealing with persons trying to signal cabs. "People tried to stop some cabs in the middle of the street and some people who were already in the cabs were afraid and said not to stop. Others said to go ahead and stop and pick up the people."

Kerstein said there was some problem getting gas for cabs because service stations closed to prevent looting. The problem was relieved somewhat Thursday morning because many people did not go to work, Kerstein said. "It was pretty hectic."

Ice man cometh

The calls for ice started coming in at 6 a.m. when Paccione Ice and Fuel Co. opened and by early afternoon the demand had not decreased. Frank Paccione, co-owner of the firm, said. "Business is booming but I don't know if it's good or bad because it's an unfortunate thing," he said. The firm's normal customers, large food stores and service stations, were the users placing the greatest demand on the firm for ice, he said.

"We normally sell about 300 bags of block ice a day but today I think we'll sell between 2,000 and 3,000. We'll sell it until we run out and then we'll close," he said. "I don't know how long we'll be able to be open because our ice is starting to melt," he said.

Senior citizen

Gertrude Adelstein, 81, wasn't flustered when the lights went out. "I lit a candle. I had two flashlights and a transistor radio and I read the newspaper," she said, making it sound like just another one of those things New Yorkers must live with.

Living in the west 70s, Miss Adelstein said her electricity came back on about 9 a.m. Thursday. "The only thing I was worried about was the food in the fridge," she said. Although New York Mayor Abraham Beame has called for a thorough investigation, Miss Adelstein said "it's not going to make a bit of difference. We're just over technologized."

A POLICEMAN COLLARS a looter in the Bushwick section of Brooklyn Thursday after the area went a bit wild following a major power failure in the New York City area Wednesday night.

Hospitals stay alive even when power goes out

by KURT BAER

A power failure becomes a crisis of life and death in a hospital.

For that reason, hospitals buy and maintain diesel-powered electrical generators that activate automatically as soon as the power drops.

"We have two diesel generators and we're installing a third now. We would be up to power in 6 to 10 seconds after a power failure," said Chuck Saul, director of management and construction at Lutheran General Hospital, Park Ridge.

Other hospitals in the Northwest suburbs report a similar state of readiness should a power failure hit this area.

THE EMERGENCY room, intensive-care unit, operating rooms and other medical areas in the hospital get power priority. Hallway lights, ventilators, offices and elevators would be operated at minimum levels.

The state requires power generators be tested once a week in what Saul called "a simulated power failure." Results of the tests are logged and available for state inspection, he said.

The generators can continue to operate almost indefinitely so hospitals could cope with even an extended power failure such as New York's, said Sam Mitterling, supervisor of the power plant at Alexian Brothers Medical Center, Elk Grove Village.

After hospital service, water supply is another critical community need during a power failure.

Most Northwest suburban communities have at least limited standby generators to power their well pumps, said Don Renner, Arlington Heights Superintendent of utilities.

"WE WOULD ASK people to curtail all extraneous water usage," however, he said.

The City of Chicago would be in a similar position, a city water department spokesman said. Five of 11 Chicago water pumping stations are steam-powered and would maintain minimal water pressure during a power failure.

Police communications in the area would be powered by an emergency generator at the Arlington Heights village hall where the Northwest Police Dispatch Center is headquartered.

The 13-story Arlington Park Hilton Hotel does not have emergency generators, but could connect a portable generator to run stalled elevators in the event of a blackout, hotel manager Joe Kane said Thursday.

Outage wastes supermarket stocks

Looters and summer heat launched a two-pronged offensive against New York City supermarkets after a blackout struck Manhattan Island and adjacent boroughts to the east.

Looters struck 12 A&P stores and three Finast stores in Harlem, Brooklyn and the Bronx, smashing store windows and snatching up what groceries they could carry.

After daylight, looting subsided, but stores then lost thousands of dollars in perishables to 90-degree heat — and most store managers, much to their chagrin, discovered they lacked insurance to cover the spoilage.

ONLY THE A&P CHAIN was covered for losses due to blackouts, said Dan Doherty, spokesman for the chain.

Edward Flemming, vice president of the New York City division of Finast, said looting occurred between 9:30 p.m. and 6 a.m. in ghetto areas.

"Mostly they (looters) went after perishables, cigarets and meats," Flemming said. "They grabbed things they could dispose of quickly.

"It's still happening," he said. "Certain parts of the city are still feeling the looting. But we haven't had any since daylight."

DON VALENCOURT, spokesman for the Grand Union supermarket chain, said out of 175 Grand Union stores in the New York metropolitan area, 45 stores initially were affected by the power outage.

However, by Thursday afternoon, power had been restored to all but 24 stores, Valencourt said.

"The bulk of the (24) remaining stores are closed, while a half dozen do have emergency lighting and are open," Valencourt said.

Grand Union, like other supermarkets affected in the New York area, closed down, rounded up supplies of dry ice, packed them in refrigerated cases containing frozen foods and dairy products, and covered the cases with cardboard to keep stocks cold, Valencourt said.

"So far, product loss (for Grand Union) has been minimal," Valencourt said.

THOSE STORES in the blackout area that were open Thursday were operated under tight security, with only 10 to 15 shoppers allowed inside at a time, Valencourt said.

Joe Cox, manager of a Finast supermarket in midtown Manhattan, said Thursday his store had given up on it's stock of frozen dairy products.

"It's bad," Cox said, while employes removed melting containers of ice cream from his store.

The 1965 blackout, "wasn't as long," Cox said. "This is worse, much worse."

Ann Antonuczi, spokeswoman for Finast, said 27 of her company's stores had been closed by the blackout.

"WE HAD TO CLOSE," Ms. Antonuczi said. "We have dry ice keeping the products frozen. We have a warehouse over in Corning, N.J., and by that route we got some dry ice."

However, by Thursday afternoon supplies were running short, she said. "They're going out of their minds up there, making calls for dry ice," she said.

All chains except A&P said they had no insurance coverage for food spoilage due to blackouts.

Vera Wade, spokeswoman for the New York State Food Merchants' Assn., said insurance companies considered such spoilage "a self loss."

Store chains usually would negotiate with Consolidated Edison, the electric utility, for rate reductions to cover food losses due to blackouts, Ms. Wade said.

Bill Williams, spokesman at the Hartford Insurance Co. headquarters in Hartford, Conn., said his firm writes policies for New York City stores, but does not normally include a clause covering blackouts.

Ordinarily, Williams said, "Your're writing for incidents that directly happen at that store — burglaries, fires, explosions. Probably most grocery stores just aren't insured for blackouts."

New York blackout stopped the presses

by TERRY HERSHEY

New York had the news but could not get it to the rest of the country.

The repercussions of New York's blackout spread across the nation, from Chicago's Northwest suburbs to Salt Lake City and Des Moines, as major news outlets and news services halted abruptly.

Because so many news organizations, including The Herald, use news services from New York, news gathering and reporting were hampered throughout the nation.

Many news outlets had to depend on radio reports and sketchy details rerouted through services in Washington, D.C., Detroit and Los Angeles.

"WHAT WE DID was pick up the phone book and start calling people in New York," explained Dave Eastman of the Des Moines Register. Eastman said the Register got the story on the blackout by talking to New Yorkers and got the rest of their national news from a regional wire service which carried national and international news while the wire services were out of operation.

The Register also depended on the Los Angeles wire that was not affected. The Herald contacted Los Angeles newspapers to get the latest information on breaking stories that could not be carried on their news wires.

And sports fans all over the country suffered as a result of the blackout. Because all the box scores are automatically fed to the newspapers from a computer in New York, nothing was being received Wednesday night or Thursday.

Tom McCarthy from the Salt Lake City Tribune said the paper had almost no national sports news because of the blackout. "We had to go with almost all local sports," he said.

The Lincoln Nebraska Star said it was missing a weather map, stock listings and photographs. "We really missed the national pictures, although we did get some national news from other wire services."

IT WAS STILL A "slow-go" all over the country Thursday as the wire service operations were severely hampered. In an effort to transmit as much information as possible, United Press International photographed its news stories and transmitted the pictures. UPI's photo transmitting equipment was the only equipment working properly Thursday.

New York's news media, of course were hardest hit.

Charles Rampanelli of the New York Times said the paper halted production at 9:35 p.m. Wednesday and didn't resume until 2 p.m. Thursday.

The papers off the presses before the blackout were sold in front of the Times building.

The only other part of the paper printed, Rampanelli said, was the New Jersey edition which is printed in a separate plant not affected by the blackout.

The Times had a skeleton crew at the plant Thursday. It was to work through the night to get the Friday paper published.

'An honest mistake,' Lahti says

Extra pay to Harper officers

by RENA WISH COHEN

Harper College administrators have received $14,000 in bonuses although the board of trustees June 29 approved only $10,000 for merit pay raises.

The checks, issued to the 23 administrators awarded bonuses by Harper Pres. Robert E. Lahti's office, totaled $14,000 before taxes and about $10,000 after, check registers showed.

Board member David Tomchek Thursday night expressed outrage that the bonuses exceeded what the board authorized by $4,000 and pointed out that administrators who received $300 merit increases were given gross amounts of $431.65, while classified staff who earned $300 bonuses had fringe benefits deducted from their bonus checks.

"IT SEEMS TO ME we've got different strokes for different folks, and I find that totally inappropriate," Tomchek said.

Lahti said he interpreted the board's $10,000 figure to mean $10,000 after taxes. He explained that bonuses have been awarded in the same manner since the program began 10 years ago.

"I'd like to set the record straight before we get inferences that we're sleight-of-hand experts," Lahti said. "It's always been done that way."

In a sometimes bristling exchange, the board questioned why the bonus checks were issued without board approval and directed the administration to adjust the payroll so the bonuses do not exceed $10,000 gross.

ADMINISTRATIVE BONUSES this year ranged from $300 to $850. Bonuses were issued to only 23 of Harper's 30-odd administrators whose salaries begin in the low $20,000 range and extend to the high $30,000 range.

In addition to bonuses, Harper administrators were granted salary increases of up to 5 per cent this year at a cost to the college district of $40,000.

Last year the board approved $20,000 for administrators' merit pay but the college distributed only $12,000 gross in bonuses. Lahti said he directed the personnel department to make a closer estimate of bonus projection this year.

"I created the problem by trying to be conservative and authorized too little," Lahti said.

Lahti called the check mixup "an honest mistake" and said he hoped the board would treat it that way.

Betting services given extension

The Illinois Court of Appeals Thursday gave racetrack betting messenger services permission to remain open for another week. Justices Henry W. Dieringer, Glenn T. Johnson and Philip Romiti issued the order on the condition that a lawyer for 12 messenger services post $125,000 bond as a protection for bettors who have used the services since Gov. James R. Thompson signed a law making the services illegal. The appellate court acted on an emergency appeal filed by one of the lawyers involved in two cases lost before Cook County Circuit Court judges Wednesday. The justices gave state, county and city authorities seven days to reply to their order.

Police arrest girl gang members

Three suspected members of a teen-age girls gang which has terrorized and robbed elderly persons were arrested Thursday during an alleged home invasion, Chicago police said. Police said the girls were arrested as they tried to break into the home of an 87-year-old woman. Two of the girls are 14 and the other is 15, police said. One of the 14-year-olds is believed to be the gang's leader.

They were held pending custody hearings. Patrolman Terry Urbaniak said the gang may have committed as many as 14 home invasion robberies in the past two months. Those robberies included beatings of a 74-year-old woman confined to a wheelchair and a 64-year-old man.

Dist. 70 cut off from state aid

The Illinois Board of Education voted Thursday to stop state aid payments to Chicago Heights Dist. 70 because it failed to meet student desegregation guidelines. It is the first time an Illinois school district has had state funds cut off for continued noncompliance with state desegregation rules. Royce Derks, director of the state board's department of equal opportunity, said the board rejected Chicago Heights' latest desegregation proposal, which called for desegregating sixth grade pupils only. He said the plan is virtually the same as one submitted last year.

Energy-conscious Capitol dims lights

Lights in the state Capitol complex were dimmed Thursday in an attempt to prevent a brownout. Lamps in the rotunda were reduced to one bulb and workers and visitors walked through nearly dark halls. Gene Graves, operations director of the Sec. of State's office, said all nonessential use of power was curbed in the state Capitol complex. Springfield's utility plant is one transformer short. It was taken to Chicago several weeks ago to be repaired. A new power plant is under construction. Air conditioners remained running in the state office buildings, Graves said, because of 90-degree heat.

Glass takes treasurer bid for a trial run in Peoria

by STEVE BROWN

PEORIA — Under the wilting heat of mid-July, State Sen. Bradley M. Glass, R-Northbrook, brought his quest for the Republican nomination for state treasurer here Thursday to see how it played in this steamy river city.

Today he will be in Bloomington, Saturday in Lake Geneva for a meeting with Cook County GOP leaders and next week in Springfield — all the time going through the ritual courtship dance that most candidates must perform before the real campaign gets under way.

During his stop here, State Sen. Prescott Bloom, R-Peoria, provided the escort for Glass and his wife, Barbara. They attended an early morning breakfast with the Peoria County GOP Phoenix Club, comprised of most of the area's top political contributors.

The breakfast was closed to the press and public, but Glass said he got an encouraging reception from the group.

"THIS IS REALLY my first major appearance in quest of the nomination," Glass said. He said he plans to tour the state meeting with party leaders before officially deciding if he will be a candidate.

Glass admitted the decision will be a major step because he will have to give up his Illinois Senate seat.

He also hopes that his limited background in finance will not be a handicap.

Glass lists his qualifications as his experience in the legislature and notes the treasurer's office is staffed by finance professionals.

After talking about his legislative experience to a group of reporters baffled over why a "non candidate" was holding a press conference, Glass headed for the Peoria County Building to meet any and all local officials who happened to be around.

AS LUCK WOULD have it, the rookie candidate found almost everyone in a budget meeting.

"Why don't you come back in an hour," suggested Roy Nuemann, the county board chairman and GOP state central committeeman for the area.

Dist. 25 gives Miner temporary reprieve on closing

In an eleventh-hour vote by the Arlington Heights Dist. 25 Board of Education, Miner Junior High School, 1101 E. Miner, temporarily was saved from being closed at the end of the 1977-78 school year.

A motion to close the 20-year-old school failed to receive a majority vote at Thursday night's board meeting and therefore died.

The vote was 3 to 3 with board members Ruth Grundberg, James Foster and Marty Kraybill voting to close Miner and Board Pres. Nicholas Raino and members Bruce Chelberg and Don Gibbins voting not to close the school. Board member Edith Jolly was absent.

"A vote this close on a matter of this severity should be tabled until we can have the whole board present," Raino told the 100 residents at the meeting. "Hopefully we can come to a decision at our next meeting."

THE BOARD IS scheduled to meet again at 7:30 p.m. Aug. 25 at the district administration building, 301 W. South St.

Faced with projections for continued declining enrollment and mounting budget deficits, the board in March decided it would close one of the district's four junior high schools at the end of the 1977-78 school year, but did not name a particular school.

The closing of either South or Rand junior high schools was ruled out early at Thursday night's meeting.

Board members agreed the closing of South, 314 S. Highland, would leave the south end of the district without a junior high, would require the busing of all of the school's 689 students so they would not have to walk across the Chicago and North Western Ry. tracks and would leave a building that would not be easy to rent or sell because it is in a residential area.

The closing of Rand, 2550 N. Rand Rd., was ruled out because the district's greatest potential for enrollment growth is at its north end and because board members believe the building's open classroom design would make it difficult to rent.

IN CHOOSING between closing Thomas and Miner, board members agreed both schools offer excellent educational programs; Thomas is a slightly better building from a "brick and mortar" standpoint and operating and transportation costs would be the same regardless of which of the two schools is closed.

Where board members disagreed is on which school would be easier to rent or sell and which school closing would have the greatest effect on surrounding residents.

Chelberg said residents in the Miner area would bear a heavier burden if their school was closed than residents in the Thomas area if their school was closed.

"Driving around the two I get the feeling that Miner is more of an interior school, more inside a neighborhood than Thomas is," he said. "Any alternative use of the school would draw traffic into the neighborhood."

Other board members noted the Thomas area also is residential, although the junior high school fronts on Arlington Heights Road, and residents there also are concerned about increased traffic and the possibility of decreased property values resulting from a closed school.

Chelberg also said Thomas would be easier to rent than Miner because of its location on one of the village's main roads.

Meanwhile, Roosevelt University, the only potential renter for any of the district's junior highs, has expressed a desire to rent either Thomas or Miner, with Miner as their first choice for location of a branch campus.

velopment, and flew into New York Wednesday night. Since Gollay has been a Cub fan ever since he was a boy growing up in Morton Grove, they went straight from the airport to Shea Stadium.

They were there when the lights went out in the sixth inning, and they recall, fans were shouting, "Let's Go Mets" into the pitching darkness while a few of the ball players played an imaginary ball game with the shadows in the field below.

Thursday morning, they grabbed a cab out of their hotel room and headed for their meeting, only to find that it had been canceled because of the blackout.

THE PAY PHONES weren't working, so they didn't bother to call LaGuardia about flights back to Chicago.

Instead, they just got back into their cab and went to the airport to see if they could get a flight. It was still morning, and the airport had just reopened, Howard said, and surprisingly, there was little competition for seats on the plane.

WERE THEY UPSET about being caught up in it all? Howard shook his head.

"It was unique to look out over New York, and to see just black," he said.

Dave Pinchot of Skokie had the misfortune in New York of learning that lightning does indeed strike twice in the same place.

Twelve years ago he was in the city on business, staying on the 15th floor of the Americana Hotel in Manhattan. He had just gotten on a subway when the lights went out in the now-famous 1965 power failure. He was strapped in the subway for three hours.

And where was Pinchot when Wednesday's power failure occurred?

He was in New York on business, staying on the 16th floor of the Americana Hotel in Manhattan.

It was no subway for Pinchot this time, however. He was on Coney Island trying to get back to his hotel when the city went dark.

"That's the story of my life," he said, after stepping off the jet from New York. "I'm always involved. I'm the man who was caught in two blackouts."

Meridith Mason of Glenview had gone to New York to look for a house for her family, soon to move there.

It was hard to catch cabs in the morning. And she didn't get to sleep until 1:30 a.m. And she had to walk 40 floors in the candlelight to do that.

BUT, MRS. MASON said, people were joking and there was a lot of comradery and it wasn't that rough.

It's just, she said, that it wasn't a good way to advertise New York to a prospective resident.

"That was a lovely way to be indoctrinated," she quipped.

MEANWHILE, John Woods of Arlington Heights was glad to get back home and to a shower Thursday afternoon.

"It was mostly a matter of massive inconvenience," he said. "It was just chaos."

As he walked back to his hotel from a restaurant after the lights went out, he said, "it was kind of an air of excitement but one of apprehension too."

A Message From GEORGE HARRIS Your Pharmacist

WHAT DO YOU WANT?
A study was recently made to determine just what a customer expects from a pharmacy. The results of this nationwide research project were quite surprising.

PRICE WAS NOT THE MOST IMPORTANT FACTOR
Although the prices of prescriptions and other health aids were of course considered important, it ranked pretty well behind such other factors as location of the pharmacy, fast dependable service, friendly clerks, and neat and clean sales people. Also mentioned prominently were ample parking and a quiet atmosphere.

PROFESSIONAL SERVICES SCORED HIGH
Many of these people questioned considered discussion of their prescriptions with the pharmacist and the pharmacists' aid in selecting non-prescription products to be of great value and wanted to see more of this done.

HOW DO WE RATE?
We think our pharmacy scores very well on the things you seem to want most, and we intend to keep it just that way. Of course, we will always be striving to do better. We appreciate our customers and we hope you will tell us when we are not performing to your expectations.

Filipino nurses protest verdict

HUNDREDS OF FILIPINO nurses picketed the Federal Building in Detroit Thursday, protesting the conviction of nurses Filipina Narciso and Leonora Perez. Attorneys for the two filed motions with the court for a directed acquittal or a mistrial in the case.

DETROIT (UPI) — Chanting "We want justice, we want justice," hundreds of Filipino nurses Thursday protested the convictions of two of their countrywomen for poisoning patients at a Veterans Hospital.

More than 200 nurses, including a handful of Americans, paraded around the federal building where the guilty verdicts were handed down Wednesday. They carried signs reading "Nurses are here to heal — not to kill, not to poison," and "Nurses are Beautiful."

The two defendants, Filipina Narciso, 31, and Leonora Perez, 33, thanked the protesters from the courthouse steps. Miss Narciso broke into tears, her sobs drowned out by the chants of the crowd.

I FEEL LIKE I'm a victim of the system," Miss Narciso said.

Inside the building, U.S. District Judge Philip Pratt, who presided during the nurses' three-month trial, rejected a government motion to jail the two women immediately. He took under consideration defense motions for directed acquittal or mistrial in the case.

"The court does not see any indication the defendants would flee," Pratt said in continuing bond for the convicted women.

"Certainly they could have done so a long time ago. They did not. The court is convinced they will not."

Miss Narciso and Mrs. Perez were found guilty by a jury of poisoning five patients at the Ann Arbor VA hospital two years ago with injections of the muscle relaxant Pavulon. Miss Narciso was acquitted of the one murder count in the case.

The protesting nurses, most of them dressed in work uniforms, strongly disputed the guilty verdicts and expressed concern over their impact on the nursing profession.

"THIS COULD AFFECT nurses like the malpractice crisis affected doctors," said Ursala Somera of suburban Dearborn Heights, a spokesman for the pickets. "Who knows what will come next?"

One young nurse already has resigned from the Ann Arbor VA facility to protest the verdicts.

One of the demonstrators, Erlinda Santos, president of the Filipino Nurses Assn., said, "If I was there, I would resign, too. I would not feel safe at that hospital."

Fifty-two patients at the hospital suffered sudden breathing failures blamed on Pavulon injections during July and August 1975. Twelve died. The convictions involved only five of the incidents, none of them fatal.

EPIFANIO PEREZ, husband of Leonora Perez, one of two Filipino nurses convicted of poisoning VA hospital patients, holds up his eldest son in front of the Federal Building in Detroit Thursday. He was joined by hundreds of Filipino nurses who picketed in protest of the conviction.

Colombia mine gas explosion kills 80

A powerful gas explosion ripped through a coal mine in Central Colombia Thursday, killing 80 persons trapped in airless shafts by fire and falling debris. The blast shook the Amaga mine some 120 miles south of Medellin just before dawn during a change of shifts, mine authorities said, catching a maximum number of miners underground. An unknown number of injured were taken to hospitals in Amaga and the nearby towns of Agelopolis and Titiribi.

Early reports from rescuers said the explosion was triggered by gas escaping from the rich coal seams of the mine into a shaft. Authorities said the blast and resulting flash fire hurled tons of rock and coal along shaft floors, sealed off stricken areas and sucked oxygen out of the air, asphyxiating most of the victims.

Britain abandons pay curb

The British government Thursday abandoned its plans to impose a third year of pay crubs and appealed to labor unions to use "common sense" in demanding wage increases. A two-hour cabinet meeting presided over by Prime Minister James Callaghan decided there is no hope of winning union support for a third year of pay curbs and ended its so-called "social contract" under which it tried to stop inflation. Chancellor of the Exchequer Denis Healey will go before Parliament today to spell out the government's new economic policy, and government sources said Callaghan will likely seek a vote of confidence on his economic program next week.

Government officials said Healey would probably call for a 10 per cent ceiling on any pay increases and leave it up to the unions to police it themselves. The officials said Healey would appeal to the unions' "common sense" and couple his plan with a warning that if the unions try to push their luck too far, it could end in another one million jobless.

Jackson case women plead guilty

Two women defendants in the Marjorie Jackson murder-burglary case pleaded guilty Thursday to a federal charge of conspiracy to transport stolen money. Marjorie Pollitt, 49, Mooresville, Ind., and her sister, Robertina Harroll, 53, Ringgold, Ga., changed their pleas to guilty after Assistant U.S. Attorney Kennard Foster recommended dismissal of federal interstate transportation charges. The two women were among six persons arrested on state and federal charges in connection with the theft of an estimated $4 million from Mrs. Jackson's home in a May 5 burglary.

Mrs. Pollitt's ex husband, Howard Willard, 38, and Manuel Lee Robinson, 29, Indianapolis, have been charged with murdering Mrs. Jackson by local authorities. Willard also faces federal trial on charges of transporting stolen money and conspiracy. He asked Wednesday that his trial on federal counts be moved from Indaianpolis to Evansville, Ind., because of pretrial publicity.

Violence reported in coal fields

Scattered acts of violence were reported in the Appalachian coal fields Thursday as about 18,000 miners stayed off their jobs to protest cutbacks in United Mine Workers health benefits. The latest wave of wildcat walkouts began in West Virginia last Monday when the miners returned from a two-week vacation. The strikes quickly spread into other states. The United Mine Workers union was forced to cut health benefits July 1 because earlier wildcats had seriously depleted the union's health and retirement funds. Some union officials made efforts to discourage the new strike wave. An estimated 10,000 miners were off the job in eastern Kentucky, about 2,500 in West Virginia and 6,000 in western Pennsylvania. The number of strikes in West Virginia was down from 8,000 earlier in the week.

Natural gas victory for Carter

The House Commerce Committee gave President Carter a major victory Thursday by approving his plan to continue federal controls of natrual gas prices. The vote was 22 to 19 after sometimes angry debate. The committee rejected both a compromise decontrol proposal tying price increases to profit controls and a more sweeping deregulation plan. Approval sends the nontax portions of Carter's energy program to a special energy committee that will add them to the tax portions already approved by the Ways and Means Committee and offer the entire package to the House early next month.

Dist. 25 budget projects 8.8% spending increase

by SHERYL JEDLINSKI

Arlington Heights Dist. 25's tentative $14.6 million budget for the 1977-78 school year calls for an 8.8 per cent increase in spending over last year.

Inflation in salary, utility, insurance and supply costs accounts for most of the increased expenditures, in what is otherwise a status quo budget, Business Mgr. Dan Suffoletto said Thursday.

The budget was kept as lean as possible to allow the district a cushion to help it survive the 1978-79 school year when a $500,000 budget deficit is projected, he said.

THE DEFICIT IS the result of the district's continued declining enrollment and increasing tax base, both of which spell a decrease in state aid.

In the recent quadrennial reassessment in Wheeling Township, the district's equalized assessed valuation rose 22 per cent, from $203.7 million last year to $249.2 million.

Coupled with a 48-cent voter-approved increase in the district's tax rate, the increased tax base will yield the district an additional $2.3 million in local property tax revenues this year, Suffoletto said.

"It's a big increase in assessed valuation, but because of it we're going to get killed in state aid," he said. "From this year to next year we're going to lose $1.3 million in state aid."

UNDER THE ILLINOIS state aid formula, a district with a large assessed valuation receives less state aid than a district of the same size with a smaller assessed valuation.

This year, Dist. 25 probably will receive $4.8 million in state aid, down $120,000 from last year, Suffoletto said.

The decrease is not as much as it will be next year, when the district's state aid entitlement will be figured on its new tax base and even smaller enrollment, he said.

This year the district is able to pick up $462,887 in additional state aid by averaging daily attendance over a three-year period and claiming 964 students more than the 6,746 students it actually had, Suffoletto said. Next year's enrollment will be down to 6,300 and, even with attendance averaging, the district will be able to claim only 7,200 students, he said.

TO HELP THE district survive the 1978-79 school year, the tentative budget reviewed by the Dist. 25 Board of Education Thursday includes a $300,000 reserve in the education fund, which will be carried over next year.

Including the reserve monies, education fund expenditures will rise 12 per cent in 1977-78, from $10.3 million last year to $11.6 million. The fund showed a .94 per cent decrease in expenditures last year as a result of $900,000 in budget cuts approved by the board in March 1976.

Salaries for teachers, administrators and secretaries account for $8.8 million of the education fund's expenditures, an 8 per cent increase over the 1976-77 school year, Suffoletto said.

With the expenditures expected to exceed revenue for the coming school year, the district plans to borrow about $1 million on tax anticipation notes. This is a 37 per cent decrease from last year's loan of $1.6 million, Suffoletto said.

An additional $700,000 in the district's working cash fund will be available if loans to the education and building funds become necessary.

The budget also includes:

- Building fund, $932,000 compared to last year's $845,000.
- Transportation fund, $430,000 compared to last year's $414,000.
- Bond and interest fund, $1.4 million compared to last year's $1.3 million.
- Retirement fund, $250,000 compared to last year's $235,000.

The board is scheduled to take final action on the budget Aug. 25.

Before this date the tentative budget will be on public display at the administration building, 301 W. South St., and at the Arlington Heights Memorial Library, 500 N. Dunton St.

Park work $37,000 over budget

Bids and construction estimates for the $2.8 million Arlington Heights park developments and golf course are $37,000 more than budgeted and could go higher, the park district's business manager said this week.

Larry Maholland said costs could run as much as $100,000 more than the $2.8 million voters approved in a referendum last October to upgrade 22 park sites and build an 87-acre golf course at Central and Wilke roads.

But most commissioners and officials say the park district can afford the difference and are not concerned about the discrepancy.

"We've been expecting that," Park Director Thomas Thornton said. "It's not serious. It'll just mean cutting down on the golf course clubhouse or taking out a loan."

HE SAID COMMISSIONERS could borrow from the $80,000 in the working cash fund or take out a contruction loan and pay the money back with golf course revenue.

"When you figure $2.8 million in such a diversified program it's not that far off," Thornton said.

Board Pres. Jacqueline Gruenewald said, "We will be able to handle it. We're not really concerned about the overage."

But Comr. Robert P. Rohleder said he is concerned about the problem.

"We're concerned but we're also going to do the right thing," he said. "As a board we don't have any intentions of eliminating any projects. But I'm not sure we're in the position yet of totally understanding how to solve the problem."

HE SAID THE FINANCE committee will meet at 8:30 a.m. Wednesday in the park district offices, 300 E. Falcon Dr., to discuss the excess costs.

"The original budget was calculated hurriedly and without the benefit of any formal plans," Maholland said. "Since plans are now formalized, a revised budget, estimated by the architects, is being used which gives a clearer estimate of the actual progress at each site. Although there are some large discrepancies, the development concepts originally proposed have not been altered."

Commissioners could trim the plans for a $450,000 golf course clubhouse, Thornton said, which will include a restaurant with seating for more than 100 persons, a bar, lounges, locker rooms and a small apartment for the grounds manager.

The clubhouse originally was estimated to cost $300,000, but additions made to the interior plans increased the price.

OTHER SITES WHERE bids or estimates have exceeded the budget include remodeling of the Recreation Park fieldhouse, bid at $94,654 compared with a $75,000 budget, and walkway and play area lights at 15 parks, $8,500 more than the budget at $135,500.

The grounds maintenance for the golf course has been cut in half to $50,000 and the amount allotted maintenance equipment was cut by one-third to $40,000 to help offset the higher cost of the clubhouse.

Some bids came in less than the budget, including athletic field lighting at the Wilke-Kirchoff retention basin, bid at $108,760 compared with a $135,000 budget, and tennis courts at Greenbrier Park, bid at $7,000 less than the budget at $23,000.

"We put together most of these estimates without benefit of consultants and using blanket acreage figures, like $25,000 an acre for the park sites," Thornton said. "Considering that, I think we have been very fortunate so far and I'm confident we will be able to handle the problem."

Cash borrowed by township on tax revenues

Elk Grove Township is borrowing money to pay bills until its tax revenue starts flowing in.

The township has issued $100,000 in tax anticipation warrants to pay bills that have come due during the 1977-78 fiscal year.

It is the first time tax anticipation warrants have been issued in six years, said Richard Hall, township supervisor.

But the problem has been building up during the past couple of years, during which the cash-flow in the town fund situation has worsened, Hall said.

Inflation and increased services have boosted the township budget each of the last few years and the tax levy from the previous year has not kept pace, Hall said.

For example, the town fund budget for the 1977-78 fiscal year is $499,900. The tax levy that used to pay that fund is equal to the lower budget of $443,700 in 1976-77, Hall said.

So the money from taxes paid last penses expected to be paid during this year is about $56,000 short of the ex-fiscal year.

IN PAST YEARS it wasn't a major problem because there was enough of a surplus to make up the difference, Hall said. That is no longer true, he said.

The lack of money is a problem for the town fund only. Other funds under the township are all right, Hall said.

The tax anticipation warrants will cost 4 per cent interest, but the money will be reinvested for a while, so the cost to the township is expected to be more like 2 or 3 per cent, or $2,000 to $3,000 a year, Hall said.

How can the township avoid the extra cost in the future? Hall suggests intentionally overbudgeting to ensure that a surplus will be available for the following year.

More money could be raised from taxes without raising the tax rate because of the rising assessed value of Elk Grove Township, Hall said.

Money from taxes will begin coming in Sept. 1 and Hall said the tax anticipation warrants can be paid back in installments of $10,000 soon after that date.

Powwow unfair to local residents

A real live Indian powwow complete with war dances — right in your own backyard.

That's what is in store for residents of the Recreation Park area the weekend of Aug. 26-28.

The Arlington Heights Park District has approved plans by the Mascoutin Society to hold their annual three-day powwow at Recreation Park, 500 E. Min- St.

But residents of the area want no part of it.

The prospect of 750 people from as far away as Texas attending the powwow and up to 200 camping overnight at the park has the residents up in arms.

We don't blame them. Recreation Park was recently the site of the six-day Festival '77, is the proposed site of a bandshell and is the location for several other village-wide activities. To ask the residents to open up their neighborhood continually to outside groups is just too much.

It appears the park district acted hastily without taking into consideration the people it serves.

Flyers announcing the powwow state "There are camping and dancing facilities complete with water, latrines and a swimming pool on the grounds."

And, park officials say "We think that's what parks in Arlington Heights are for, to have this type of event."

We disagree. The park district is not designed to be in the campground business. Local Scout, church and other groups go outside the village to camp overnight. It is unjustified to allow an outside group to camp overnight at Recreation Park.

Park officials have come up with far different estimates of the number of overnight campers than has the Mascoutin Society. The park district apparently approved the powwow without a clear notion of what was involved in the activity.

Park Board Pres. Jacqueline Gruenewald has assured residents the powwow will not set a precedent for overnight camping in the parks.

However, that will be small comfort to those residents who may be inconvenienced by the powwow.

While it would be a hardship of the Mascoutin Society to cancel the event now, the park board should consider who their constituents are and act to benefit the residents by calling off this ill-advised event.

Dennis Dunne a loss

Cook County government is remote from most suburbanites, so most persons probably barely noticed the news stories this week about the death following a heart attack, of Dennis P. Dunne, chief deputy assessor of Cook County.

However, suburban residents lost, with Mr. Dunne's death, one of the most able and responsive officials in county government.

Mr. Dunne, 34, had served as director of communications for the assessor's office from 1971 until earlier this year, when he became deputy assessor. In both roles he often had the complex and thankless task of trying to explain tax assessment procedures to members of the news media and general public. In doing so, he was invariably patient and thorough.

Several years ago, when The Herald received complaints from some Wheeling Township residents that they had not received notices of assessment, Mr. Dunne said anyone with a problem should call him directly. His office was immediately deluged with calls, and he discovered that through an error a large number of persons had not received their notices. Even though the calls kept him and fellow staff members busy for hours, he remained cheerful as he tracked down the error.

Dennis Dunne was a rarity in any governmental bureaucracy, including the labyrinth of Cook County; he was a public servant who took the term "servant" seriously. He did his best to help members of the public who needed it.

Mr. Dunne's early and unexpected death is a tragedy for the family he leaves behind. To residents of Cook County it is also a loss.

He will be missed.

Chinatown's youth gangs a threat to their elders

Jim Bishop

The Chinese, it is said, invented the human family. Long before the Old Testament was written, the Orientals decided that when a man impregnates a woman he assumes responsibility as her protector, her provider and the disciplined upbringing of their children.

In New York, the cops of the Elizabeth Street precinct knew that a juvenile bureau detective could patrol Chinatown for a year without busting a boy for anything more heinous than a fight in a school yard. The youngsters were the most polite, the most obedient in the five boroughs.

This was not true of some of the fathers. They banded together in societies called tongs. Immigrants joined either the Hip Sings or the On Leongs, depending on their family names.

CHINESE IN AMERICA had no civil rights. They worked at starvation wages for cracked rice bowls. The rich Chinese bent the backs of the poor. In time — especially in New York — the philosophy of neo-slavery led to tong wars.

The weapon of choice was not a gun. It was an axe. Hip Sings and On Leongs chopped heads off. The white man was unable to find the cause of these wars, or even the results. The Chinese seldom confided more than a smile to Caucasian authority.

The tongs survived. The one continuing crime was gambling. Chinese men gathered in gloomy flats to play fan tan. Sometimes they were raided; frequently the police of the Elizabeth Street precinct permitted the games to flourish.

SUDDENLY, THE world of Chinatown has changed. In a decade, the polite, passive boys have abandoned filial devotion to imitate their white brothers in vicious crime. In New York, they call themselves "Ghost Shadows," "Black Eagles," "White Eagles."

A boy in high school, no matter how high his moral standards, must join or face sudden violence. They attend kung fu movies to laugh and disrupt the audience. A half-dozen "Flying Dragons" walked into the darkened Pagoda Theatre and fired a fusillade. Peter Chin, 18, was wounded. David Wong, 19, was killed.

Traditionally, Chinatown has remained small — Mott Street, Pell Street, Bayard, and a few alleys extending toward Chatham Square. The population remained constant: 10,000. In 1965, immigration barriers were lifted. In 1977, 40,000 Chinese are jammed into the same topographical area.

AN ADDITIONAL 100,000 have edged the Italians out of "Little Italy." The young gangs stand sullen in police stations. They admit nothing except to say that they will not kill "lo fon" (non-Chinese). The new wave comes mostly from Hong Kong. They speak Cantonese and have great difficulty with English.

They will not follow the path of their fathers. None of the gang members will work in laundries, restaurants or Oriental souvenir shops. Today, they sell protection to their fathers.

The "Ching Lees," for example, will post armed young guards outside a gambling den for a price. They will also escort winners home in safety. The more articulate of the young men visit restaurants and offer protection against broken windows, fires and sporadic gunfire.

IT IS CHEAPER to pay than defy. A few of the more brazen boys take their girls to restaurants, eat well, and sign the bill, "White Eagles" or "Ghost Shadows." The waiters do not protest.

Each gang has its turf. The members do not wear leather jackets or long hair as symbols of identification. They are into crime not for machismo but for money. A high school dropout who cannot speak 30 words of English can earn $300 a week for extorting, shooting and splitting heads.

If the Flying Dragons feel that the Ghost Shadows are shaking down a merchant on the wrong street, five or six will get in an automobile, drive around the block, and shoot groups of youths on command.

NOBODY TALKS. Berkeley Rice interviewed Joseph Mei of the Chinese Consolidated Benevolent Association. Mr. Mei smiled. "We have no problem at all about youth gangs here in Chinatown," he said. A policeman said, "If a kid is pulling down $300 a week in a gang, what are you going to offer him — a job in a laundry?"

The inventors of the human family are afraid of their children. Parents are silent when their sons come home in flashy clothes and new cars.

At the Elizabeth Street precinct, the police wouldn't understand the kids even if they were willing to talk. They have only one Chinese cop . . .

A pipeline to Midwest needed

Excess Alaska oil a ticklish issue

by B. J. CUTLER
(Commentary)

Nine years after discovery of the huge oilfield at Prudhoe Bay, oil at last is scheduled to flow through the 800-mile trans-Alaska pipeline — and the nation has a brand new energy headache.

The problem is that by Oct. 1 the pipeline will be transporting 1.2 million barrels a day, twice as much as West Coast refineries can absorb. Moreover, no pipeline is ready to move the surplus to the Midwest, where it is much needed.

Clearly, a permanent solution must include a pipeline connecting the West Coast with crude-hungry midcontinent refineries. Until that is done oil industry officials and President Carter's energy advisers have three temporary ways to go, unfortunately none of them attractive.

THE CHOICES ARE to sell unneeded Alaska crude to Japan in return for Middle East oil delivered to the East Coast; to ship it in tankers through the Panama Canal to the Gulf Coast; or to relieve the glut by shutting down the Naval Reserve oilfield at Elk Hills, Calif.

Purely from an economic standpoint selling some 600,000 barrels a day to Japan makes sense. However, the political and psychological costs would be excessive.

Too many people believe there is no oil shortage and the "crisis" is a ripoff engineered by a greedy industry. Seeing Alaska crude flowing to Japan would reinforce such suspicions and make the public less likely to cooperate in energy conservation.

Also, trading Alaskan for Middle Eastern crude would keep this country highly vulnerable to another oil embargo, hardly a sound policy.

SINCE SUPERTANKERS can't use the Panama Canal, the Alaska surplus would have to move to Gulf ports in small vessels; an expensive and wasteful procedure. However, this probably will turn out to be the least bad temporary measure.

Closing down the Elk Hills would deprive the country of 250,000 barrels a day of domestic production and make us more dependent on the unstable Middle East.

With about a year of work a gas pipeline from Midland, Tex. to Long Beach, Calif. could be "turned around" and converted to carry Alaska crude. That would be an excellent step, since Midland could easily be connected to pipelines serving the Midwest.

However, California authorities and environmental radicals are fighting the unloading of tankers at Long Beach on the grounds that it would add to air pollution. The protests are a bit reminiscent of those that delayed the Alaska pipeline for years and helped bloat its cost to $7.7 billion.

BECAUSE OF WHAT it called "unreasonable" demands from California air-quality officials, Exxon has reluctantly withdrawn from the Long Beach project. It is to be hoped that the Carter administration will not permit this pipeline to fall victim to regulatory sabotage.

The plain truth is that a country which can send a space shuttle flying about piggyback on a 747 has the technology to unload oil safely at Long Beach. Each barrel of Alaska oil used in this country means $14 not sent abroad and that much less leverage by foreign suppliers.

The alligator is making a comeback in Florida — so much so that "urban alligators" have become a pest problem in communities bordering the Everglades.

ONLY A COUPLE of decades ago this descendant of the dinosaurs was in danger of being hunted to extinction. Thanks to a federal ban on the sale of alligator hides and products, it has grown to such numbers that last year the Florida Game and Fresh Water Commission received 10,000 complaints of alligators invading residential canals and swimming pools or sunning themselves in backyards.

Fortunately, the alligators are more of a nuisance than a danger, though they can range up to 12 feet in length. There have been few reported attacks on humans (pets and poultry are another matter), and most Floridians welcome their reappearance.

If these lowly reptiles can survive urbanization, maybe we smart mammals can, too.

'Welfare cut a good thing'

I truly resent the column "Charity A Loser in 95th Congress," by Martha Angle and Robert Walters. They stated, "Congress was out to punish the poor at home and abroad." Funny, I thought their purpose was to punish the tax paying working person! They complain that legal aid for the poor is a pittance in relation to the federal budget. Does that mean when my furnace needs to be replaced that I would have to rush out and spend the same amount on a diamond ring to keep it even in the budget? Seems to me the "poor" get everything as it is — welfare, food stamps, subsidized housing, free clinics, medicaid, college scholarships, etc. Who do they think pays for all this? the taxpayer, that's who! As for free abortions, that could go on and on. Why don't the women take the pill or be sterilized?

As for the House denying benefits to "less than honorable" discharges for the Vietnam Veterans, what is the advantage of doing the right thing if you reap the same rewards for doing as you please? Don't forget the taxpayer pays for these benefits too. For those who served honorably, we would be more than happy to pay for their benefits.

They complain about Congress cutting foreign aid. My question is, what took them so long and why didn't they cut more? Why should it always be the United States' problem to take care of the world? You may have noticed how many countries we have helped, hate us. Can you name another country in history that has won the battle and then built up the defeated countries, letting them become prosperous again? Can you name another country that would take in and care for so many Vietnamese and now consider taking in 50,000 Indonesians because they are depressed? I am also depressed when I see how much of our income is taken out for taxes for our giveaway programs. These people will be living off the already burdened taxpayers. If they should learn the language and desire to work, they would put someone else out of a job and we have unemployment here now. More people use more energy and aren't we short enough of gas, electricity, oil and water, already? If you remember, the Vietnamese wanted to go back to their own country after we insisted they come here. Why don't we let people stay in their own country with their own people?

Yes, most of the families in the U.S. are doing well, but isn't it because both adults work to try to get the things in life to make it more pleasant? We work for things, not ask the government to give them to us! It is very hard to try to save so you won't be a burden on anyone, with the large amount taken out for taxes to take care of everyone else. It's as if we were being punished for not being lazy!

Everyone I talk to feels the same way about all our giveaway programs. There are more of us middle class taxpayers, who bear most of the burden for the expense of these programs. How long will it take us before we say "ENOUGH,"? I will gladly pay the taxes to keep up the defense of this country and for the truly needy and disabled, but I certainly am sick of us having to pay such a large part of the money we earn, to take care of those who are able to work and supporting countries other than our own!

Worthy of note

They say everything improves with time and it must be true. What started out with a few 7 to 10-year-old kids decorating their bikes on the Fourth of July has grown into a huge Riverhurst neighborhood event. In spite of the very warm weather this year, the parade was just fantastic as were the costumes and floats and the spirit of the children and their parents.

It takes quite a bit of effort and time to plan the parade each year and I would like to thank the people who make it possible. Among them are Officer Friendly and his friends, Bill and Steve, who are the highlight of the parade, Dick Doretti of Doretti Pharmacy, Jack O'Brien of Buttermaid Bakeries, Red Meidel from the Teamsters Union, Kohl's Food Store and Frank and Kathy Zima for their donations and my co-chairmen all these years, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Korper.

I would especially like to thank all of the newcomers who along with their children showed such enthusiasm with their costumes and floats. Also, we were honored this year with very special guests who marched with the children and later joined them for refreshments, Mayor Carolyn Krause and her husband.

Homosexuality—issue of civil rights or morality?

by BRAD KNICKERBOCKER

(A news analysis)

Key question as both sides in the "gay rights" dispute marshal forces and arguments for a growing national debate on homosexuality: Is the issue one of civil rights or morality?

Last month's well-publicized referendum in Dade County, Fla., repeating a local ordinance banning discrimination against homosexuals in housing and employment, by no means answered the question. What it has done, say spokesmen for both sides, is raise important questions that must be faced by Americans and their elected leaders.

In more than two dozen states, legislation — some outlawing discrimination against homosexuals, some repealing such a position — has been proposed. In addition, there are 39 cities and counties where laws upholding gay rights now exist.

IN GENERAL, the post-Miami current of official action seems to be running against gay activists.

A gay rights bill in Massachusetts has passed one branch of the Legislature, but a vote in the other branch was postponed and an amendment added that would put the question to the public. The only other place where there has been such a vote is Boulder, Colo., where an ordinance banning discrimination against homosexuals was defeated.

Gay rights legislation in California, Maine, and Oregon has stalled, and recent action at the national level also has gone against gay activists.

In Congress the House has voted to deny homosexuals free legal services now provided the poor and denied access to federal housing to homosexuals. Support for proposed legislation that would have added those who hold atypical "sexual or affectional preference" to minorities protected under the federal Civil Rights Act apparently has dwindled.

PRESIDENT CARTER said recently that homosexuality "is a subject I don't particularly want to involve myself in," but added that it is "certainly not a substitute family life."

Despite such a trend, gay activists say they are optimistic.

"I think it's a mistake to say that this has been a defeat for us," says Ronald Gold, spokesman for the National Gay Task Force, a New York-based organization that coordinates the activities of 1,800 gay groups across the country. "I think it's been a great success for us."

Gold and other gay activists point to the many well-attended demonstrations recently held around the United States in support of gay rights.

"THE DADE COUNTY thing has created a mass movement that didn't exist before," says David Goodstein, publisher of Advocate, the nation's largest newspaper for homosexuals (circulation: 300,000). "It's like what Selma, Ala., was to the blacks and the early programs were to the Jews."

Gay activists now are mounting "a major educational campaign" aimed at civic, labor, professional, minority, and (in particular) church groups, Gold said.

Gay activists now are mounting "a major educational campaign" aimed at civic, labor, professional, minority, and (in particular) church groups, Gold said.

Such questions as "what is homosexuality, is it a threat to people, is it something we have to protect people from, how do you look at the Biblical injunctions, and so forth" will be confronted head-on, he said. "We're ready to respond; we want to talk about these questions."

Officials of the United Church of Christ recently recommended for approval by the 1.8 million church membership a study urging decriminalization of "private sexual acts between consenting adults," and recognizing that "traditional marriage is not the only stable living unit."

FOR THEIR PART, the anti-gay rights forces that prevailed in Miami and were reported to be readying a nationwide campaign seem to be lying low for the moment. Singer Anita Bryant and her family have just begun "a vacation for most of the summer," according to a spokesman for the National Committee to Save Our Children, the group which she led in Miami in a successful effort to defeat the ordinance.

The group is gathering information from other parts of the country that have passed or are considering gay-rights legislation, but will not enter such debates unless "we are invited to come in by a responsible group," says Mike Thompson, spokesman for the group.

But the question of whether homosexuality should be treated as an "alternate life-style" rahter than abnormal if not immoral seems no closer to resolution than before it was raised in such sharp tones.

"Many of our laws are based upon Biblical values or religious values, and I don't think the nation has to apologize for that," Thompson said. Thompson advocates "reasonable discriminaton" that would, for example, distinguish between "a teacher of civil engineering in a junior college and an open homosexual, flaunting homosexual employed as an elementary-school teacher, or a teacher of junior high school sex education."

GAY ACTIVISTS like Gold, on the other hand, say "we have never favored the idea that the rights of a minority ought to be put up to a popular vote."

"We are talking about survival," says Goodstein. "That's true of any civil rights struggle."

"The other side of the human rights aspect is that the right of normal citizens are abrogated by this type of law (guaranteeing equal rights for homosexuals,)) counters Thompson. "It doesn't allow us to make a reasonable choice. It doesn't allow us to distinguish between those who are offensive and those who are inoffensive."

DR. BENJAMIN SPOCK, noted pediatrician and author, recently told a San Francisco news conference that parents have nothing to fear from homosexual teachers.

Social philosopher Michael Novak, however, says that aside from the question of teachers, general acceptance of homosexuality can influence children. "Because public approval changes, the conduct of young people necessarily changes," he says.

"The answer in my view is to depoliticize the issue," he said. "The mistake is to think we can reform the morals of society by politics."

No outage of network brain power

by DIANE MERMIGAS

The three major television networks Thursday were hustling to normalize their regular programming and news operations in the aftermath of New York's second largest power outage.

People throughout the country were alerted almost immediately to the blackout Wednesday night as their television sets suddenly went blank.

Skeleton crews of news reporters, producers and technicians at CBS, ABC and NBC headquarters in New York City were faced with the dilemma of continuing primetime programing and transmitting information about the unfolding East Coast drama without light and with virtually no power source.

DESPITE THE simultaneously breaking story about an American helicopter being shot down over North Korea to complicate matters, all three networks succeeded in their tasks.

What saved the day, officials said Thursday, were auxiliary power units the networks developed for just such emergencies after New York's last power outage in 1965.

The networks rely on a power station in Buffalo, N.Y., to transmit their programming over telephone lines. When the electrical power went out at about 8:34 p.m. Wednesday (Chicago time), network programming halted for about 10 minutes while the networks switched their power lines to auxiliary generators or back up transmitters on the West Coast.

Although programming was delayed about 15 minutes, ABC eventually resumed with "Baretta," followed by "Charlie's Angels," and NBC resumed with the comedy pilot "Susan and Sam," followed by "Kingston: Confidential." Only CBS had a problem restoring its movie, "Made for Each Other." It was finally replaced with an old episode of "The Bill Cosby Show."

THE NETWORK news bulletins about blackout events, which ironically only persons in other parts of the country and not in New York benefited from, were not as easy to dispatch.

NBC and CBS set up makeshift studios in their dimly lit newsrooms, utilizing portable cameras and auxiliary power packs. Both offered candid and informative news reports live from New York during and after late local Chicago newscasts.

ABC, in a compounded bind because many of its technicians are out on strike, resorted to doing live news reports from its Washington studios where neither electrical or man power were in short supply.

"Everybody pitched in at our place here Wednesday night. I had one 63-year-old news producer walk down 28 flights of stairs and seven blocks to get to work, and he took pictures of what was going on all the way here," said Gerry Solomon, a producer of the "NBC Nightly News."

"THERE WERE a lot of us around because half of us were in a bar on the ground floor of the RCA building where the studios are, having a drink before we went home. When the lights went out, we walked up five flights of stairs to go back to work," he said.

Network news staffers caught cat naps during the night, stranded at the studio and busy covering the events of the blackout. Reporters slept slumped over their typewriters while some technicians stretched out on the floor. "Couches were at a premium," Solomon said, "and I got one of them for about an hour."

Lindstrom says helicopter not in N. Korean airspace

by DEBBE JONAK

The U. S. helicopter shot down by North Korean gunners was not in enemy territory when hit by gunfire, Rev. Paul Lindstrom, chairman of the national Remember the Pueblo Committee, charged Thursday.

Information from a "highly placed" U. S. Defense Dept. source also revealed the North Koreans lured the aircraft into the demilitarized zone by moving rocks marking its boundaries, Lindstrom, a Prospect Heights pastor, said.

"Our source told us that preliminary investigations reveal the helicopter strayed into the demilitarized zone as a result of rock boundary markers being moved by the North Koreans in order to draw aircraft into their airspace," he said.

"THE EHLICOPTER, when first fired upon, was not in North Korean territory. It was only due to the maiming of the chopper that it inadvertently crossed the border."

Lindstrom entered the national spotlight in 1968 when he organized the Pueblo committee, now a 7,000-member organization. The committee sought the release of crewmen and return of the U.S.S. Pueblo, which was captured by North Korea.

Defense sources have leaked secret information to him during various crises involving North Korea, he said, such as the Pueblo incident and the 1969 downing of a U. S. Navy plane almost 100 miles off the Korean coast.

Lindstrom Thursday reactivated the Pueblo committee to demand strong retaliatory action by the United States.

"THE UNARMED PLANE on a routine cargo flight with four personnel aboard was wantonly attacked without warning," Lindstrom said.

While official reports say three of the crew were killed, he said his source indicated there may be two survivors including the pilot. One of the crew was shot and killed as he exited from the helicopter after it was forced to the ground, Lindstrom said.

When the helicopter first wandered into the demilitarized zone, United Nations Command Post personnel fired a yellow smoke grenade to warn the pilot, he said.

"The helicopter landed for three minutes as equipment was checked. After the plane lifted off and began to turn south, the pilot contacted the aircraft controller and stated he was receiving fire," he said.

"THE LAST COMMUNIQUE between the crew and the U. N. command aircraft controllers indicated that the helicopter had been hit, one crewman was seriously injured, the pilot was unable to navigate the damaged craft and the helicopter was going down," he said.

Calling the North Koreans' action an "act of deliberate murder," Lindstrom called on President Carter to take "convincing" retaliatory action and demand immediate release of survivors.

"Will our present administrative leaders allow survivors of this latest incident to be subjected to 335 days of barbaric torture, as were the crew of the U.S.S. Pueblo?" he said.

Lindstrom pastors the Church of Christian Liberty and Academy, 203 E. Camp McDonald Rd., Prospect Heights.

He aid the Pueblo committee members from 42 states and several foreign countries will contact Washington representatives, demanding a full investigation and the release of survivors.

"We will travel to Washington or Korea or anywhere else as necessary," Lindstrom said.

Friedman rips Social Security 'myths'

by DAVID R. FRANCIS

Economist Milton Friedman has no respect. His conservative friends attack President Jimmy Carter's Social Security proposals and all they get is a verbal back-of-the-hand from the Nobel Prize-winning economist.

True, Dr. Friedman has some criticism of Carter's proposals. But this one-time adviser to Republican right-winger Barry Goldwater saves his most devastating comments for those conservatives who perpetuate "myths" about the Social Security system.

For instance, Rep. Joe D. Waggonner, D-La., has been quoted as saying the Carter proposals are a "total departure" from the tradition of relating Social Security benefits to contributions. The Carter plan, he said, would turn Social Security into welfare.

The fact is, says Friedman in a cassette service offered by Instructional Dynamics, Inc., Chicago, that Social Security is "primarily a welfare program."

HE ADDS: "THOSE people today who are receiving Social Security benefits are receiving sums vastly in excess of what their own taxes would pay for." The bulk of their benefits are paid for by the Social Security taxes levied on today's working population. Further, the relationship between taxes paid and benefits received is "almost random," he charged.

Friedman termed Rep. Bill Archer, R-Tex., some 40-odd years out of date when the congressman said the Carter measures would mean "the destruction of the insurance characteristics of the Social Security system."

Friedman said, "The Social Security system has never been an insurance system in any sense that the term would be used for a private insurance arrangement. It never has been a system under which the payments which individuals made represented the actuarial benefits to which they were entitled to receive."

Indeed, Carter's proposals are designed to raise Social Security revenues to cover a developing deficit in the combined trust funds covering Old Age and Survivors Insurance and Disability Insurance. These funds now amount to $41 billion. But they will fall to zero in 1982 if present payroll tax and Social Security benefits continue unchanged. The next year — 1983 — they would go $14.83 billion into the hole.

FRIEDMAN RECKONS that a genuine insurance scheme — where the earnings from the fund would pay for benefits — would require a trust fund of $2 trillion or $3 trillion. He does not favor creation of such a fund, noting that such a fund could permit the "complete and utter socialization of the whole American economy" by buying up all private enterprises.

However, the prominent economist does favor abolition of the "myth" that Social Security contains anything more than "a small insurance element."

He favors Carter's proposal to use general revenues to finance partially Social Security benefits because it would tend to destroy the insurance myth. It would be an "entering wedge" toward complete use of the general fund to pay for Social Security.

"Social Security taxes," Friedman said "are among the heaviest taxes now imposed. Two-thirds of workers pay more in the form of Social Security taxes than they pay in the form of income taxes."

Now, most conservatives attack Carter's plan to use general revenues just because they see it as an "entering wedge." Friedman — who certainly does not like big government either — is more subtle.

He said the public is willing to pay high Social Security taxes because they think of it as an insurance scheme. If that myth is destroyed, they will not be willing to pay such high taxes. Then it will be more difficult for Carter to launch new expensive government programs, such as a national health scheme.

ALTHOUGH FAVORING the use of general revenues, Friedman does attack the President's proposal that would require employers to pay Social Security taxes on all employe earnings from 1981 on, while raising in steps the wage base on which employes are taxed but keeping an upper limit. This year the wage base is $16,500 for both sides.

This, says Friedman, "would tend to foster the myth that the Social Security system has so sedulously cultivated that the tax on the employer is paid by someone other than the employee."

Most economists would agree with the point made by Friedman that even the employer-paid Social Security taxes must be covered over time either by higher prices or smaller wage increases. They can only partially come out of profits, and then only for a relatively short time. otherwise, business would lack funds to reinvest in future job-creating plant and equipment.

Whether one agrees with Friedman on the need to trim government or not, it is good to have such straight talkers about.

Edison stock loses investor power

by United Press International

Consolidated Edison stock was battered Thursday on the few stock exchanges that opened for trading in the wake of New York City's massive power blackout that resulted in losses of millions of dollars to America's markets.

The New York and American Stock Exchanges, the nation's largest, along with the Philadelphia and Boston exchanges were closed. All New York commodities exchanges were shut, along with the Chicago Mercantile Exchange. The Chicago Board of Trade opened late.

After receiving permission from the Securities & Exchange Commission, the Pacific Coast, Midwest and Cincinnati stock exchanges opened for business, as did the National Assn. of Securities Dealers' over-the-counter market. NASD, however, did not provide quotations.

The SEC, in granting permission, warned the exchanges they would be required to advise customers and the commission of any unusual problems. Further, they were required to inform customers of the unusual circumstances of the day itself.

Trading on all markets was sharply reduced because of the disruptions in New York City.

Edison, the beleaguered utility under attack for the blackout which left parts of New York without power for more than 19 hours, fell 7/8 to 24 1/8 a share on both the Pacific and Midwest exchanges. It was the second most active issue on the Pacific, with 27,200 shares changing hands. It did not trade on the Cincinnati exchange.

IBM was a standout, jumping 2 1/4 to 263 3/8 on the Pacific Coast. The computer giant reported second quarter earnings of $4.44 a share, up from the $3.94 reported a year ago. The computer giant's results were better than most analysts had anticipated.

United Merchants & Manufacturers, which filed earlier this week for reorganization under Chapter XI of the bankruptcy laws, was the most active Pacific Coast issue, falling 1 3/4 to 2 7/8 on 29,500 shares. UMM recently closed its Robert Hall clothing stores.

Memorex was the third most active Pacific issue, up 1 1/2 to 27 3/8 on 26,600 shares.

Park, office, restaurants planned at Higgins-Rte. 53

A third, five-story office building, two new restaurants and a park are under construction at the Walden residential-commercial development in Schaumburg, the Walden Investment Corporation has announced.

The development, located on 155 acres at Higgins Road and Ill. Rte. 53, will include a new 80,000-square-foot office building, TGI Friday's and Dutch Pantry restaurants and a park.

The new construction will join two existing five-story office buildings, the Sheraton Inn-Walden Hotel, and an apartment-town home residential community.

Construction is expected to be completed by February 1978.

Entrust Management Co., an affiliate of Walden, manages the development and is leasing agent for the office buildings.

TGI Friday's Restaurant will be a multi-level restaurant and lounge, featuring stained-glass windows and antiques, while the Dutch Pantry will be part of a national chain of family restaurants.

The restaurants are expected to open by December 1977.

A NEW OFFICE BUILDING identical to two already occupied at the Walden residential-commercial development in Schaumburg, plus two restaurants and a park, are under construction at Walden with completion scheduled for Februay 1978. Leases for the office building, identical to the one above, are being negotiated by the Entrust Management Co., an affiliate of Walden Investment Corporation.

Different ways to use municipals

Jane Bryant Quinn

Staying ahead

NEW YORK — Investors in municipal bond funds and trusts have had a good year. The price of bonds has gone up about 5 per cent, so there's a small capital gain. Meanwhile, you have been getting monthly income that's all, or largely, tax free.

The interest rate on municipals has fallen off, thanks to increasing confidence in many city issues, strong demand from investors and the improved inflation outlook. But it's still high enough to be attractive. Municipal bond funds and trusts now pay in the area of 5 to 6 per cent.

In the 36 per cent tax bracket, a tax-free 5.5 per cent is the equivalent of 8.6 per cent taxable. (This bracket applies to couples filing a joint return on a taxable income of $24,000 to $28,000, or to single people with a taxable income of $18,000 to $20,000.)

THE EQUIVALENT yield on many of the tax-free funds still is a touch better than the rate paid on taxable corporate bond funds, so they remain top choice for higher-bracket income-minded investors. If the municipal funds contain a large number of bonds from your own state, a good part of the income also will be free of state income taxes. By contrast, corporate-bond income is fully taxable on the state level.

Investors in municipal mutual funds may, however, have small tax liabilities they didn't expect. You'll owe income taxes on interest the fund earns on its small amount of Treasury bills and similar securities that it holds. And year-end, you'll receive your share of the year's taxable capital gains or capital losses.

Municipal bond analysts interviewed last week by my associate, Linda Rubey, said they expect the market to remain relatively stable for the remainder of the year. They think interest rates may drop a little more, which means further small capital gains may be in the wings.

For investors seeking tax-free income there are two types of funds:

Managed funds, which started coming out eight months ago, are just like any other mutual fund. You can buy of sell shares at any times, at net asset value. The fund's managers can change the mix of bond investments according to market conditions.

The interest income you get from managed funds rises and falls in line with general interest rates and changes in the funds investments. When you sell, you'll have a capital gain or loss, depending on what's happened in the bond market and how the fund has done. Many funds charge no sales commission (among them, Dreyfus Tax Exempt Bond Fund, Fidelity Municipal Bond Fund and Scudder Managed Municipal Bond Fund), but there's an annual management fee, in the area of 1 per cent.

BY CONTRAST, a municipal bond unit trust, sold by big brokerage houses such as Merrill Lynch; Nuveen; and Paine Webber, is a specific portfolio of bonds that the trust expects to hold until maturity. You get a predictable income not affected by changes in the bond market.

There's little possibility of capital loss or capital gain unless you want to sell before maturity. In that case, the brokerage house generally buys the shares at net asset values and sells them to someone else. When the bonds all mature in 15 to 30 years, depending on the fund, the trust terminates.

So far, the yield on unit trusts has been higher than the yield on managed funds. Unit trusts generally charge a sales commission of 2 to 4.5 per cent, but no annual management fee.

The new managed funds believe they can do better than unit trusts in the long run, because they have the flexibility to buy and sell bonds according to market conditions. Whether that's actually an advantage remains to be seen. If interest rates decline over the long term, unit trusts may do better, because they've locked in today's high interest rates.

In general, the two types of funds are for two types of investors. If you have a sum you want to invest for long-term tax-free income, with no immediate plans to sell, consider the unit trusts. But if you want to buy for income and capital gains, expecting to sell the fund as soon as the bond market shows signs of turning down, consider no-load managed funds.

Automakers' crying wolf on clear air

An Environmental Protection Agency official said Wednesday automakers "are crying wolf in the usual way" with claims that assembly lines will stop in August if no new clean air legislation is enacted by Congress. "I don't figure any auto industry plants will have to shut down," Eric Stork, deputy assistant administrator for Mobile Source Air Pollution Control, told reporters at the Automotive News World Congress. But Chrysler Corporation's John Riccardo said automakers are not "crying wolf." "We are simply stating the facts," Riccardo said. "I can't believe congress wants to do anything but keep the auto industry vibrant. All that needs to be done is for them to get busy and enact the amendments into law."

Chicago 'safer' from blackouts

It would take an act of sabotage or a major disaster for Chicago to suffer a blackout similar to the one that hit New York City Wednesday night.

"We'd have to have four or five of our interties (major interconnecting transmission lines) knocked out for a similar thing to happen," said Jerry Stanbrough of Commonwealth Edison.

The New York blackout was caused by the loss of only one transmission line.

CHICAGO IS in a good position for electrical power, being located at the hub of a Midwest power system. Commonwealth Edison, which services Chicago and most of Northern Illinois, is part of the Mid-American Interpool Network connecting it to utility companies in Illinois, Wisconsin, Missouri and upper Michigan.

"In addition to this connection system, we also have very strong tie lines to the American Electric Power System, which is a holding company for a number of utilities to the east of us," Edison's Bernadette Savard said.

Edison officials maintain that their automatic switching system would isolate any problem to prevent a power outage from cascading into a major regional blackout.

To back up that claim, Stanbrough pointed to an incident about 10 years ago when a tornado tore through a transmission line in south central Illinois.

"That is analagous to what happened in New York," he said, noting that one transmission line was lost in both cases. In Illinois, however, "it was just a flicker."

STANBROUGH SAID New York also is more vulnerable because its system is more spread out. Congestion, lack of land and environmental problems have prevented construction of power plants near the city, he said.

"They have to rely on sources much further away and that makes them more vulnerable," he said.

Edison has 11 fossil fuel plants and three nuclear plants providing a generating capacity of 16,399 megawatts. Nuclear plants are providing as much as 46 per cent of the area's electricity.

Ms. Savard said Edison operates with greater reserve margins than New York's Consolidated Edison. As a result, "we've never had anything like New York."

Kravec's live arm rouses sleepy Sox

by BOB GALLAS

The White Sox bats were still in peaceful slumber Thursday afternoon as the Sox could muster only four hits against the Toronto Blue Jays at Comiskey Park.

But that didn't matter. Even on just a few hours' sleep, Ken Kravec was wide awake.

Though the Sox got only four hits, they put up two runs and that was enough for Kravec who pitched perhaps the best game of his career Thursday afternoon before 15,937 fans, a three-hitter that helped the Sox to a 2-1 win.

"I JUST HAD a feeling today that I was going to pitch a good game," said the likeable southpaw who has amassed a 6-2 record since being recalled from the minors six weeks ago. "I didn't know if I was going to win, but I knew I would pitch a good game."

After a lengthy doubleheader Wednesday night that ended on a sour note past midnight when the Sox lost the second game in the 11th inning, the team came in at all times Thursday morning, some showing the fatigue of the night before.

But Chet Lemon had enough left in him to punch out a key seventh inning hit that broke an 0-for-24 slump and tied the score at 1-1 against lefthander Jerry Garvin, who was equally brilliant on the sweltering afternoon, pitching the distance but ending up with the loss.

After Wednesday night's marathon Kravec had trouble sleeping and ended up watching late night television to past 3 a.m. instead of getting his sleep. He was alarmed warming up in the bullpen because of one minor thing — his pitches "weren't doing a thing."

"BRIAN (DOWNING) warmed me up and was kidding me, telling me to make sure I mixed my pitches well," said Kravec. "I didn't have a thing."

Once the game started Kravec got his act together, as he says, giving up just one hit, a bloop single, over the first six innings, during which he retired the side in order five times and faced the minimum amount of hitters all six times, thanks to a double play.

"I had so much confidence out there that I could have thrown any pitch on a 3-2 count." To make a living in this game you have to be consistent. And for overall consistency, this was my best game ever."

"That's the best I've seen him throw," said catcher Jim Essian, who was on the receiving end of Kravec's tosses. "He put the ball anywhere I'd want it."

KRAVEC WAS breezing along until the seventh when Steve Skaggs led off with a booming triple to center field and later scored on an infield grounder to second base as Jorge Orta's throw to the plate was high and late. Up to that point, the Sox had scratched out only two hits off Garvin, though they loaded the bases without scoring in the fourth on a single, walk and hit batsman. But Kravec didn't have long to wonder if he was going to lose a 1-0 heartbreaker.

Eric Soderholm led off the seventh with a double and Lemon followed with his run producing single that tied the score and took a load off Chet's mind. He has been in and out of the lineup with pulled leg muscles and hadn't had a hit since July 3.

"I thought he (Blue Jays leftfielder Al Woods) had caught it. I didn't see the ball drop," said Lemon. "I almost made a U-turn back to the dugout, I'm so used to going back there," he added with a grin.

The Sox won the game on an unearned run in the eighth when Garvin walked Richie Zisk and Lamar Johnson with two outs. Up stepped Eric Soderholm who smashed a shot that bounced off third baseman Dave McKay and rolled down the left field line. Zisk scampered home from second with the go ahead run.

KRAVEC DIDN'T have his usual strikeout pitch and struck out only four Thursday but his control was near perfect. Fifteen of the first 18 Sox putouts were either by strikeouts or infield outs and Kravec didn't walk a man all afternoon.

Despite the 92-degree heat at gametime, a sweltering sun and high humidity, Kravec was still strong at the end. "I felt good enough to go the 10th and 11th innings if need be," he said.

Kravec's recent improvement has Sox management hopeful. His success will be a key to the Sox second half drive. The club has only three lefthanders, Kravec, Wilbur Wood and reliever Dave Hamilton.

SOX SHORTS: Ralph Garr's 18-game hitting streak came to an end Thursday as Garr went 0-for-4 against Garvin . . . The Boston Red Sox come into town for a three-game weekend series starting tonight and the pitching lineup will look like this: Tonight it will be Wilbur Wood vs. righthander Bob Stanley; Saturday night's game will pit Francisco Barrios vs. righthander Reggie Cleveland; Sunday's single game will see Steve Stone pitch against righthander Fergie Jenkins of the Bosox.

HEADS UP. Toronto Blue Jays outfielder Bob Bailor goes head first into second base with a successful steal in the seventh inning of the Sox 2-1 win Thursday. Bailor had reached first on a fielder's choice that produced the only Blue Jays run.

Angels' Ryan wears a halo but no Star

ANAHEIM — Nolan Ryan, left off the American League All-Star team by Billy Martin and then selected as a replacement, said Thursday night he would refuse to play in next Tuesday night's game against the National League.

"Tell him to make another selection," said Ryan, who shares the AL lead in victories with 12, leads the majors in strikeouts with 222 in 181-2/3 innings and has a 2.58 earned run average.

"If I'm not good enough to be picked on the merits of the season I've had, I'm not going," Ryan said.

MARTIN, THE MANAGER of the New York Yankees, selected four starting pitchers and four relievers in his original choices for the AL staff. The starters, however, included injured Frank Tanana of the Angels and Mark Fidrych of the Tigers and when they officially were scratched Thursday, Ryan was named as a replacement.

"I only have one bad statistic and that's my walks (127)," Ryan said, adding with a big grin: "The rest of my statistics are comparable to anybody's.

Ryan, who could be headed for the first 400-strikeout season of any pitcher in history, appeared to be a certain choice for the team but Martin gave no explanation for passing him over and loading his team with relief pitchers like Dave LaRoche and Jim Kern, hardly the big names that would lend drama to the game.

"A WEEK AGO, I had anticipated going, but after getting the results, I'm disappointed," Ryan said. "My wife and I are making other plans. We're going to spend a couple of days at the beach."

General Manager Harry Dalton of the Angels said it was a "major oversight" to leave Ryan off the team in the first place, "but I think he should go."

Other pitchers named to the AL staff by Martin were Baltimore's Jim Palmer, Oakland's Vida Blue, Boston's Bill Campbell, and the Yankees' Sparky Lyle.

Next assignment: Phillies

PHILADELPHIA — The Cubs, having undergone 36 of the most bizarre hours in baseball history, prepared for tonight's twilight-night doubleheader against the second-place Phillies by saying a prayer to Thomas Edison.

The Eastern-Division leaders escaped from powerless New York with one loss, one postponement and one incomplete. In that game, the Cubs are leading the Mets, 2-1, with New York batting in the sixth inning.

THE CONTINUATION of the suspended game — delayed by Wednesday night's massive power failure — will await the Cubs' final trip to New York, Sept. 16-18.

The game was originally supposed to be resumed before the scheduled Thursday afternoon contest, but the continuing emergency situation in the nation's largest city prevented any such plans.

Now the Thursday game, in addition, will have to be made up when the Cubs return to town.

So the Cubs must turn their attention to Mike Schmidt, Greg Luzinski, and the boys.

With the Phillies beginning to breathe down the Cubs' frontrunning backs, this four-game series takes on added significance. Cub manager Herman Franks will probably go with Bill Bonham (9-8) and Mike Krukow (7-6) in the twinbill tonight. Either Steve Renko (0-1) or Rick Reuschel (12-3) will pitch Saturday and Ray Burris (9-8) is slated to take the mound Sunday.

BURRIS, AMID RUMORS that he is headed for a spell in the bullpen, pitched six strong innings in the suspended game Wednesday night. The towering righthander allowed just two hits and threw shutout ball until Mike Vail ripped an opposite-field home run in the fifth inning.

The Cubs continue to find road trips hazardous to their hitting health. In 15 innings in New York, the team managed just 10 hits with all four runs coming across on a pair of two-run homers. Met pitchers Jon Matlack, Skip Lockwood and Jerry Koosman struck out a total of 22 Cub batters.

In doubleheader competition this year the Cubs have won one, lost one, and split one. In four games this season against the Phillies, the Cubs are 2-2 with both wins coming in Philadelphia.

Cubs can't enjoy New York after dark

SO WHAT'S THE problem already, ask 30,000 New York Met fans Wednesday night when the lights went out all over Gotham. The Cubs were leading the Mets, 2-1, in the sixth but the game had to be suspended, to be continued in September. Auxiliary lights operated by emergency generator, plus auto headlights in center field, give Shea Stadium an eery look.

BY ART MUGALIAN

Herman Franks, Cubs' manager and guiding light, answered the phone in the Shea Stadium clubhouse Thursday afternoon, harumphed his best harumph, and let out two or three mild expletives.

Then he came to the point.

"Here we are sitting in the dark trying to get ready for a ball game," he said to whomever was sitting in the dark with him, "and some guy wants a story."

FRANKS AND HIS Cubs were in mid-inning Wednesday night when the streets, subways and domiciles of New York were thrown into total darkness by a mammoth power failure. Baseball was out of the question.

The Cubs were ahead of the Mets, 2-1, in the bottom of the sixth when the umpires finally ended the festivities for the evening.

"I'd never seen anything like it — at least not in a city this size," said Cub third baseman Steve Ontiveros Thursday as he prepared for the continuation of the suspended game, which it turned out, was never continued.

"Actually," said Ontiveros, "this is the worst place this could have happened, with all the people in the streets and everything."

Now, game-time was approaching. The Mets and Cubs were going to try it again in God's own sunshine and, barring an earthquake or some other natural disaster, the drama would unfold in fairly predictable fashion.

FRANKS, SOMEHWAT LESS than his usual affable self, was busy preparing a lineup — no easy task in the dark. Relief ace Bruce Sutter was at that moment on the trainer's table getting rubbed down. Most of the rest of the Cubs were loosening up on the field.

"Hey, do you want to talk to Randy Hundley?" asked Franks.

Hundley couldn't find the phone in the artificial midnight.

"We got some lights here," protested Franks. "It's not completely dark in here."

THE CUB MANAGER refused to comment on the wisdom of playing a baseball game during an extreme state of emergency.

"Hey, I only do what they tell me to do," he said.

Finally, they told Herman and his men to forget it — forget baseball in New York at least until September, by which time it is expected this city of 10 million will have found the light switch.

FOR THE CUBS, it's on to a doubleheader with the Phillies tonight.

Good-bye, New York. Hello, Philadelphia, you're looking better.

Lions shut out Meadows again

Logan Square's Mike Marshall shut out Rolling Meadows for the second consecutive time, yielding just two hits Thursday in the Lions' 3-0 legion victory. The steady right-hander, who blanked Meadows 9-0 July 7, is now 6-2.

Logan Square, 29-5, picked up all the offense it was going to need when Jim Passolt walked in the first inning and finally scored on a wild pitch from starter and loser Ray Gawron.

The Lions added single tallies in the fifth and seventh innings as insurance. Meadows ended its own chance to tie or move ahead in the final inning when the umpire called the game after he was verbally abused by the Meadows team members.

MARSHALL, WHO fanned eight and walked two, helped at the plate by swatting three hits, including run-producers in the fifth and seventh. The hits pushed his batting average to an astronomical .535.

Marshall had a no-hitter through four innings until Randy Hanson's infielder grounder was legged out for a hit. In the sixth Jim Berg stroked a solid single to right for the losers' only other safety.

IN A GAME Wednesday night, Logan Square and Schaumburg were deadlocked 1-1 after nine innings, when the contest was halted by darkness.

Phil Czosnyka and Steve Stiert were involved in complete-game pitching performances when the game was stopped. Logan Square scored its run in the first inning on a walk and a triple by Rick Heredia.

Then Schaumburg tied the score off Czosnyka in the sixth on an error, a walk and a fielder's choice.

Schaumburg had a chance to win the game in the bottom of the ninth when Jim Passolt threw out Glen Daniels at the plate. Daniels was trying to score on Bill Bilsley's line single.

FOLLOW DIRECTIONS. White Sox fans offer their team encouragement, instructions and warnings, but rather than rely on the long ball, the Sox banded four hits into a 2-1 triumph Thursday afternoon over the Toronto Blue Jays.

But it's all in the mind

Karate brings body fitness

Don Friske

Byline report

You may know of a huge man who roams the local hot spots on weekend nights. You may have even seen him. He answers to the call of Big Bob.

One of the unusual things about Big Bob is that karate is included among his pastimes. Looking at him and knowing of his interest in the fine art of kicking and bruising leads one to assume that there is more to karate than mere self-defense.

Surely he must have gotten involved in karate for reasons beyond protecting himself in a rough situation. It must have had something to do with the sporting aspect of karate and the physical fitness that goes with it.

IT COULD BE his way of responding to the current physical fitness craze that is grasping the country.

"You get a workout and you have to keep in shape to stay with it," he said. "I don't know why I started. Maybe I just wanted to know about it."

Whatever the reason, Big Boy is involved in an athletic activity that was developed with a small body in mind. And it is the mind that matters most.

"We concentrate on the mind first," said Marshall Oh, a professional instructor in Arlington Heights. "The body and mind must be in harmony, but the mind is more important. However, you go through training in the body before you can get mind control."

HONG TAE YANG, another area instructor, spoke of the Oriental practice in a philosophical manner.

"It's like a religion or an art," he said. "It takes about six months to learn the basics. The age of our students ranges from a 6-year-old boy to a 60-year-old man and woman. Body size doesn't matter."

Karate can be taught to both small and large people. But different techniques must be used for each.

Oh has students of varying body forms, and they must adapt accordingly.

"WE HAVE PEOPLE who are 6-foot-5 with long legs and long arms. Once they develop the techniques, nobody can approach them from a close distance," Oh said. "But they cannot avoid moving a little slower than small people. They just practice developing tremendously fast speed."

The quickness that is necessary is geared more toward small limbs. Those people who take up karate can use their small frames to their advantage.

Strength is not needed, at least not the type that is developed by lifting weights.

"That's why a little kid can break three or four boards at a time," Oh explained. "When you concentrate, your power explodes. Speed, power and accuracy. Those are the basics. And speed gives power and momentum."

BUT THE QUESTION of whether karate is a sport or not is still open. Those basics that Oh lists are assets that most athletes must acquire and maintain if they are to be successful.

Tae Kwon Do is a form of karate that is gaining popularity as a competitive athletic activity, according to Oh. "It is a sport because we use a lot of kicks instead of the hand techniques that are more traditional," he added. "There are all kinds of tournaments for this."

The world championships of Tae Kwon Do will be held Sept. 15-17 at Chicago's Amphitheater. At least 50 countries will be represented.

"This could be a one-time chance for Chicago participants because I don't think it will be in Chicago again," Oh said.

EVEN THOUGH OH realizes that karate has taken on athletic aspects, he still likes to think of it as a mind discipline. And most of the people attracted to it are chiefly interested in self-defense.

That might have run through Big Bob's mind when he decided that his massive frame could use a few extra lethal weapons.

"I haven't had to use it yet," he said, "but there's always someone bigger than you."

It is a debatable point, one that could be decided with a clean, quick chop.

Reader calls for an end to Cubs' All-Star push

Dear Editor:

Even though I'm tired of hearing all the arguments that the All-Star selections should be taken away from the fans, I think one point ought to be made. People who advocate giving the vote back to the players often forget one big problem.

They are correct in saying that the fans have turned the Classic into nothing but a popularity contest, but the chief source of the problem does not rest in the discriminating minds of the spectators. It involves the practive of having a particular club's field announcer push for votes over the public address system.

I have heard this before at Wrigley Field, and I think it should cease in future years. I say eliminate this and much of the problem might go with it.

Fans' forum

NO SUCCOR FOR SOCCER

Fans Forum:

How is it that professional soccer is a big success everywhere in the United States but in Chicago? Every city that the North American Soccer League goes into, they draw 50,000 fans. Every city except Chicago. What's the matter with Chicago sports fans? Don't they know good, live entertainment when they see it?

The Chicago Sting is deserving of support in the second biggest city in the country. If the Minnesota Kicks and the Tampa Bay Rowdies can draw 30,000 fans per game, there's no reason why the Sting shouldn't be able to do the same thing.

Soccer is a big sport in the Chicago area if you judge by the number of youth programs and park district leagues. Those people should be attending Sting games.

There's no excuse for it.

Foster slugs 3; Cruz rips Phils

From Herald Wire Services

George Foster hit three home runs and pitcher Tom Seaver added a fourth Thursday night when the Cincinnati Reds rolled to a 7-1 victory over the Atlanta Braves behind the two-hit pitching of the three-time Cy Young Award winner.

Seaver had a no-hitter until Willie Montanez doubled with one out in the seventh. Rowland Office led off the ninth with another double and scored the Braves' run on an error. Seaver notched his 10th triumph against five losses this season.

Foster's three homers gave him 23 this year and the five RBI boosted his league-leading total to 88.

PINCH-HITTER Hector Cruz doubled in the go-ahead run and scored the eventual winning run in the 11th inning to give the St. Louis Cardinals a 7-6 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies.

Earlier, Greg Luzinski hammered his 19th homer of the season for the Phils.

Jose Cruz drilled an RBI double and Joe Ferguson followed with a run-scoring single with two out in the eighth inning to rally the Houston Astros to a 4-3 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Dodgers' right-fielder Reggie Smith, returning to the lineup after a six-day rest because of nagging injuries, blasted two-home runs to drive in all three Dodgers runs.

In the AL, Boston beat Cleveland, Kansas City whipped Detroit, New York stopped Milwaukee, and Baltimore defeated Texas.

FRANK WHITE DROVE in a run in each of his first three at-bats to help the Kansas city Royals extend their winning streak to three games with a 4-3 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

White knocked in a run with a groundout in the second, a single in the fourth and a triple in the sixth. In the two-game series with Detroit, the Kansas City second baseman collected six hits and brought home five runs.

Carl Yastrzemski and Butch Hobson triggered a pair of three-run innings with solo homers as the Boston Red Sox pounded out 12 hits en route to a 7-4 victory over the Cleveland Indians.

YASTRZEMSKI, WHO passed Ted Williams as the all-time Boston hit leader when he upped his career hits to 2,655 with a fifth inning single, smacked his 17th homer over the right field fence in the fourth. Hobson hit his 17th over the centerfield fence to set off a sixth inning rally.

Reggie Jackson belted a pair of homers in the Yankees' win over the Brewers.

Pleasant day for winless pro Marti

SUTTON, Mass. — Winless veteran Fred Marti, hitting "the most unbelievable iron shots I've ever seen," rifled a tournament record 64 Thursday to take a three-stroke lead after one round of the $250,000 Pleasant Valley Classic.

Martin, 36, had eight birdies and one bogey during his opening round. After playing one under par golf on the first nine holes, the 16-year veteran carded seven birdies on the back nine to break the tournament record held by seven players.

Seven of the birdies were from within five feet, with four of them coming after iron shots had put the ball within a foot of the hole.

Ray Floyd and Dale Hayes were tied for second place after shooting opening round 67s on the par 71, 7,119-yard course.

Jack Nicklaus and Tom Watson, who staged a two-man duel in last week's British Open, were among 11 players to shoot 68. Also at 68 was Vic Regalado, the 1974 winner at Pleasant Valley Country Club.

Others at 68 were Tom Weiskopf, David Graham, George Burns, Don Bies, Frank Beard, Mark Hayes and Bob Gilder. Eighteen other golfers were tied at 69, while a total of 70 players finished above par or at even par.

NL fines two Cards for balk squawk

NEW YORK — Manager Vern Rapp and relief pitcher Clay Carroll of the St. Louis Cardinals have been fined by National League President Charles Feeney for remarks about umpire Bruce Froemming.

The two were fined an undisclosed amount for criticism of Froemming after a game played on July 8.

The game, played against the Chicago Cubs at Wrigley Field, was decided in favor of the Cubs when Carroll was charged with a bases-loaded balk with St. Louis ahead in the eighth inning. The Cubs went on to win the game when the next batter, Manny Trillo, delivered an infield hit.

After the game, Rapp and Carroll were vehement in their criticism of Froemming. "You can give (Froemming) a white uniform tomorrow," Carroll was quoted as saying.

Allen signs big pact

WASHINGTON — Washington Redskins Coach George Allen has agreed to a four-year contract extension at a salary that will make him one of the National Football League's highest paid coaches, Club President Edward Bennett Williams announced Thursday.

The Washington Post reported that the new deal will net the former Bear assistant $250,000 a year — double what he reportedly makes in his present contract, which expires after the coming season — but Wiliams refused to reveal terms. He called the newspaper story inaccurate but admitted that Allen and his attorney had negotiated a "very, very substantial" raise.

Allen's first contract with the Redskins, a seven-year pact signed in 1971, was one of the largest of its kind at the time. It contained performance bonuses and a side letter agreement giving Allen a chance to buy Redskins' stock, an option he never exercised.

Since then, such ex-college coaches as Chuck Fairbanks of New England, Dick Vermeil of Philadelphia and John McKay of Tampa Bay have negotiated lucrative deals with extensive fringe benefits and reported salaries ranging up to $250,000 a year. Allen's extension through 1981 would appear to put him in that class.

"I think George Allen deserves one of the best contracts in coaching and I think he has that," Williams said. "I don't know if it's the best or second best or third best but he deserves it.

"I said a long time ago that I'd hired my last coach. I meant it then and I mean it now. There was never any doubt we'd come to terms. There was never any real pressure to get an agreement."

Indiana Pacers receive a reprieve

The NBA Indiana Pacers announced Thursday that $800,000 in new equity had been committed to the franchise, assuring a full 1977-78 season in Indianapolis.

The capital investment came from some of the limited partners of Market Square Associates, the entity which runs Market Square Arena, home of the Pacers, club officials said.

Arena Sports Inc., the original owner of the Pacers, and Indiana Sports, Inc., a new partner in the Pacer ownership, also have invested new money in six figures toward the operation of the team.

Good football Weathers ahead for Illini program

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. — Good Weathers.

That's the long-range forecast for Illini football, according to watchers of the summer scene.

Basis for the prognostication is a 6-foot 190-pound whirlwind (a 9.8 sprinter who has never been injured) who took all honors in the Washington, D.C., sector last fall. Matt Weathers, on campus early to earn a buck, work the weights and generally acclimate himself, will be one of three freshman candidates at the UI's critical tailback position.

MATT WEATHERS

Sure, James Coleman is back for his final campaign. But he's the only junior or senior at the position. Two would-be juniors, Jersey's Sonny Holt and Californian Ted Smith, have returned home. Coleman has emerged as the lone senior tailback from a group that once included dropouts Dirk Schnittker of Rich Central and Junius Hill of Pittsburgh and converted squad members Vincent Carter (defensive back) and Dan Bulow (receiver).

THE ONLY sophomore tailback is Floridian Clarence Baker, presently wading through a large summer load of academics in order to retain his eligibility.

Small wonder new coach Gary Moeller is casting an eye toward Weathers, Lockport All-Stater Kip Carmen and 200-pound Greg Foster of St. Louis. They are the tailbacks of the future, and perhaps one of them will be called upon for immediate service.

The wide-eyed and friendly athlete from Ft. Hunt High School in Alexandria, Va., just across the bridge from Washington, has an 18-inch neck, enormous upper body development and a snug 32-inch waist. He has bench-pressed 315 pounds, exceptional for a rookie halfback.

"He's the best looking halfback I've seen on this campus since Lonnie Perrin," says Tab Bennett, UI sports information director and a former Illini tackle.

"LOOK AT HIS upper arms. You can just tell he's an athlete."

Weathers can't avoid comparisons with Perrin, now a member of the Denver Broncs. Matt won the Timmie Award as the best offensive player in the D.C. area and the Pigskin Trophy, both formerly won by Perrin.

"He flows with the tide and can cut on a dime," wrote a Washington scribe. Weathers racked 13 TDs during the regular season, three more in three playoff games and drew a flood of recruiters who recalled the exploits of the two previous standouts from that area, Russell Davis (now at Michigan) and Mel Collins (North Carolina).

"I narrowed it down to five — Penn State, Pitt, Ohio State, North Carolina and Illinois," said the stocky athlete. "I felt like Ohio State had so much depth, with All-Americans on the bench. I wanted to go where I had the best opportunity. I was turned off by Illinois until I met Moeller. He is a straight guy. That's the kind of people I want to work for."

Chicago-Mackinac race starts sailing Saturday

Yachting fans will be hoping for clear weather Saturday when 234 yachts set sail in the 70th annual Chicago to Mackinac Island (Mich.) Race. Entries will depart from a starting line set up outside the Monroe St. Harbor for the world's largest (333 miles) freshwater race.

There are two divisions of yachts, the IOR (International Ocean Racing Division)) and the LMYA (Lake Michigan Yachting Assn.) Division. The IOR Division has 166 entrants while the LMYA Division shows 68 entries. Also, each division is further split into sections, seven for IOR boats and three for LMYA yachts.

The smaller boats in LMYA Section Three will be the first to leave from the finish line. These 27 boats will set sail at noon.

After these leadoff competitors, groups of boats will leave every 15 minutes until 2:15 p.m. At that time, the big boats in IOR Section One will begin their race.

The scratch boat in the LMYA Section Three is Floridan. It is a Custom 34 piloted by the Burnham Park Yacht Club's Lee Austin.

The IOR Section One's scratch boat is Sassy, a 62-footer owned and skippered by the Bayview (Mich.) Yacht Club's E. Russel "Dutch" Schmidt.

Missing from this year's race is last year's Division One champion, Dora IV. The boat was sold over the winter by prominent North Shore industrialist and politician Lynn Williams to Ted Turner, owner of the Atlanta Braves baseball team and the Atlanta Hawks basketball team.

Turner is too busy to compete in the Mackinac Race, because he is skippering the Courageous in the America Cup's Races.

Ted's last experience with a Mackinac Race was an unpleasant one. His American Eagle finished second seven years ago to the Dora piloted by Williams. Even though the Eagle posted one of the fastest times ever in the storm-plagued event, the Dora IV won because of a corrected time.

Illini high on Weathers children, said he was closely advised by brother John, also a speedster who competed in track at the University of Minnesota.

"John said to go where I would have a chance to play early," said Matt. "He didn't want me to be treated like just another number. I like the people here, although I've never seen so much farm land. Every afternoon when I drive to Clinton to work, I can't believe the corn fields."

Looking to the reporting date of August 16, Weathers ponders:

"I wonder sometimes if I can hack it, or if I'll be sent home like some other players I know. I look up on the walls in the football office and see the pictures of all those players, and I wonder, 'Can I take it? Will I stack up in the classroom? Am I good enough as a ball carrier?' These questions are on my mind.

"I'M LEARNING the playbook and getting in shape. When the time comes, all I can do is my best. I hope it's good enough."

Even those UI staffmen acutely aware of the high attrition rate of halfbacks are confident it will be.

Engine needs overhaul for oil consumption

Doyle K. Getter

Your auto and you

Auto Column: My 1971 Ford LTD pings during acceleration but only after it warms up. I installed new plugs, points and condenser and set the timing at 6 degrees BTC. It is also burning oil, a quart every 100 miles. I advanced and retarded the timing with no success. What do you suggest?

ANTHONY CIURYLO, Niagara Falls, N.Y.

Mr. Ciurylo: You need an engine overhaul to find the cause or causes of your oil consumption. That much oil mixing with your gasoline is upsetting the gasoline's octane quality and causing the pinging. A good wet and dry compression test will tell a mechanic whether it's bad rings, general engine wear or, maybe, just the valves or valve seals.

Auto Column: My 1966 Volkswagen is in excellent condition except lately, after every rain storm, rain water is trickling out of the front left heater and the left rear heater and on to the floor but only after I start the engine. Can you help?

S. M. STEELE, Palmer, Mass.

Mr. Steele: Very likely the water drain holes in the air intake are plugged, causing the rain water to drain into the heaters because it has no where else to go.

Auto Column: I think I have been taken! While stopping to gas up in a small Georgia town, the station owner called my attention to a tiny split in one of my tires. He went on to tell, within earshot of my wife, naturally, how this could become something very serious. The upshot was that I was talked into buying two new tires and two new shock absorbers to the tune of $185.80. The tires had only 16,300 miles on them. Was this some kind of a rip-off?

HERBERT M. STOLL, Winter Park, Fla.

Mr. Stoll: A tiny surface cut in a tire tread is not serious unless the cut is deep enough to extend to the radial belt. A shock absorber that is not leaking oil or fluid generally is okay. In any event, there was no need for such haste until you could talk it over with your own regular mechanic or service manager.

Auto Column: I have a 1973 Gremlin. The car had 34,800 miles on it when the ball joints had to be replaced for the first time. Three months later they were worn out after only 2,000 miles. After another 2,500 miles they went bad again. What could be wrong?

M. D. F., Milwaukee, Wis.

Mr. D. F.: I question whether the replacement ball joints were actually worn out after only 2,000 miles of wear. If the work was done in an American Motors service department, the replacement ball joints would have been covered by their parts warranty. They should have been covered by a parts warranty wherever you got them. Go back and complain.

Auto Column: Is there any kind of an instrument available that will accurately measure the mileage per gallon of gasoline? If so, who manufactures it?

WALTER OLDENDORPH, Peoria, Ill.

Mr. Oldendorph: The most accurate way is to use a bottle tester. Many car dealerships use them when someone complains of low gas mileage. They are accurate and fast. Borroughs Tool & Equipment Co., 2429 North Burdick, Kalamazoo, Mich. 49007, manufactures them.

Continentals still in demand

by DOYLE K. GETTER

For someone to whom original cost and gasoline bills are no problem, whose objective is a complete luxury car with exceptional comfort and seating room for six passengers, the Lincoln Continental Town Car, an opulent four-door sedan, suggests a VIP status for the owner that few American cars can equal.

The energy crisis is still with us and no one with any real knowledge of it suggests that it will go away. We are told that the days of cars like this are numbered, that smaller cars are to be our new way of life.

Yet big cars are still a hot item in that luxury market where bigger is better. And so far, at least, there has been no slack in the demand. As of mid-June, Continental production was accounting for more than half of all Lincoln production this year, up 50.8% from mid-June totals a year ago.

PERHAPS SOME who were raised in an era when big luxury cars spelled social and business success are now realizing they must buy theirs now while they can. Perhaps this year's demand is the big car's Last Hurrah.

Although not much changed, the 1977 Lincoln Continentals are readily identifiable by a new radiator-style vertical grille.

It is a long car, 233 inches on a long 127.2 inch wheelbase, a couple of inches too long for the test car to fit into my garage. One may have to pass up several open parking spaces on the street before finding one the Continental will squeeze into but it is no problem at all when you hand the keys to the respectful parking attendent at the country club.

I have never had a more quiet or more comfortable ride in a car. The twin powered soft lounge seats in front and the sofa-like rear seat were covered with a rich velour fabric in the test car. The interior was trimmed with leather and a high-gloss walnut veneer.

BOTH FRONT and rear seat passengers have equal legroom, 42 inches, when the front seats are adjusted as far back as possible.

The Continental rides best on smooth, straight roads. There is no strain, no road or wind noises, even when the ribbon-type speedometer inches past the last mark, 80 miles an hour, when you find yourself sandwiched within a convoy of CB radio-equipped trucks making up some lost time.

The only engine, except in California, is a four-barrel 460 cubic inch V-8. It will accelerate the car from zero to 50 miles an hour in 9.1 seconds and from 30 to 50 miles an hour in 5.5 seconds. Four-wheel disc brakes will stop the car in 180 to 190 feet from 60 miles an hour.

I averaged 10.1 miles per gallon in a city driving test and 15.2 miles per gallon on the highway for 105 miles at 55 miles an hour.

THEN, TAKING the car on a 1,950 mile drive from Wisconsin to Oklahoma and back, at prevailing highway speeds, I averaged 12.7 miles per gallon overall from start to finish.

The base price of a Lincoln Continental sedan is $9,636 but nobody buys a base Continental. A long list of comfort, convenience and luxury options boosted the list price of the test car to $13,320.

You are going to make the deal of a lifetime!

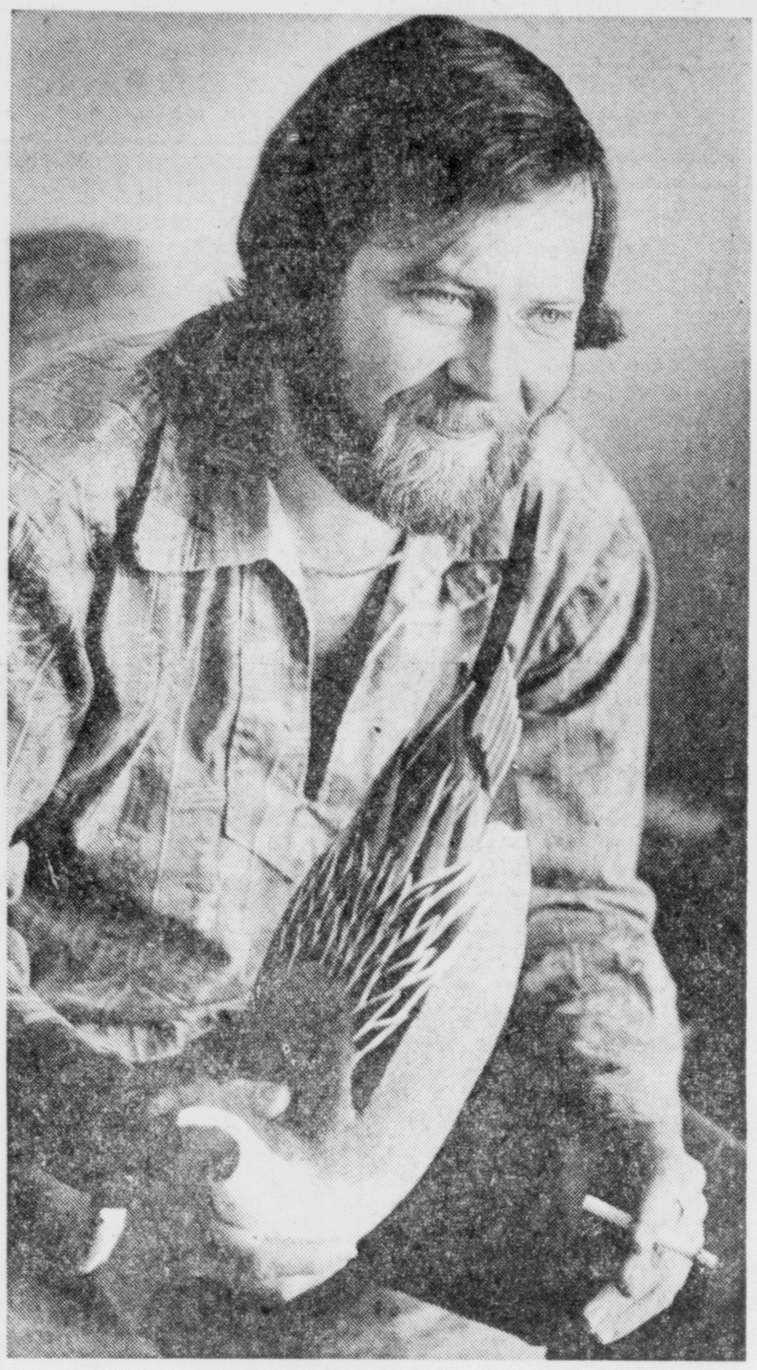
Decoy carving so realistic, you can't tell a fake from a bird



"YOU DON'T SPECULATE on something like this — you do it on commission," said T. J. Hooker of his realistically carved pintail drake decoy which won him awards at two decoy shows and commanded a price of $375.

by ELEANOR RIVES

Seven years ago, when T. J. Hooker was 22 and finishing up his education at Northern Illinois University, he chanced to pick up at a sale a book on decoy carving. Spasmodically during the next two years, he wrestled with coping saw and jackknife trying to transform a piece of spruce into something that merely resembled a duck.

Today his near-perfect carved replicas of birds have collectors and hunters begging for more. The walls of his Crystal Lake home are filling up with ribbons and awards, and he has become something of an expert in ornithology.

His craft competes for time and enthusiasm with his profession, that of audo-visual specialist and communications teacher at Oakton Community College.

NO AMOUNT OF money could cover the long hours of painstaking detail work, the constant striving for perfection, the time put into research to obtain complete accuracy in carving these birds. But today carved decoys command much more money than they did as recently as three years ago.

"Decoys have appreciated 2,000 per cent in the past three years," said T. J., who prefers his initials to his first name. "Top price for a bird then was $200, with 90 per cent of them selling for less than $40. Last year at a decoy show, a small shore bird was auctioned off for $10,000. The average price per item was a little more than $600."

Hooker explained that although decoy carving is growing rapidly as an art form, not all decoy carving is the same. It falls roughly into three categories.

FIRST, EASIEST and least expensive are the birds, usually ducks, created specifically for hunting purposes. Though exact likenesses, they have a minimum of detail and a simple paint pattern. Essentially they must be strong, durable and self-righting when placed in the water upside-down.

Second are the decorative, more stylized type decoys that people display in their home as part of the decor. These may be carved in odd positions — a bird preening itself with its bill, for example. Again, the paint pattern is simple.

The third category of decoy carving is one in which the carver goes to extreme lengths to make the bird realistic. Eyelids, nostrils, tongues are represented. Not only is each feather carved individually, but each barb of each feather must be captured in the wood, producing a texture so soft and downy looking, one involuntarily reaches out to stroke it.

"THAT IS TRULY wood sculpture," said T. J., as he showed as an example a pintail drake that had devoured 110 hours of his time, won honors in two decoy shows, and sold for $375. He pointed to another pintail made strictly for hunting purposes. It took six hours and sold for $50. The differences were apparent.

Another of Hooker's creations, a widgeon, required six months of background study before carving. So realistic is it that one feels surely a slight breeze would ruffle its feathers. He sold it to a private collector for $600.

From the time he began carving, he has had no problem selling his birds; indeed, trying to keep up with demand is more the problem. He already has orders that will keep him busy through January. He averages 200 to 220 pieces a year, hopes to get to a point where he does four outstanding pieces plus 400 simple ones annually.

"PEOPLE BUY for the oddest reasons," he said. "Some are 'best of show' collectors, or songbird collectors. I have 26 people who have said 'Anything you carve, I'll buy.' "

Well T. J. carves "anything that flies," from a full-size swan, his largest piece, to a tiny wren. He may turn out as many as 50 decoys in a month, as in the case of a Christmas order from an antique shop, or he may spend an entire month on one piece, as he did on a 28-inch red-shouldered hawk that sold for $900.

So involved did he become in his craft that at one point he had some 800 decoys in his house. "I got sick of the whole thing," he said. "I had to stop. I stayed away from it for a year and a half." Now he limits his own collection to about two dozen that he really enjoys.

HOOKER WAS FIRST a hunter, following ducks from Manitoba to Louisiana. More and more, his shooting is done by camera rather than gun. "I'd rather not shoot them," he said. "And I need many life photos in order to carve prize-winning birds."

Prize winners they have been, bringing home more than 50 awards so far. Most recent was a third place in the California Open Wildlife Carving Show for his canvasback duck. Before the year is out, he will participate in 14 more shows.

T. J. also teaches carving in his home, his students ranging in age from 8 to 80. Once with his instruction and encouragement, 13 senior citizens each carved a cardinal in four hours.

HIS OWN CARVING is more sophisticated now, involving a band saw, an expo knife, flexible shaft tools, grinders that he makes himself and a tool similar to a dental bit. He imports a non-grained, dense wood from Malaysia — jelutong — "as easy to carve as butter."

"The hardest part of producing a duck is the secton from the tip of the bill to right behind the eyes," he said. "That's where a person looks first. That's where you see the character of the bird."

T. J. has imparted character to blue-winged teals, black ducks, wood ducks, Canadian geese, snow geese, ruddy ducks, intails, baldpates and more.

"I've carved every duck there is plus 30 or 40 species of songbirds and a dozen different kinds of owls and hawks," he said. "It's a labor of love."

George Benson never again has to play in a jazz basement

by STAN MIESES

It's no secret that George Benson is doing remarkably well these days and will never have to play a jazz basement again. His last two albums, "Breezin' " and "In Flight," are bona fide hits, and George Benson is now a card-carrying star. He was recently the centerpiece of an unusual billing that his manager and a New York promoter worked up called "Benson X Four."

Originally, the idea was to showcase Benson's records on different nights: a "White Rabbit" night, "Breezin'," "In Flight" and a fourth jam sesson. But George and his manager reasoned that promotion of his old records would not receive 100 per cent support from his new record company, Warner Brothers. So, the idea was scrapped in favor of a more broad-based exposure.

That's the way this artist is thinking these days. At last he's making big money for the company and they're being very nice to him. He'd like to keep it that way. If Benson labored with his "dream band" (Tatum, Chambers, Jo Jones, Clifford Brown), he might not draw flies. He labors no more.

CAN YOU BLAME him? "A man of my years has the capability of doing things more sophisticated than most of what you hear on AM radio," he said, summing up his current ambition succinctly.

George Benson has paid his dues. He's learned the ropes of playing for a living from the bottom up. But the kind of music he prefers isn't doomed to eternal dues-paying, certainly not by the player. Benson had a lot of faith that his music would someday reach a mass market audience.

"When Wes Montgomery died," he recalled, "I became a hot jazz item. There weren't too many players with my attitude, you see. There was a vacuum. I was willing to combine music. There were jazz players who wouldn't play anything but jazz, rock players who weren't able to play anything but rock, and in between there was me, who wasn't too proud not to play jazz, with more knowledge (I read that: chops) than the players — I saw a way to build a career."

Let's backtrack for a moment. George was a ripe 19 when Jack McDuff's band rolled into his hometown of Pittsburgh one night in 1963. McDuff's guitar player was leaving the band. Benson brashly auditioned and made an agreement on the spot with McDuff. George lasted two and a half years with Brother Jack, and says now that the bulk of his guitar playing growth came in this period.

"I COULDN'T PLAY improvisations worth a damn when I first joined up, I didn't know harmony, I had no chops. But I knew how to enhance the group sound, and Jack liked the way I accompanied him. I made him sound good."

Later, after several neglected albums, Benson signed with Creed Taylor, who had produced Wes Montgomery's most commercial efforts on A&M Records. He was also the man who popularized bossa nova, Getzstyle, on that same lable. Benson's first recording with Creed Taylor was "The Other Side of Abbey Road," which was, at least from the packaging point of view, the first concerted effort to break Benson across the board.

"We never knew what it was like to sell jazz records," said Benson. "The only one who did really was Miles (Davis). We put ourselves in the hands of a producer with a popular track record.

"Some diehards think it's a perfect crime, but to me Creed Taylors concept (which evolved into CTI Records) was a move in England Dan & John Ford Coley

Folk singer Judy Collins makes her annual visit to Ravinia at 8 tonight.

Symphonies No. 8 in F Major, Opus 93, and No. 9 in D minor, Opus 125, are scheduled for the third Beethoven program to be conducted Saturday by James Levine. Appearing for the performance of the Ninth Symphony will be the Chicago Symphony Chorus.

Following the concert at 8:30 p.m., Second City will present Revue II at 11:30 p.m. in the Murray Theatre.

ALFRED Brendel completes the concerto cycle on the final Beethoven concert Sunday, 8 p.m.

Ravinia showcases its featured composers, presents a gala opera evening and offers Grammy-winning pop artists in concert as the Festival enters its third week.

Opening the week is Chuck Mangione, trumpeter composer whose song "Bellavia" recently won a Grammy. He brings his quartet for a concert at 8 p.m. Tuesday.

With one gold album to their credit and a second record, "Dowdy Ferry Road," already hitting the charts, England Dan and John Ford Coley have been established as major artists on the pop scene. They perform at 8 p.m. Wednesday. Special guest star that evening will be vocalist Mary Macgregor.

Music Director James Levine brings his skill to a program of Verdi excerpts at 8 p.m. Thursday. Guest artists will be metropolitan opera soprano Martina Arroyo and Met baritone Cornell MacNeil of the Metropolitan Opera.

NEXT FRIDAY'S concerts are devoted to works by Bela Bartok, a featured composer this season. Robert Mann and son Nicholas are guest artists for the Violin Duos and the Sonata for Solo Violin at 7 p.m. in Murray Theatre. At 8:30 p.m., Mann and pianist Andre-Michel Schub are soloists in a program that includes the Violin Concerto No. 2, Piano Concerto No. 3, and the Concert Suite from "The Miraculous Mandarin" ballet.

Second City gives a repeat performance of Revue II at 11:30 p.m. in the Murray Theatre.

Walt Disney's 'Fantasia'

A classic film ahead of its time

by GENIE CAMPBELL

Some films never get old. Case in point is Walt Disney's "Fantasia" — every bit as much a classic as "Casablanca" and "It happened One Night." Maybe even more so, because the animation, so far ahead of its time, would now be impossible to duplicate.

"Fantasia" opens today at the Carnegie Theatre in Chicago. This time around, the big promotion is stereophonic sound. Only what few people realize, "Fantasia" is finally being shown as it was originally conceived in 1940.

At that time Mickey Mouse was at the height of his popularity, somewhat matured since Donald Duck had been taking over the mischief making. For three years Walt Disney had been thinking about getting Mickey together with classical music. "The Sorcerer's Apprentice" by Paul Dukas seemed appropriate, according to John Lang, a special projects spokesman for Walt Disney Productions.

"HE RAN INTO Stokowski (Leopold Stokowski, director of the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra) in a restaurant and told him about it. He told Walt he'd love to work with him on it," continued Lang when contacted in Hollywood. "When they finished 'The Sorcerer's Apprentice,' they enjoyed it so much, they decided to make a feature-length film."

It was no small undertaking. Other than an introduction by music critic Deems Taylor, there is no dialog, no plot and no real chararacters. Only Mickey.

In some cases, like Bach's "Toccata and Fuge in D Minor," abstract images are suggested by the music itself. Illustrators were urged to run wild with their imaginations.

Because the music was every bit as important as the animation, Disney created a new sound system, Fana Sound, consisting of 15 multi-level tracts, far superior than anything used in such stereophonic movies as "Tommy" and "Earthquake."

"Fantasia" was indeed the first stereophonic film, though initially it was not released at full power.

AFTER SPENDING $100,000 in researching the system, it cost another $30,000 to make each unit, according to Lang.

"And here's something interesting. In 1941 when 'Fantasia' was first released, the government, asked RCA not to make any more units because they needed both the manpower and the materials for the War," continued Lang.

Only a few people in a few cities saw "Fantasia" in stereo. "Everytime it played, the electronics blew out the speakers because they were not constructed to take that amount of sound," said Lang.

"The reaction of the public was odd too. The faithful Disney filmgoers didn't like 'Fantasia.' They wanted their belly laughs, Donald Duck and Goofy. Even some of the musicians were angry because some notes had been subtly revised to fit the drawings," continued Lang, "but you and I would never even notice."

AT THAT TIME, added Lang, Walt Disney was purported to have said, "The world is not ready for 'Fantasia.' It may fold for 30 years."

"Fantasia" is not a title per se. It is a definition — "freedom of fancy, unrestricted by set form" according to Webster.

In one of the more popular and beautiful segments, "The Nutcracker Suite," tiny-winged fairies resembling firtflies sprinkle crystal drops of dew, mushrooms erupt into mandarins dressed in long robes and coolie hats, and blossoms change into delicate ballerinas as they drift onto the surface of a stream.

With more resurgence, Stravinsky's dramatic "Rite of Spring" suggests the growth of life on earth."

OSTRICHES AND hippos whimsically dance to "Dance of the Hours," a ballet from the opera, "La Gioconda" by Amilcare Ponchielli, while spirits, witches and skeletons rise up for Moussorgsky's eerie sounding "Night on Bald Mountain."

And that's only some of the music included.

OVER 100,000 people worked on "Fantasia" and over a million drawings were made. It cost over $2 million to make, a lot of money back in 1940. Today, estimates Lang, it would cost between $12 and $13 million just for the animation alone — if you could find the artists.

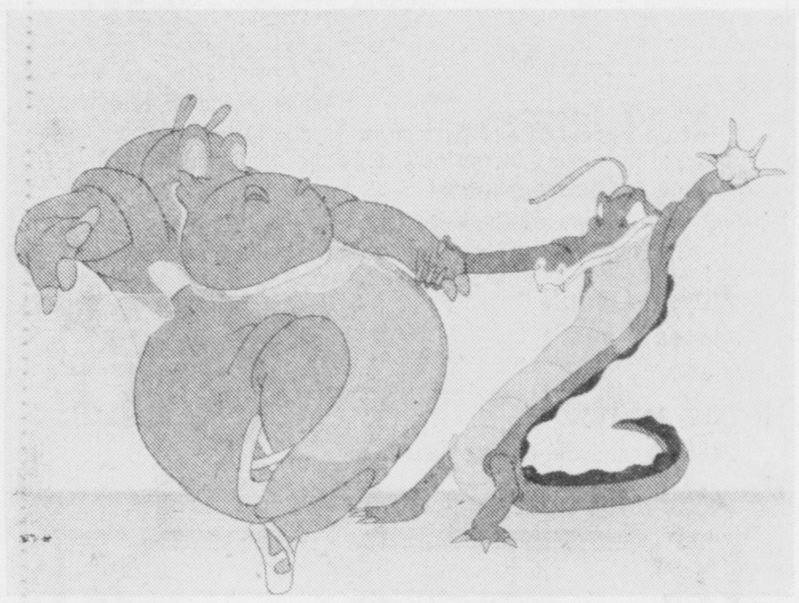
Some of the scenes set new concepts, like the fluid underwater shots of sensuous goldfish who perform in the "Nutcracker Suite." And a one-of-a-kind multi-plane camera, now too expensive to operate, assured every movement in its proper perspective.

The most recent Disney animated film, "The Rescuers," also playing in the area, took four years and cost over $7 million to make. Still it can not equal the quality of animation in "Fantasia."

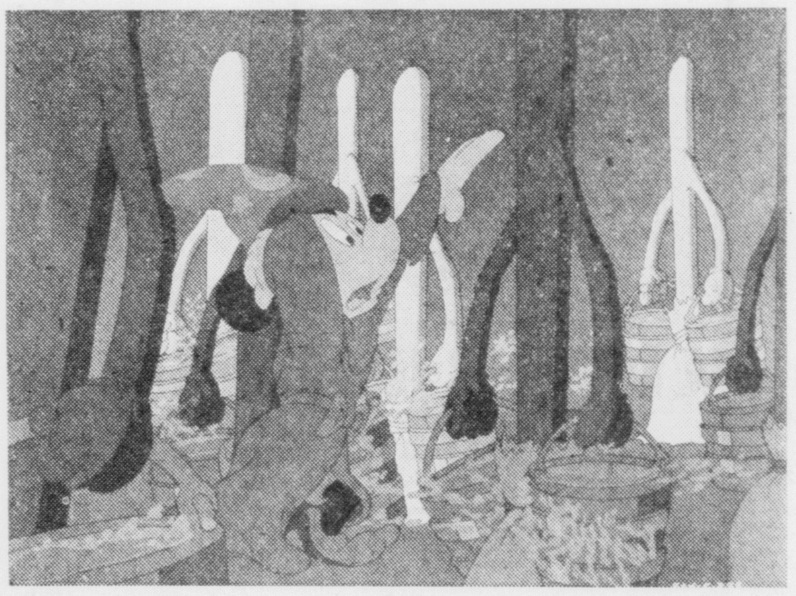
"IT'S LIKE COMPARING Mona Lisa to contemporary artists. There just will never be another 'Fantasia'," said Lang.

"Fantasia" is always in release somewhere across the country but never in mass distribution. Right now it's playing at the Carnegie in Chicago and one theater in Houston, Tex.

It's a good thing Walt Disney was prone to thinking ahead of his time. If he had waited until the world was ready for "Fantasia," it never could have been done.



HYACINTH HIPPO strikes a coy pose as she dances with Ben Ali Gator to Ponchielli's "Dance of the Hours," in this segment from Walt Disney's "Fantasia."



MICKEY MOUSE AS the Sorcerer's apprentice, tries to halt his helpers, brooms-turned-water carriers, in one of the more well known scenes from the classic cartoon that's playing again in Chicago.

"Rollercoaster" — A good cast coasts through the unconvincing but mildly diverting thriller about a maniac extorting money by putting bombs on amusement park rides. (PG).

"Star Wars" — Director George Lucas (American Graffiti") pulled out all stops in mounting this space fantasy about intergalactic warfare, and the dazzling flimmaking, technical wizardry and rousing adventure make for one of the most spectacular entertainments of this or any other year. Not a heavy, heady "2001" trip, it aims to entertain, and the sky is the limit. (PG).

"Exorcist II: The Heretic" — Linda Blair, now a highschooler goes another round with Satan, who this time manifests himself as a giant locust. Pure trash. The sequel to "The Exorcist" also stars Louise Fletcher, Max von Sydow and Richard Burton. (R).

"Sorcerer" — Big, colorful, but impersonal suspense thriller about four outcasts trucking nitroglycerine through a South American jungle. Roy Scheider gives a strong performance, the visual effects are vividly convincing, and the tension groans to hair-raising proportions. But director William Friedkin forgets to clearly unravel the story as he manipulates your pulse. (PG).

"The Other Side of Midnight" — Two women on different continents fall in love with the same man in a story of international romance and intrigue based on Sidney Sheldon's best selling novel. Features Susan Sarandon, John Beck and Marie-France Pisier. (R).

"Orca" — A Dino De Laurentis billed thriller in which a veteran fisherman battles with a giant killer whale. Sound familiar? Stars Richard Harris and Charlotte Rampling. (PG).

"The Rescuers" — Feature-length Walt Disney cartoon about two mice on a cross-country rescue mission. Voices of Bob Newhart, Eva Gabor and Geraldine Page. (G).

the right direction. Why work, work, work, and not get paid? True, at CTI we constantly battled with creativity and making money at the same time, but he took us out of a category, and made us appeal to a lot of people."

EVENTUALLY, AFTER "White Rabbitt" made a name for Benson in the pop market, things began to drift too far out into the mass mess for him. "He (Taylor) wasn't dwelling on the creative side, only what was effective with the public."

Two years later, Benson signed with Warner Brothers, where he found his new producer, Tommy Lipuma. Five years earlier, Lipuma had heard him sing by a fluke, in a San Francisco nightclub. Lipuma filed it for future reference, while he fielded songs for Benson that would not fall lyrically below the sophistication of his guitar playing. "If you don't," Benson explained, "you derive the fact that I'm trying to sell records only."

Right now, that's no problem. He's just retuned from a successful tour of Japan, and performed his tour-de-force in New York. "You see, now I realize I'm dealing with a corporate giant in Warner Brothers. I want to do something that takes advantage of that situation, without taking anything away from what I can do musically.

"I don't want to make records for the history books. I don't want to hear, 'Oh, that guy's the greatest.' I just want the guy on the street to say, 'Hey, I like that.' "

Superb acting livens 'Landscape'

by GENIE CAMPBELL

Confused as to the curtain time for opening night of John Guare's new drama, "The Landscape of the Body," being staged for the first time at Academy Festival Theatre, I missed a bit of the beginning.

And late is not the way to enter. You don't burst in on a Guare play. He bursts in on you.

His credits include "Two Gentlemen of Verona" and "House of Blue Leaves." The first goes without saying. It won two Tony awards. The second is offbeat, absurd to some extent, but contemporary and expressive. "The Landscape of the Body" is the same.

THE TWO-ACT drama revolves around the murder and subsequent decapitation of a teenage boy. But the real story is the ruination and quiet desperation suffered by that boy and his mother. The two arrive for a visit in New York City and stay. Swallowed up by the decay of the city — muggers, frauds, sexual perverts — they stand little chance of retaining their innocence.

Review

As Betty, star of the show, Shirley Knight, is attuned to every emotion and mood. She is naive and unsuspecting at first. Then her desolation becomes crushing. Yet she wants so much to trust and be trusted again.

Paul McCrane is her red-haired son Bert who waylays bums to steal watches which he wears stacked on both arms. Despite his street education, there is a little boy appeal to Bert that McCrane drives home.

Peg Murray is sassy and brassy as Betty's sister. She has just the right amount of put-on. And her voice carries well.

TWO ECCENTRIC ROLES, an ice cream vendor, Durwood Peach, who claims Betty is the only one he ever loved, and a weird travel agent, who offers fraudulent honeymoons over the phone just to attract business, are played by Rex Robbins and Richard Bauer, respectively. Each offers an individual flavor. F. Murray Abraham is Capt. Marvin Holahan.

Because the play's opening was delayed, due to the death of Miss Knight's mother, "The Landscape of the Body" has been extended through July 31.

"The Landscape of the Body" is told in small vignettes and flashbacks narrated by the woman's deceased sister who connects the separate dates and occurrences into honkey-tonk bits of song. They are really quite catchy and many of the lyrics heart-tugging. While the spotlight is on her, next to the piano, the players and stark, severe props are whisked behind the backdrop on a conveyer belt while the next scene appears. It is really very effective, expertly paced by director John Pasquin.

BECAUSE GUARE describes life in such brilliant metaphors and pokes fun at the muddles and tasks that make up day-to-day living, the message is as uplifting as tragic. Always there is an undercurrent of expectation and hope.

"Gravity is merely fishing hooks baited with everything you're trying to get away from on this earth," cries

Shirley Knight

Shirley Knight as the trapped Betty.

Though tighter editing could shorten several scenes that lose their effectiveness because of length, the pace of the show rarely falters. And the acting is superb.

FROM HERE "Landscape" goes to New York to be a part of Joseph Papp's New York Festival. It's great that Chicagoans have an opportunity to see it first. It's worth a trip to Lake Forest, and it evens up the score for Academy Festival Theatre after a disappointing season opener.

Burlesque dull in Minsky's Follies

Genie Campbell

Night out

Abe Minsky opened a burlesque show at his theater in New York City in 1908. Ever since, Minsky's Follies hs been playing somewhere across the country, the tradition carried on by Abe's son, Harold Minsky.

Right now the company of nine is booked through Aug. 20 in the Blue Max of the Hyatt Regency O'Hare. But I came away somewhat disappointed.

I knew what I was getting into. I wasn't like the dour-faced woman chided by comedian Dick Richards — "This is a burlesque show, honey. You didn't come in to try on shoes."

I expected topless dancers, below-the-belt humor and sexist display. But I also expected a bit more professionalism and polish.

"MINSKY'S FOLLIES will never give burlesque a bad name because burlesque never had a good name," said a cohort of mine. Of course, he is right.

But I went to see sensual choreography and lavish costumes. I wanted to hear a standup comedian tell some good jokes — even if off color.

I didn't expect to hear the "The Theme from Shaft," see mirrored stiff tunics on the dancers, or be bombarded by Semitic and Polish jokes. Minsky's Follies is neither a vintage piece nor fresh entertainment. It's tired burlesque.

Abbott and Costello, Phil Silvers, Red Buttons and Pinky Lee got their start in Minsky's Follies. Buelesque once had its place. It was a showcase for budding talent.

BUT COMEDIAN DICK Richards has forgotten what real burlesque was like. Comics played off one another. His routine is almost all monologue and it gets old very quickly, even the dirty part. Dexter Maitland is the straight man, but he barely gets a word in.

Richards got the biggest laugh when someone in the audience stole his punch line. And the best part of that is not knowing for sure whether it was planted.

Scott Evans has a nice voice, but his choice of songs is third rate. And watching the female chorus gyrate in sequined cut-offs and T-shirts is nothing special. I can watch it any time at any disco.

Cassandra Lee did her part —a sexy Indian war dance to "Half Breed" that incorporates a bit of a strip tease and plenty of fire. That's burlesque.

AND THAT'S ABOUT all I can say for Minsky's Follies, who will never give burlesque a bad name but, possibly, a downright dull one.

George Benson

George Benson burst into popularity seemingly overnight, though he's been in training for success for a long time.

No doubt his hit album, "Breezin'," had as much to do as anything with his sellout performance at Ravinia Festival this past Wednesday night.

No longer is Benson's music considered esoteric. He's crossed over that fine line from jazz into pop, often blending the two. I prefer those mellow, soft numbers like "Lady," as opposed to the upbeat, almost soft rock with which he chose to open his concert.

BENSON PLAYED his Grammy winner, "This Masquerade," and almost everything else on "Breezin'," including the title song, and though it was great to see George Benson in person, I'm also convinced Ravinia is not the place to be, to appreciate the sensitive, expressive guitarist.

I was even more convinced when I returned home and replayed the album. It was much clearer than the actual performance. Some of the problem was the mike itself. It garbled lyrics and turned many notes brassy. It was even worse with the opening act of Marlena Shaw.

"Breezin'," which sold over one million copies, holds wide, varied appeal. It established Benson, who was named the jazz guitarist of 1976 by both Rolling Stone and Playboy magazines.

BENSON WAS SURPRISED because, when he started out, he assumed his voice would be his only instrument. And he does emit a very elastic sound highlighted by a trained falsetto. Those qualities, plus fine musicians to back him up, will no doubt keep George Benson in the limelight for quite some time. He's earned the elevated position.

Customers treated like old friends

Bill o' fare

As soon as customers enter El Matador Restaurant and Lounge in Streamwood, they are no longer customers but old friends. For even if they have never crossed the establishment's threshold before they rate a vigorous handshake and warm greeting from owner Al Cabazos.

The friendliness doesn't stop there. On a recent Tuesday night, Al apologized for the lack of musicians (they serenade Wednesday through Sunday only), explained the various Mexican specialties and offered his suggestions, and kept checking with us throughout the evening to make sure we were enjoying our dinner. He even was willing to overlook our improper footwear (it's too classy a place to wear sandals, he said) and seated us anyway.

Featuring:
El Matador

Al's crew was just as attentive as the boss, bringing our orders promptly but without rushing us and replenishing water glasses just as quickly as we could drench our overseasoned taste buds.

THE PLEASANTLY spicy food was equal to the service. Dinner starts with a basket of tortilla chips, slightly seasoned and ready to dip in a scorchingly hot sauce. Mexican peppers also are available for those with more stoical tastes.

The botanas (appetizers) range from the $1.50 guacamole to the $4.75 crabmeat cocktail. I chose the kamoosh (Mexican pizza), $1.75, which turned out to be small tortilla pieces filled with beans and covered with cheese. My friend chose the quesadillas, $2.50, a similar array of torillas filled with cheese and Mexican sausage.

El Matador offers many choices of entrees. Carnes (meats) range from the Mexican pepper steak, $5.95, to steak El Paso, $8.25, and include salad, beans, rice and tortillas. Pollo (chicken) and mariscos (seafood) dishes also are available, as are various combination plates and individual dinner orders of enchiladas, tostadas and similar Mexican fare. The El Matador combination plate, $7.75, which serves two, includes a mixture of enchiladas, tacos, tostadas, beans and rice.

I CHOSE COMBINATION plate No. One, $4.75, which included a chicken enchilada, beef taco and a pepper stuffed with a choice of beef or cheese all of which were excellent. My friend chose the chef's special, king crabmeat enchiladas, $5.50, which he said were tasty, except for the few pieces of shell that were left in the meat. Both our dinnnrs came with rice and beans.

We decided to split an order of flan, $1.25, a flaming custard, for dessert. Unfortunately, the flame blew out before the custard reached our table, ruining the effect but not the taste. The after-dinner coffee was served hot and flavored with a hint of cinnamon.

Tasty food, ample portions, friendly service and lots of ice water add up to a pleasantly filling meal at El Matador. The restaurant, at 501 S. Bartlett Rd., is open from 5 p.m. to 1 a.m. Tuesday through Saturday and 4 p.m. to midnight Sunday.

People Week fun starts Monday on State Street

It's "all aboard for People Week," Chicago's newest tradition, when the summer festival returns to State Street for its fifth season July 18-23.

Nine city blocks along That Great Street from Wacker drive to Congress parkway will be filled with free entertainment, some of it funny, some surprising and some instructional.

People Week was started five years ago by the State Street Council to bring people downtown to meet, see, enjoy and learn from people.

During the week-long jamboree opening Monday there will be approximately 500 events on the street itself, on the sidewalks, in Quincy Court Showcase, in the windows and inside State Street business establishments.

AMONG HIGHLIGHTS are a circus act doing daring stunts on skyscraping sway poles, all types of music and bands, a variety of giveaways, live animal shows, clowns and other acts especially for children.

Sports celebrities, a clairvoyant, bird authority, bridge experts and fashion stylists will be there to greet the public.

Those interested can learn to handpaint a necktie, get a face lift with a wig, make a puppet, pull sugar, apply clown makeup, among others.

Many events are all-day, all-week. Most will take place between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. Free calendar listings of all the goings-on are available at the State Street Council information booth at the northeast corner of State and Madison; at Council offices, 36 S. State, and in many State Street stores.

Stuttgart stars make magic

by Lynn Asinof

At the heart of the Stuttgart Ballet is the idea that ballet is theater.

The young German company, appearing at the Arie Crown Theatre through Sunday, comes packaged with lavish sets and magnificent costumes. Each production is a pageant rich with color and visual excitement.

The spectacle is impressive, but the magic of the Stuttgart happens only when the dancers reach through the storybook plots to tug at the emotions.

That magic was there Tuesday night when Marcia Haydee and Richard Cragun danced "Eugene Onegin."

HAYDEE, 38, IS the company's leading dancer. She is also its director, carrying on the tradition of the

Stuttgart's founder John Cranko whose unexpected death in 1973 left the company an artistic orphan.

Dancing the role of Tatiana, Haydee captured the awkward innocence of a country girl in love with an elegant stranger from the city. She was hesitant, impulsive and romantic.

When she was joined by Cragun, her lover and longtime partner, Haydee's dancing took on added depth.

Together the two had an internal rhythm and a sense of trust that gave the drama of the ballet room to grow.

IN A BEAUTIFULLY staged dream scene, Haydee and Cragun danced an impassioned pas de deux full of lifts and jumps that entwined their bodies. The motion skittered across the stage. Haydee flung herself into Craguns arms over and over, an overwhelming display of innocent passion.

As the ballet ends and Tatiana rejects her old love, the pas de deux is repeated. This time, however, she is older and more mature, and Haydee dances this passage without innocence. She is a woman, not a girl, and her feelings have added depth and subtlety.

Haydee and Cragun are the Stuttgart's shining lights. Without them, the company must rely more on its keen sense of staging and Cranko's choreography.

Such was the case Wednesday, when Lucia Isenring and Egon Madsen danced the title roles in Cranko's "Romeo and Juliet." While their performance was pleasing, it could not compare with the excitement generated by Haydee and Cragun.

A NEW PRODUCTION of "Sleeping Beauty" is among the ballets being presented this weekend while the Stuttgart Ballet is at Arie Crown Theatre. Featured are Birgit Keil and Vladimir Klos.

MADSEN IS A good natured, boyish Romeo. One of the original members of Cranko's troupe, he is a strong dancer but often loses his interpretation in the complicated steps.

Isenring is lithy and light, and needs only a but more polish to even out her interpretation of the girlish Juliet.

The Stuttgart's productions are filled with color and motion. Cranko's "Romeo and Juliet" is often bawdy with street scenes full of peasants and acrobats. By comparison, his "Eugene Onegin" is a rich tapestry of 19th century romance. Both have texture.

One of Cranko's trademarks was his sense of drama. That has not faded from his company since his death. The staging and sense of timing shown by the company is often startling.

CHICAGO HAS not seen the Stuttgart for six years, and it can thank New York's Metropolitan Opera and Washington's Kennedy Center for this visit. The tour is the first collaboration between these two houses, and if all goes well we may see more of the great European companies. Plans are now being made for London's Royal Ballet to visit next spring.

In the meantime, there is still time to catch the Stuttgart. A brand new version of "Sleeping Beauty" will be presented Friday and Saturday, with Haydee and Cragun performing Saturday night. On Sunday the two will appear in "Eugene Onegin." "Romeo and Juliet" will be repeated Sunday afternoon.

Lyricists who can sing making a big hit today

by BRUCE MEYER

Some time back in the middle '60s, Tin Pan Alley died and the era of the pop singer-songwriter began.

For a while, it seemed that no performer could hope to go anywhere without writing his or her own material. There was virtually no room for the pure singer — and thus the market for non-performing songwriters all but dried up, as well.

Nonw, of course, the pendulum has begun swinging in the other direction; the idea of performance for its own sake has taken root once again.

Still, there remains a strong bias in favor of singers who stick more or less to their own original material.

And for songwriters — even those whose performing talents leave something to be desired — there is the ever-present temptation to grab a piece of the spotlight for themselves. It's a temptation that has inflicted many a third-rate performer on the world.

BUT THERE ARE exceptions: Carol King is one. And Carole Bayer Sager is another.

A talented pop lyricist, Carole Bayer Sager has written songs for everyone from Gene Pitney to Liza Minnelli. One of her first tunes — "A Groovy Kind of Love" — was a smash hit for the Mindbenders a dozen years ago.

Her list of musical collaborators reads like a Who's Who of the slicker side of the New York music scene: Bette Midler, Marvin Hamlisch, Neil Sedaka, Melissa Manchester, Peter Allen, Bruce Roberts. Recent successes include Melissa's "Midnight Blue" and Leo Sayer's "When I Need You."

With that kind of success behind her and an apparently inexhaustible knack for coming up with hit-making lyrics, Carole had no pressing need to take to the stage and the recording studio. Nor was she especially drawn by the glamor of the business: she'd seen it from the inside and knew how tough it could be.

DISCovering pop

But along the line somewhere, a record company executive had suggested she should go ahead and record an album, give show biz a try. And that seed, once planted, refused to die.

SO LAST YEAR, she signed a contract and headed for the studio with a few of her closest friends — including most of her regular collaborators and some of the country's best session musicians — to give it a try.

The result is "Carole Bayer Sager" (Elektra 7E-1100), a record that bears all the signs of presenting the world with a major new pop talent, in a gentle and occasionally tongue-in-cheek fashion.

Carole proves to have a husky, middle-register voice, limited in range but laden with character — a kind of cross between Rod Stewart and, ironically, Carol King. It's precisely the kind of voice that, once established in the public ear, becomes an old friend, transforming even mediocre material into something special.

Naturally, there is very little mediocre material here — the songs are mostly about love; they're pure pop and scarcely challenging to the intellect. But they rest nicely on a weary brain and communicate a lot of straightforward human values and emotions, thankfully without slipping over the line into pathos.

ON STAGE, CAROLE is surprisingly at ease, communicating with an audience in an intimate, natural fashion devoid of nightclub jive. With that voice, she should try some more up-tempo material, but it's questionable whether she'd feel comfortable competing with a hard rock band.

Carole Bayer Sager isn't likely to turn on the punk rockers. But for nearly everyone else, she should be a genuine delight.

'Caesar' to return in modern garb

In a modern version of "Julius Caesar," Friends of Schaumburg Township Library will be wearing black instead of the traditional white Roman costumes when they present the Shakespearean drama next month.

The cast of 25 will be dressed primarily in black to set a facsist mood for the violent story.

Play dates are Aug. 5, 6, 12 and 13 at 8:30 p.m. at Schaumburg Library, 32 Library Lane.

The production is directed by Joe McAuliffe, Schaumburg, assisted by Joan Kohler, Palatine. Lighting is directed by Greg Hansen, Rolling Meadows.

AREA MEMBERS of the cast are El Bollyn, Roger Dubois, John Buckley, Elayne Letraunik, John Gegenhuber, all of Hoffman Estates; Ken O'Connor, Ted Lindquist, Bob O'Connor, Matt Lindquist and Tracy Lowing, all of Rolling Meadows.

Also, Bill McNally, Rich MacMahon, Arthur Clevanger, Mike Arlen, Collette Dooley, Sandy Reimann, Deidre McAuliffe, all Schaumburg; Mark Crowell, Palatine; and Joan Kohler, Arlington.

Tickets are now available at $2.50 for adults and $1.50 for students. Reservations may be made at 529-1732.

The doctor says

Food energy in its calories not weight

As a serious dieter I understand it takes 3500 extra calories to add one pound of body weight. But how long does it take for food to transform into neutral body weight? If I eat a one-pound can of spinach, for example, the scales reflect a one pound gain, even though the caloric count is very low. Please explain.

The point is that pounds on the scale are not pounds of body fat. A pound is a pound — even of water. You really mean that 3500 extra calories will produce one pound of body fat.

The spinach weighs a pound, so if you stick it in your stomach it will increase your body weight one pound. The scales would register an extra pound if you held the spinach in your hand. That weight is from undigestible fiber, water and a few calories. The water, and undigestible material will be eliminated from the body. The few calories that are left and that have been absorbed after digestion will then be used by your body for energy or if they are extra calories, more than your body needs, they will be stored as fat.

I am surprised how many people do not understand the difference between calories of energy in a food and the weight of a food. A pound of lean round steak with all the fat removed is almost 75 per cent water. The true food value of any food in terms of energy is expressed as its calorie content, not its weight.

Your question indicates you need help so I am sending you The Health Letter number 4-7, Weight Losing Diet. Others who want this information can send 50 cents with a long, stamped self-addressed envelope for it. Just send your letter to me in care of Paddock Publications, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

I am a female, age 26, married. I have had infectious mononucleosis for six weeks now. Please explain this virus. How is it caught? How long does it take to recover? If this is the "kissing" disease, why doesn't my husband have it?

Like many other viruses it starts out with an illness characterized by a sore throat and fever. There may be enlargement of the tonsils — if a person still has them — with enlargement of lymph glands in the neck, under the arms, in the groin and elsewhere. The illness usually lasts from two to four weeks, sometimes longer with weakness after the initial illness.

The spleen is enlarged in about half of the cases and because of this it is wise to not engage in vigorous physical activity until you have completely recovered. That is why athletic coaches should not allow their athletes to compete or engage in activities that are strenuous. This can cause rupture of the spleen, which is then a medical emergency. Fortunately, this is rare.

The virus is often transmitted by intimate contact — kissing. Many people get the virus when they are small children and the disease does not present the same clinical picture. They are then immune to the disease. It is likely that your husband already had the disease as a child and probably no one knew it. I hope the reason is not because he hasn't kissed you for sometime! And I should add that one can get the disease without kissing anyone. So your husband can't accuse you of getting the disease from kissing someone other than him.

Pork drippings great for frying chicken

Dear Roberta: I hope the grease Mrs. Henry Davis was throwing away in old coffee cans was not pork drippings, but only beef and lamb fat. I strain and refrigerate all my bacon and sausage drippings to give fried foods that extra special flavor and a good brown crust. Try frying chicken, hush puppies and even French fries this way. — Mrs. Ora Jones.

I know you're right about the chicken. Long-time readers may recall that this family's favorite fried chicken starts out in a mixture made of equal amounts of bacon drippings and margarine. Yum.

Dear Roberta: Stains on polyester fabrics used to drive me up the wall. But lately I've been getting good results with the powder used to launder woolens (Woolite) and want to share this tip.

Lay the garment flat, putting white paper towels under the spot to be treated. In a little cup make a creamy mixture, not too thick or pasty or you'll ruin the fabric. Rub this gently with paper towels or better yet a diaper. This is an abrasive, so do it in a well-lit area, as you must stop as soon as the fabric shows wear or begins to pill.

Then wash the garment by machine or hand with this same cleaner. You may need to repeat the process in order to almost "disappear" the spot. — Georgette Schiffer.

You're right. It's fantastic even on ancient spots.

Dear Roberta: My children go to a summer playground program where for some reason lunch boxes aren't allowed. Brown bags only. So, to protect potato chips and cookies from breaking into bits, I pack them in empty gruyere cheese containers. And fresh fruit is saved from squashing by placing in various sizes of paper cups, tops covered with foil and secured with rubber bands. — Joan Cox.

Divorce laws explained in new pamphlet

What are your options if you are sued for divorce but want to save your marriage? How much are attorney fees, and how do you choose a lawyer? What do you do if you're denied housing after the divorce?

"Alternatives," a pamphlet outlining the laws governing divorce in Illinois, answers these questions and more. Published by the Women's Division of the Minority Information Referral Center in Des Plaines, the booklet was prepared by para-legal students under the supervision of attorney Ira Feldman.

"Alternatives" can be obtained by sending name, address, and a 50-cent donation to 770 Lee St., Des Plaines, 60016, or by visiting the center between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. Copies may also be purchased at 7:30 Thursday evening when the legal clinic is in session.

Weddings

Renee Drolet – Michael Mullaney

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Mullaney

Top hats for the groom and his attendants added a jaunty touch to their attire when Michael Mullaney of Hoffman Estates took Renee Drolet of Arlington Heights as his bride. Michael's hat was in white, his attendants in baby blue.

The couple, who met at a Rolling Meadows High School football game when Renee's brother Dennis played on a team coached by the bridegroom, were married June 18 at 2 p.m. in Our Lady of the Wayside Church, Arlington Heights. After the ceremony the bride and groom rode back to the bride's home in a horse-drawn carriage.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard G. Drolet of Arlington Heights and Mike the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mullaney of McHenry.

FOR THE candlelight nuptials Renee wore a white peau de soie gown reembroidered in lace and a chapel-length veil attached to a lace headpiece. White roses, stephanotis and baby's breath were in her bouquet.

All of her attendants were gowned in baby blue dotted swiss accented with ruffles edged in lace and carried white lace parasols trimmed in blue carnations and white baby's breath.

Four of Renee's sisters were in the bridal party. Pat was maid of honor, Michele Bedo, Elk Grove Village, and Dorothy Day, Urbana, were bridesmaids and Mary was a junior bridesmaid. There was another bridesmaid, Ginger Loughman, Arlington Heights, and another junior bridesmaid, the groom's niece, Maureen Mullaney of Rockford. Jenny Day, 5, the bride's niece, was flower girl, and her brother, Marshall Day, 6, was ring bearer.

THE GROOM CHOSE his brother Jerry, of Rockford, as best man and Wayne Williams, Lake Zurich, Bruce Bazsali, Rolling Meadows, and the bride's brother Dennis as groomsmen.

After the double ring rites, the newlyweds welcomed guests at a party at the Colonial Inn in Schiller Park and then left for Florida and a Caribbean cruise. They are making their home in Hoffman Estates.

Renee, a graduate of Arlington High School and the University of Illinois, works in the accounting department at Alexian Brothers Medical Center. Mike graduated from the U of I and earned a master's from the University of Arizona at Tucson. He is a teacher and coaches both football and wrestling at Rolling Meadows High.

Mr. and Mrs. Jay Bensen

Barbara Glaser – Jay Bensen

An Arlington Heights couple, Barbara Glaser and Jay Bensen, were married June 18 in St. James Church, surrounded by a wedding party of 14.

All the bride's attendants were gowned in pink silk organza with matching picture hats and carried baskets of pink-tipped white spider mums, pink Sweetheart roses and baby's breath.

Barbara, daughter of the Ronald Glasers, chose Cathy Munn, Westmont, as matron of honor. The six bridesmaids were the bride's sisters, Janet and Patti; the groom's sisters, Gail Jenkins and Lynn Bensen; Pat Carmichael, Schaumburg; and Debbie Stein, Wheeling.

JAY IS THE son of the Victor Bensens, and his best man was his brother-in-law, Jack Jenkins. Groomsmen included the couple's brothers, Ron Glaser Jr. and Glenn Bensen; Steve Franciscovich, Hinsdale; Kerry Kinonmonth, Lake Zurich; Craig Hutchison, Madison, Wis.; and Gary Gerardi, Fox Lake.

Barbara's bridal ensemble was a white silk organza gown trimmed in Venise lace and a matching picture hat with white veiling. Her bouquet was of white lilies, pink Sweetheart roses, stephanotis and baby's breath.

Following the 6:30 p.m. double ring ceremony there was a dinner reception with dancing at the Camelot, Mount Prospect, for 185 guests. The newlyweds then left for a week in Acapulco.

THEY ARE NOW at home in Arlington Heights. Barbara is a business education teacher at Ridgewood High School, Norridge, and Jay a commercial artist with Product Illustration, Inc., Chicago.

Both graduated from Prospect High School. The bride then spent two years at the University of Wisconsin — Eau Claire and later graduated from Western Illinois University. Jay is a graduate of Illinois State University.

ABC news wooing competition's talent

A plan to split the Barbara Walters-Harry Reasoner anchor team and use them and other big name reporters as globe-trotting news correspondents is the heart of a revitalization of the "ABC Evening News" under way.

When Roone Arledge, long-time sports chief for the network, was appointed in May to head and revamp the ABC news operation, he vowed to attract "the best" to the low-rated news show.

He began to fulfill that promise late Wednesday with the hiring of Cassie Mackin, a five-year political reporter with NBC.

Ms. Mackin will serve as ABC's Washington correspondent beginning Sept. 1st. She is the first of what is expected to be a string of top television news people lured away from CBS and NBC to join the ABC news ranks.

THE NETWORK, which captured the number one spot in ratings this past season after a Cinderella-like advance in programming, has the money it needs to attract top talent to its disappointing news shop.

The hiring of Ms. Mackin, who in 1972 was the first female television reporter to cover both the Republican and Democratic national conventions, comes on the heels of Av Westin's appointment as ABC news vice president and executive producer of the nightly newscast.

Arledge and Westin share a fondness for live, remote reporting from all over the world, and that seems to be the direction they will be taking the "ABC Evening News."

During a recent interview in San Diego, Fred Pierce, President of ABC Television, confirmed that the traditional anchoring duties of Ms. Walters and Reasoner on the nightly network newscast would be phased out.

"WE ARE GOING to use Barbara and Harry out in the field because reception to them as an anchor team has been lukewarm. It's no secret that we haven't made any audience progress with our present approach to the news," Pierce said. "We want to create a feeling of world wide news by getting reporters out on location."

By October, viewers will see a team of familiar, competent faces reporting from all the important corners of the world for ABC news. The set and content of the "ABC Evening News" also will be altered.

The entire news package that Arledge and Westin have planned will offer a distinct contrast to the evening newscasts presently aired by the other networks. NBC has said it will continue with anchorman John Chancellor in New York while David Brinkley settles down for his new coanchoring spot in Washington. CBS will continue as always with Walter Cronkite binding together the day's events as the single, dominating anchor.

REASONER, WHO is one of ABC's most experienced and well-versed reporters, will have no problem adapting to any new field reporting duties the network should decide to throw his way. Barbara Walters, however, may be a different case.

ABC signed her only a year ago for an unprecedented $1 million a year to co-anchor the evening news and do four annual interview news specials. She is a keen interviewer but not the kind of personality who can easily be transferred to a correspondent's position. She may put up a stink about such plans, although she recently did a week's worth of on-location reporting from Cuba.

Changes already are visible in the "ABC Evening News." Just this week, as Westin assumed his new responsibilities and kicked business off with a pep talk to the troops in New York, there have been details altered in the newscast.

THE NETWORK has been moving its news stories along through the half-hour broadcast more quickly and has been featuring more of Howard K. Smith in Washington. The graphics also have been changing — there are more of them being used, and more film being used as opposed to slides.

During the last month, reporters like Frank Reynolds and Tom Jerrel have been hopping from one country to another attempting to offer reports, as news happens.

The storm is brewing now, but toward the summer's end and into the fall months, dynamic changes on the nightly newscast that has finished last among the three networks, will become increasingly visible.

Westin worked from 1971 through the beginning of 1976 to rebuild the nightly news show and launch the network's "Close up" news unit. He's got the same process under way again, only this time, in addition to rebuilding the news, he and Arledge also have launched an investigative news unit, headed by former Washington Post television editor Sander Vanocur.

There are many capable, bright news correspondents working in television who are anxious to be part of the rebuilding at ABC, and the network seems to be waving a tempting wad of cash in front of the right faces just now to beef up its staff.

Network bosses are reluctant to discuss who they are wooing at the other two networks, but you can bet there will be more announcements like the one about Cassie Mackin in the weeks to come. And in the meantime, look for Ms. Walters and Reasoner to slowly blend into the crowd of network news personalities that the "ABC Evening News" soon will boast.

TV NOTES:

- ABC has signed Don Meredith to join Howard Cosell and Frank Gifford in announcing Monday night football this fall. Meredith left the same position with ABC in 1974 to work for NBC and was replaced by Alex Karras whose contract expired. Meredith was able to land a similar contract to what he enjoyed at NBC, one that includes sports announcing and acting duties for an undisclosed salary.
- Steve Edwards, the host of channel 7's "A.M. Chicago" show, will appear on ABC's "Good Morning, America" show at 7 a.m. today substituting for vacationing Sandy Hill.
- Chicago will play host to the stars this weekend as CBS conducts its annual press trip at the Hyatt Regency Chicago Hotel. Stars of the network's fall season such as Ed Asner, Betty White, Tony Randall and Linda Lavin will be interviewed by the Midwest press during day-long sessions Saturday and Sunday.

TV HIGHLIGHTS:

- Friday night television is highlighted mostly by movies including "The Russians are Coming" at 7 p.m. on Channel 2, a farce about Russians landing in New England; "Bridger" at 7 p.m. on Channel 7, about a pioneer mountain man who blazed a trail through the Rockies to California in the 1830's; and "A Gunfight" at 8:30 p.m. on Channel 7, which is a Kirk Douglas and Johnny Cash western.
- CBS also plans to take another creative crack at the newspaper profession with its 9:30 p.m. pilot on Channel 2, "Stop the Presses," about two energetic cub reporters.
- The musical "Thoroughly Modern Millie," starring Julie Andrews, Mary Tyler Moore and Carol Channing, kicks off Saturday night television at 7 p.m. Channel 7.
- The best on television Sunday includes Claude Kipnis' mime performance on "Evening at Pops" at 7 p.m. on Channel 11 and Robert Altman's offbeat thriller, "The Long Goodbye" on the 8 p.m. movie on Channel 7.

New regulations permit us to pay the highest interest rate allowed by law. So if you're not covered by a retirement plan where you work, or if you are changing jobs, the way to ensure a tax-saving retirement is to open a BANK & TRUST COMPANY Individual Retirement Account — IRA.

The dollars you put into your IRA now may be deducted from your income tax return for the year. You pay no taxes on your retirement fund until you retire, when your tax bracket will probably be lower and your exemptions higher.

An IRA permits you to invest up to 15% of your annual earned income or $1,500, whichever is less. And your money earns the highest interest rate allowed by law — 7¾% annual interest.

Wrong guess sets contract

Inspired defense usually starts with the choice of the opening lead. Today's hand shows Belladonna and Garozzo of Italy beating an expert declarer at an apparently unbeatable contract.

Both South players arrived at four spades in an IMP match. The king of clubs was opened against the Italian declarer who proceeded to make five odd by eventually discarding three of dummy's diamonds on clubs.

Belladonna opened a trump. His unfortunate opponent won in his hand and played the king of hearts.

Belladonna was in with the ace and promptly led the seven of diamonds.

South studied the situation for a long time. He knew that Belladonna was perfectly capable of underleading the ace-king of a suit. He also knew that he was equally capable of leading from ace-jack or king-jack which were two other possible combinations. Finally, declarer went wrong and played low from dummy whereupon the defenders had three diamond tricks and a 13 IMP profit.

Ask Andy

Cats' pupils shrink in size in darkness

Andy sends the Encyclopaedia Britannica's 1977 Yearbook of Science and the Future to Steve Downey, 14, of Cabin Creek, W. Va., for his question:

CAN CATS SEE IN THE DARK?

The cat is one of the most popular house pets in the world. Most are very smart. They can kill mice, do a few tricks — such as open doors and even ring doorbells — and they also provide lots of company and entertainment for members of the family. Pride seems to be one of the cat's strong traits, and there is also a lot of independence. If the cat doesn't want to play, he'll let you know.

Powerful eyes have always been one of the cat's best features. While many people believe that cats can see in complete darkness, this is not true. At night, the pupils of the cat's eyes can open extremely wide, letting in all the dim light there is. Because of this, a cat can indeed see very well in the dimmest of light.

Cat's eyes are usually orange, green, brown, hazel or blue. Some wild members of the family have yellow, gray or green eyes. Various breeds of cats have different colors for the iris — the colored area around the pupil — of their eyes.

A cat's eyes shine in the dark because of light that is reflected by the tapetum, that layer of cells forming a large part of the inner eye. The tapetum can be green, gold, blue or even pink. It reflects a different color as the light changes.

While a cat can open its pupils very wide when it is dark, it can also narrow the pupils to a very thin slit when the light is bright and there's a need to shut out the glare.

When it is time for a litter of kittens to be born, the mother usually picks out a very dark and hidden spot. She does this because she instinctively wants to protect the eyes of the newborn kittens from bright light because from eight to 10 days after a kitten is born his eyes are not fully open. Bright light, if it were to hit the kitten's eyes during this period of time, could easily cause injury. The hidden place is also selected to keep the kittens safe from prowlers.

A cat's eyes serve him very well and rarely offer problems. Cats do catch colds, however, and one of the effects is that there's a runny nose with lots of sneezing and also a watering of the eyes. But colds don't usually last very long, and then the eyes are back in good shape again.

The average age for most cats is 14, although many get to be 18 or 19 and some have gone all the way to 30. Because they see so well, are swift, agile and have perfect senses of balance, they can usually get out of most dangerous situations. That's the reason why people say that a cat has nine lives.

Andy sends a Denoyer-Geppert World Globe to Terry John, 15, of St. Michaels, Ariz., for his question:

WHAT IS THE DEVIL'S TRIANGLE?

The Devil's Triangle is also called the Bermuda Triangle. It's a spot that is off the southeastern coast of Florida where over the years many airplanes and ships have disappeared. Although many crafts crisscross the area daily, the mysterious disappearance of more than 50 vessels and planes since 1854 is baffling.

About a half-million square miles are in the triangular area between Melbourne, Fla., Puerto Rico and Bermuda. Tremendously swift ocean currents here may sweep wreckage far away and thus help to keep the mystery building. Violent and unexpected storms and downward air currents are also regularly reported in this area.

Do you have a question to Ask Andy? Send it on a post card with your name, age and complete address to Ask Andy in care of The Herald, P.O. Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006. Entries are open to boys and girls 7 to 17.

Test summer planting success

by DOROTHY NADHERNY of Klehm Nursery

Traditionally planting is avoided during the summer months. The fear is based on the fact that most summer transplanting has ended in failure. Now with balled and burlapped material and containerized plants, the only seasonal limitation for planting nursery stock is winter's frozen ground.

Guest gardener

A tremendous amount of research has been done in the field of containerized growing. Soil mixes are accurate down to the amount of air which is allowed in the blend. Periodically new innovations in the containers appear on the market. We are still awaiting a container which will hod up out of the ground, while disintegrating quickly once placed in the earth. The developers of slow-release fertilizers are close to perfecting a slow release weed killer as well. The same meticulous care has been taken in determining proper methods of fertilization.

THE NET RESULT for the consumer has been the availability of strong, actively growing container plants. The plant which is healthy in a container will increase in vigor upon being placed into its permanent location.

A common cause for failure with containerized planting is because plants are torn from their containers instead of cutting the containers away. If the container is cut away, the plant will not suffer any shock from the planting procedure. Soil surrounding roots should not be disturbed or removed from plant roots.

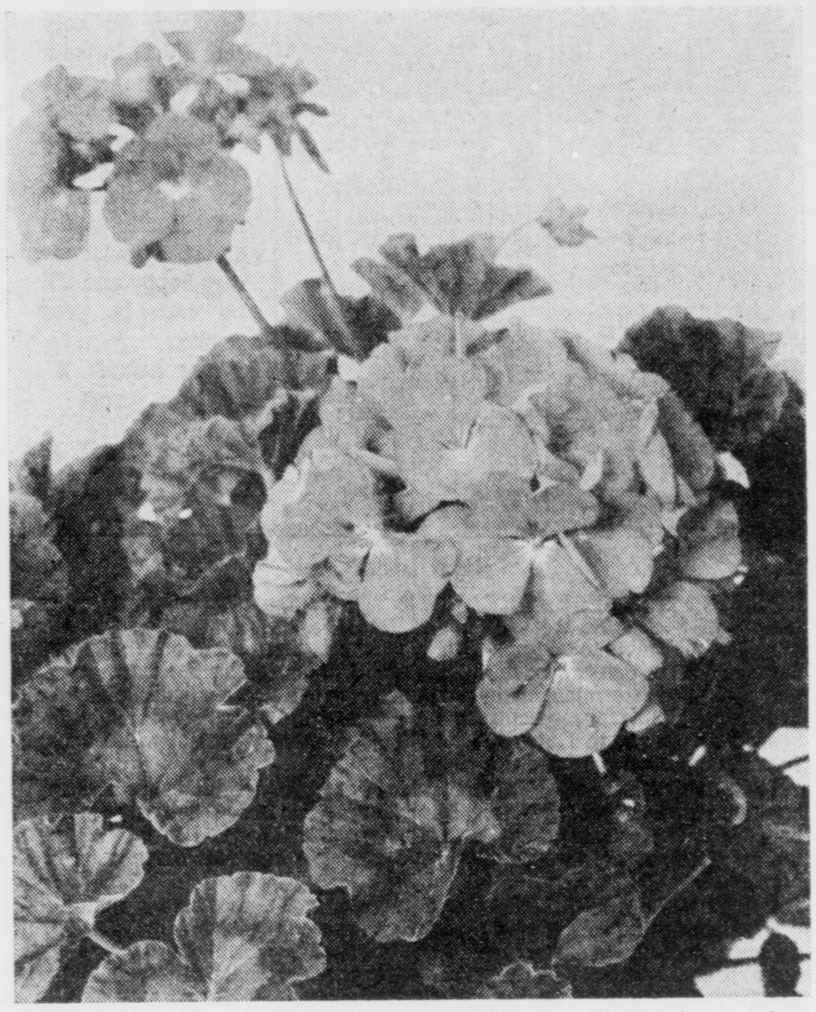
When removing the plant from container place it quickly and gently in the hole provided, covering well and tamping in soil around the root ball. This will prevent any plant shock.

NEXT TO POOR planting procedures, the most common cause for summer planting failure is improper watering procedures. Either you or nature should provide one inch of rainfall or water every seven to ten days. To conserve moisture, which is now at such a premium in the suburban areas, and to keep the roots cool, mulch new plantings to a depth of two inches. Easily accessable materials for mulching are shredded bark, redwood chips, cocoa shells or hay. The mulch also will keep down weed growth.

With proper care, nursery stock will look as fresh in mid-summer as any other season. In fact, many of the plants in nursery salesyards are showing signs of flowers and leaves for next year.

Shrubs that will give you a delightful splash of color are pink Spireas, red or pink weigelias and yellow Potentilla. In peak of bloom these shrubs and the bobbing Daylilies, with their trumpets of yellow, pink, coral and maroon flowers will supply your July garden with fragrance and color as well.

Bedding plants such as petunias, marigolds, begonias and allyzum will give you many weeks of pleasure. The Geranium is an ideal hot and dry weather plant that produces constant summer blooms of reds, white, pink, and coral. If you have missed planting a vegetable garden, it is not too late to plant tomatoes and peppers. These will bear a bountiful late harvest by fall.



GERANIUMS are ideal hot and dry weather plants that produce constant summer blooms.

Conserve water in landscape care

July and August, the two hottest months of the year, will post even greater problems for lawns and gardens this year because of water shortages that are causing some communities to restrict sprinkling.

Experts at the Theodore Brickman Co., landscape architects and contractors based in Long Grove recommended the following water-saving tips for homeowners.

RAISE MOWING height to three inches. The longer grass will shade itself and reduce evaporation. Longer grass will also help choke out weeks which compete for water.

If you mow to remove no more than 1/3 of the blade at each cut, you can leave the clippings on the law to act as a mulch to keep the soil cool and retard evaporation.

Feed your lawn with a fertilizer that has a ratio of four parts nitrogen, one part phosphorus and two parts potassium. During July and August, lawns need less nitrogen to encourage top grown which invites fungus attack. By increasing the ratio of potassium, you can green up the lawn without causing problems.

USE AN AERATOR to punch holes in compacted turf, slopes and mounds, so water will penetrate rather than run off.

A thorough one-inch sprinkling once a week is better than occasional sprinklings. Set out a coffee can where the water from the sprinkler can reach it, and fill to an inch.

If you can water only during certan hours, remember that the larger the hose diameter and sprinkler head you use, the more water you can apply in the time allowed. Most commercial equipment uses ¾-inch diameter, compared to ½-inch for home use.

THE FINER THE water spray and the higher in the air it goes, the more water is lost to evaporation. Low-trajectory impulse-type sprinklers that send a coarse stream close to the ground are better than oscillating swing-and-sway sprinklers for saving water.

Water early in the day if you can. Temperatures are cooler then, so there's less loss by evaporation. Also, grass has a chance to dry out, thus reducing chances of fungus attack.

If you have a lot of lawn to water, start with the sunniest, most wide-open areas in the coolest part of the day. Do the shady areas when it's hottest.

DON'T FORGET that plant materials such as evergreens, ornamentals, trees and shrubs need watering. Once a week insert a root feeder nine to 12 inches into the ground around the plants. Then remove and examine it. If the end of the feeder has moist earth clinging to it, the plant has sufficient water. But if the end is bright, shiny and dry, watering is needed.

A root feeder is still the best way to water plants because there's no wasteful run-off. For established plants, use the root feeder at the drip line. For new plants, stick the feeder right into the shoulder of the root ball.

USE ROOT FEEDERS on several plants at once. Use a Siamese connector on the end of the main hose, then lead off to as many as four root feeders. This speeds watering nad makes more effective use of water pressure.

Keep cultivation to a minimum around plants. Excess cultivation brings up soil moisture which quickly evaporates. If the earth is so dry that cracks open up, cultivate just enough to close the crack.

On open shrub beds in which the shrubs haven't matured enough to shade the soil, apply a three-inch layer of organic mulch, such as mush-soil temperature down.

Tips on planting chrysanthemums

Where are the best places to plant chrysanthemums?

- Don't plant in wet, shady places.
- Don't crowd plants but give them plenty of room for air circulation.
- Water only during the early hours of the day.
- As soon as the plant is well established apply fungicide spray containing Zineb or Bordeaux mixture.
- Spray thoroughly with nicotine sulphate to prevent insects and growth of sooty mold.

The HERALD

RESOLUTION

BE IT AND IT IS HEREBY RESOLVED THAT pursuant to the requirements of Chapter 48, Section 39S-1, et seq., Illinois Revised Statutes, that the prevailing rate of wages applicable to all Public Works contracts being performed in this School District shall be determined during the month of June of each calendar year and that upon such determination the prevailing rate of wages shall be publicly posted and kept available for inspection by any interested party in the main office of this School District and that a certified copy thereof shall be promptly filed in the Office of the Secretary of State at Springfield.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that within 30 days after the filing of such certified copy with the Secretary of State, the Secretary of this Board shall cause to be published in a newspaper of general circulation within this School District a notice that the determination of the prevailing rate of wages as hereinabove described is effective.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that a notice of said determination shall also be promptly mailed to any employer and to any association of employers and to any person or association of employees who have filed their names and addresses, requesting copies of that determination, stating the particular rates and the particular class of workmen whose wages will be affected by such rates.

Member Meyer moved that the foregoing resolution be adopted and Member Gibbs seconded the motion.

Upon a roll call being taken of the members, the vote was as follows:

AYE: Gibbs, Kelly, Kendall, Rowe, Sjostedt, Meyer
NAY: None

The President declared that the resolution was duly adopted.

ILLINOIS DEPARTMENT OF LABOR
CONCILIATION AND MEDIATION SERVICE
PREVAILING WAGES FOR CONSTRUCTION TRADES

These prevailing wages shall be included in the advertised specifications for every contract to which any public body, as defined in Chapter 48, Section 39-S, Ill. Rev. Stat., is a party. For construction and /or repair, including painting and redecorating, of public buildings or public works within the state of Illinois which requires or involves the employment of mechanics and/or laborers, the minimum wages, overtime rate and fringe benefits certified herein shall be paid and the scale of wages to be paid shall be posted by the contractor in a prominent and easily accessible place at the site of work.

Docket No. 1976-36

Ordinance No. 1496

(AN ORDINANCE AMENDING CERTAIN SECTIONS OF TITLE 17 OF THE WHEELING MUNICIPAL CODE)

WHEREAS, the Plan Commission of the Village of Wheeling has held certain public hearings to study proposed amendments to the Subdivision Ordinance of the Village of Wheeling, also known as Title 17; and

WHEREAS, the Plan Commission of the Village of Wheeling has made certain recommendations for amendments to said Subdivision Ordinance; and

WHEREAS, the President and Board of Trustees deem it in the best interests of the citizens of the Village of Wheeling that said Subdivision Ordinance be amended;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT ORDAINED by the President and Board of Trustees of the Village of Wheeling, County of Cook, State of Illinois, pursuant to its home rule powers, as follows:

SECTION A. That the following section be amended to read as follows:

17.04.040 Adoption of procedure. Immediately following their appointment, the members of the plan commission shall meet, organize, elect such officers as they may deem necessary, and adopt and later change or alter rules and regulations of organization or procedure consistent with Village ordinances and State laws. The commission shall keep written records of its proceedings, which shall be open at all times to public inspection.

SECTION B. That the following section be amended to read as follows:

17.04.070 Reporting on improvement regulations. The director of community development shall furnish the plan commission for its consideration a copy of all ordinances, plans and data relative to public improvements of any nature. The plan commission may report in relation thereto if it deems a report necessary or advisable, for the consideration of the village board of trustees.

SECTION C. That the following section be amended to read as follows:

17.08.050 Enforcement duties. It shall be the duty of the director of community development to enforce the requirements of the official map. The director of community development may call upon any other departments or official of the village to furnish him with such information or assistance as he may deem necessary for the observance or enforcement of the official map. It shall be the duty of such other department or officials to furnish such information or assistance whenever requested.

SECTION D. That the following section be amended to read as follows:

SECTION E. That the following section be amended to read as follows:

17.12.070 Cul-de-sac. The term "cul-de-sac" means a minor street with only one outlet and turn-around. Cul-de-sacs shall meet all the requirements for a minor street and, in addition, shall provide a turn-around as required in Section 17.28.110, and as described in the official Wheeling minimum design standards, which are made a part hereof.

SECTION F. That the following section be amended to read as follows:

17.12.090 Director of Community Development. The term "Director of Community Development" means an administrative official designated by the Village Manager.

SECTION G. That Title 17 of the Wheeling Municipal Code be amended by adding the following section:

17.12.175 Lot and Block. The term "lot and block" means that if the boundaries of the tract coincide exactly with the lot which is a part of a subdivision or addition for which there is recorded an official map, the tract may be legally described by giving the lot and block numbers and the name and date of filing of the official map, as illustrated by the following:

"Lot 15 in Block 5 as said lots and blocks are delineated and so designated upon that certain map entitled Map of the Village of Wheeling, Cook County, Illinois, filed August 23, 1909, in Liber 25 of Maps, page 2, in the office of the County Recorder of the said County of Cook."

SECTION H. That Title 17 of the Wheeling Municipal Code be amended by adding the following section:

17.12.202 Metes and Bounds. The term "metes and bounds" means that if the boundaries of a given tract within a subdivision for which there is a recorded map do not conform exactly to boundaries shown on the official map, the tract is described by metes and bounds, with the point of beginning referred to a corner shown on the official map. Also, the numbers of the lots of which the tract is composed are given. Following is an example of a description of this kind:

"Beginning at the intersection of the Northern line of Escondido Avenue, with the Eastern boundary line of Lot 16, hereinafter referred to; running thence Northerly along said Eastern boundary line of Lot 16, and the Eastern boundary line of Lot 17, eighty-nine (89) feet; thence at right angles Westerly, fifty-one (51) feet; thence South 12 degrees 06 minutes East, seventy-five (75) feet to the Northern line of Escondido Avenue; thence Easterly along said line of Escondido Avenue, fifty-three and 13/100 (53.13) feet, more or less, to the point of beginning.

"Being a portion of Lots 16 and 17, in Block 5, as said lots and block are delineated and so designated upon that certain map entitled Map of the Village of Wheeling, Cook County, Illinois, filed August 23, 1909, in Liber 25 of Maps, page 2, in the office of the County Recorder of the said County of Cook."

SECTION I. That Title 17 of the Wheeling Municipal Code be amended by adding the following section:

17.12.235 Outlots. The term "outlot" is defined as private common grounds or areas, as set out in this Code.

SECTION J. That Title 17 of the Wheeling Municipal Code be amended by adding the following section:

17.12.252 Plan Review Committee. The plan review committee shall be appointed by the Village Manager and shall consist of Village employees, and they shall review proposed plans for developments in the Village of Wheeling. It shall be the purpose of this group to review the plans to ascertain conformance with the Wheeling Municipal Code and to make recommendations on alternatives available to the Village for an individual development.

SECTION K. That the following section be amended to read as follows:

17.12.255 Planned development. A unified tract of land containing not less than five (5) acres, comprehensively planned as an entity via a unitary site plan which permits flexibility in building, usable open spaces, and the preservation of significant natural features, which will contain, when developed, two or more buildings, and which is developed under the control of a single entity for sale or lease by separate parcels or units, as determined by the zoning classification of the property.

SECTION L. That Title 17 of the Wheeling Municipal Code be amended by adding the following section:

17.12.285 The term "public utilities" shall include, but not be limited to street lighting, storm water drainage facilities, sanitary sewers or water mains.

SECTION M. That Title 17 of the Wheeling Municipal Code be amended by adding the following section:

17.12.315 Storm water. See Chapter 13.14 of the Wheeling Municipal Code.

SECTION N. That the following section be amended to read as follows:

17.12.340 Street, major, secondary, and collector. The term "major, secondary, and collector street" means those streets as shown and designated in the major street plan and sector plans, as amended. All other streets shall be considered minor streets. (See Sections 17.28.030 and 17.32.070.)

SECTION O. That the following section be amended to read as follows:

17.12.350 Street, marginal access. The term "marginal access street" means a minor street parallel and adjacent to a major thoroughfare, which provides access to abutting properties while providing protection to local traffic from fast, through traffic on the major thoroughfare. (See Sections 17.28.030E and 17.32.070E.)

SECTION P. That the following section be amended to read as follows:

17.12.380 Subdivision. The term "subdivision means the division of a parcel of land into two or more lots or parcels of record for the purpose of transfer of ownership or development for any future use, either residential, commercial or industrial and includes a division of a building into units under the "Illinois Condominium Act." The term includes resubdivision of lots or parcels of record and, when appropriate to context, shall relate to the process of subdivision or to the land subdivided.

SECTION Q. That Title 17 of the Wheeling Municipal Code be amended by adding the following section:

17.12.385 Unit. The term "unit" shall mean either a multiple family unit or an attached single family dwelling unit, both of which may be subject to the Illinois Condominium Act. If recorded under the Condominium Act, the units shall be numbered consecutively within a planned development.

SECTION R. That the following section be amended to read as follows:

17.12.390 Village engineer. The term "village engineer" means that person so appointed by the village manager.

SECTION S. That Title 17 of the Wheeling Municipal Code be amended by adding the following section:

17.12.405 Water detention. See Section 13.14.160 of the Wheeling Municipal Code.

SECTION T. That the following section be amended to read as follows:

17.16.030 Approval required for contract of sale. No person, firm or corporation proposing to make or have made a subdivision within the village and the area within the extraterritorial plat approval jurisdiction of the village shall enter into any contract for the sale of or shall offer to sell said subdivision or any part thereof until the final subdivision plat of the proposed subdivision has been properly recorded. This section shall not restrict the subdivider from being the contract purchaser of the property.

SECTION U. That the following section be amended to read as follows:

17.16.060 Enforcement responsibility. It shall be the duty of the director of community development, or his duly appointed representative, to enforce the provisions of this title.

SECTION V. That Title 17 of the Wheeling Municipal Code be amended by adding the following section:

17.20.015. Preliminary inquiry. Inquiries from any person regarding making application for a planned development pursuant to this ordinance shall be directed to the director of community development. After a general review of the project, the director of communit development, or his authorized representative, shall apprise the applicant of the procedures hereinafter set forth and given a general indication of the feasibility of the project.

SECTION W. That the following section be amended to read as follows:

17.20.020 Preliminary plat submission. A. PRE-APPLICATION CONFERENCE. Any owner or representative of the owner of land located within the corporate limits or within one and one-half miles of such corporate limits, desiring to subdivide or resubdivide, shall first submit to the director of community development of the Village of Wheeling such information as may be required by the plan commission)Chapter 17.24) to describe or outline the existing conditions of the site and the proposed development thereof. The applicant shall be supplied with pertinent information on plan commission requirements not herein contained, or as these regulations may be applied to the subject property.

Prior to filing a planned development application, the applicant shall file with the director of community development five (5) copies of a plat of survey, an aerial photograph of the subject site, preliminary plans and sketches and other such basic site information and in such quantity as may be deemed necessary by the director of community development. The director of community development shall schedule an initial conference with the applicant and the plan review committee for the purpose of reviewing the applicant's proposal and to advise the applicant of the required procedures for planned development approval.

B. CONTACTING DIRECTOR OF FINANCE AND ADMINISTRATIVE SERVICE. The subdivider shall be directed to contact the Director of Finance and Administrative Service when such documentation as is required for submission is prepared and is, in his opinion, ready for application and for the payment of required fees.

C. SUBMITTING DOCUMENTATION. The subdivider shall submit the documentation to the director of community development for his submission to the Plan Commission and the director of community development shall inform the subdivider of the date of presentation to the plan commission.

SECTION X. That the following section be amended to read as follows:

17.20.030A Preliminary plat approval. A. PREPARATION AND FILING. Before submitting a final plat for approval, the subdivider shall prepare a preliminary plat of the proposed subdivision which shall conform with the provisions set forth in Chapter 17.24 and Chapter 17.28 of this title, and shall provide sufficient number of copies as required to the director of community development. Within a maximum of 30 days following the final review of the preliminary plat by the plan review committee, the chairman shall submit a written report of the committee's findings and recommendations to the plan commission.

SECTION Y. That the following section be amended to read as follows:

17.20.030B CONFERENCE REVIEW. The preliminary plat will be reviewed by the plan commission and director of community development as to conformity with the official plan and map and the principles, standards and requirements set forth in this title. If the plat submitted is for a planned development, the conference review will be made upon receipt of the report of the plan review committee.

SECTION Z. That the following section be amended to read as follows:

17.20.030E Plats requiring examination by a professional planner, as determined by the director of community development, should be submitted to the planner prior to final consideration by the plan commission, and his report should be submitted to the plan commission. The fees for services rendered by said planner shall be borne by the applicant.

SECTION AA. That the following section be amended to read as follows:

17.20.030F LENGTH OF TIME APPROVAL EFFECTIVE. Approval of preliminary plat shall be effective for not more than twelve months following the date of approval by the corporate authorities. Extensions may be granted by the plan commission with concurrence by the president and board of trustees.

SECTION BB. That the following section be amended to read as follows:

17.20.030G EXCEPTIONS. Preliminary plats submitted by state and local governmental agencies and subdivisions containing three lots or less not involving new streets may be exempted from the applicable provisions of this section upon written application to the director of community development and with the approval of the majority of the members of the plan commission in attendance at the meeting at which the request was submitted; provided further, however, that the plan commission shall not approve both a preliminary plan and a final plat of subdivision, resubdivision or planned development of the same parcel of land at the same regularly scheduled meeting.

SECTION CC. That the following section be amended to read as follows:

17.20.040C COMMISSION'S RECOMMENDATION. The plan commission shall within thirty days from the date of submission of all required documents, recommend acceptance or rejection to the Village Board.

SECTION DD. That the following section be amended to read as follows:

17.20.040E SIGNATURES. All final plats which are accepted shall be signed by the Village president and the chairman of the plan commission providing both groups have indicated acceptance of the plat. The secretary of the plan commission will be required to attest to the chairman's signature on final plats.

SECTION EE. That the following section be amended to read as follows:

17.20.050A TIME LIMIT FOR SUBMISSION. The subdivider shall submit to the director of community development the original tracing on cloth and sufficient copies of the final plat as required by the director of community development within one year of the approval of the preliminary plat. The final plat shall include complete engineering construction plans for the proposed improvements. However, if approval of the preliminary plat must be obtained from approving authority subsequent to approval by the board of trustees, the final plat shall be submitted within one year of such approval. The failure to submit a final plat for recording within the time above specified shall operate as a revocation of the approval of the preliminary plat, and the subsequent subdivision of the same property shall proceed only upon a new application to the director of community development.

SECTION FF. That the following section be amended to read as follows:

17.20.063(3) A subdivision bond assuring satisfactory completion within a reasonable time, as well as the payment of labor and materials, sufficient to cover the cost of all underground and surface improvements, as estimated by the village engineer, including reasonable engineering and inspection fees necessary to conform to the established requirements, shall be posted with the village, by a surety which shall be approved by the village attorney. Said bond shall be in the form so prescribed by the village attorney.

SECTION GG. That the following section be amended to read as follows:

17.20.060(4) In lieu of the bond set forth in paragraph three above, the person, firm or corporation obtaining the approval of the subdivision or resubdivision may deposit cash or securities, including, but not limited to, (a) United States government obligations and obligations of which both the principal and interest are guaranteed unconditionally by the United States government; (b) bonds of federal land banks; (c) bonds or debentures of national mortgage associations established by or under the National Housing Act; (d) notes or bonds secured by mortgage insured by the Federal Housing Administrator or debentures issued pursuant to the provisions of the National Housing Act; (e) mortgages or trust deeds running to the benefit of the Village on real estate situated in the State of Illinois, acceptable to the village attorney, with the village to assure completion of the improvements within a reasonable time, as well as the cost of the labor and materials. The amount of the cash or securities to be deposited shall be sufficient to cover the cost of all underground and surface improvements as estimated by the village engineer, including reasonable engineering and inspection fees necessary to conform to the established requirements; provided that the funds shall be released or paid only upon the joint authority of the developer and the village, and that in the event of a breach of the agreement, said funds shall be released only upon the sole authority of the village. A subsequent owner of the property shall deposit with the village a certified check in the amount of $1,000.00 to repair damaged curb and gutter, parkways, manholes, street lights or other village owned facilities located within the street right-of-way. If after the complete development of the property there is no damage to curb, gutter, parkways, manholes, street lights or other village owned facilities, then the check referred to above shall be returned to said owner.

SECTION HH. That the following section be amended to read as follows:

17.20.060(5) Upon approval of the bond or the acceptance of the cash or securities by the village manager or village attorney, the director of community development shall record or cause to be recorded the final plat of subdivision in the office of the County Recorder of Deeds or Registrar of Titles, as may be required. The director of community development shall retain such final plat so approved and upon payment by the subdivider to the village of Wheeling the required fees for recording, he shall record the plat in the office of the County Recorder of the appropriate county. The supporting documents transmitted with said final plat to the village board shall be filed in the office of the director of community development. Said final plat, after recording shall remain on file in the office of the director of community development. The print or copy of the final plat with copy of the approval thereof by the village board and one copy of all supporting documents shall be delivered to the subdivider. Reproducible diazo copies (at the subdivider's or developer's expense) are acceptable for filing by the village in lieu of the original documents herein described. In all instances wherein a Torrens certificate is involved, the subdivider shall provide a copy of the final plat certified by the Registrar of Torrens.

SECTION II. That Title 17 of the Wheeling Municipal Code be amended by adding the following section:

17.20.060(7) In the event the ownership of the subdivision or planned development shall change before completion of the development, other than the gradual transfer of ownership from the developer to an association under the Condominium Act, the new owner or entity shall provide cash, securities, or other assurances acceptable to the corporate authorities with the village as required in subparagraph 3 or 4 of this section, and all prior written commitments entered into by the previous owner shall be binding on its heirs and assigns.

SECTION JJ. That Title 17 of the Wheeling Municipal Code be amended by adding the following section:

17.20.070 Building permits. No building permits shall be issued until the final plat of subdivision has been recorded. This provision does not restrict the construction of one principal building per lot of record.

SECTION KK. That the following section be amended to read as follows:

17.24.010 Pre-application conference data. The following information shall be presented by the subdivider at the time of the preliminary consultation:

(1) Proof of ownership of the land to be subdivided, in the form of a deed or option to purchase, plus Torrens certificate or title policy. No further consideration will be given the proposed subdivision unless such proof of ownership is established at the time of the pre-application conference.

(2) Submit to the director of community development of the village of Wheeling preliminary plat information as noted in Section 17.24.020.

(3) The provisions of this chapter shall also be applicable to planned developments.

(4) Where deemed necessary by the director of community development, the plan review committee shall review the plat and may require the following:

a. Traffic impact study conducted by the village's independent consultant with the developer paying the fee.

b. Water adequacy report, i.e. number of fire hydrants necessary, adequate water pressure, looping of mains, etc., to be prepared by a village designated engineer, with the developer bearing the cost.

c. Report from appropriate school district relative to the impact of the development upon the school system.

d. Report from the park district relative to the impact of the development upon the recreational needs of the community.

e. Copy of the application to the Metropolitan Sanitary District of Greater Chicago, when applicable.

f. Economic impact and Environmental Impact Evaluations prepared by the applicant.

The plan review committee shall submit a report of their findings to the plan commission.

(5) Deed or other evidence of title shall be required as part of documentation presented to the corporate authorities. If a metes and bounds subdivision has taken place in contravention of Section 17.16.070, proof of when subdivision took place should also be supplied to corporate authorities.

(6) Application shall be filed with the North Cook County Soil and Water Conservation District if the property is two acres or larger. The report from the North Cook County Soil and Water Conservation District must accompany the preliminary plat.

(7) Subdivision processing fees shall be paid prior to formal plan commission review of the subdivision.

(8) All plats and supporting data shall be submitted to the director of community development at least one week prior to the plan commission meeting at which the project will be reviewed.

SECTION LL. That the following section be amended to read as follows:

17.24.020 Information required on preliminary plat. The preliminary plat shall be legibly drawn with waterproof, non-fading black ink, or with pencil on tracing cloth or tracing paper of good quality at a scale not more than one hundred feet to one inch, and shall show correctly on its face or in supporting documents the following information:

(a) The proposed subdivision name, which shall not duplicate the name of any plat previously recorded in Wheeling.

(b) Date, scale, and north point.

(c) The name and address of the owner, or trust number, including a list of the beneficiaries of the trust and their percentage of ownership; the subdivider and the registered surveyor preparing the plat.

(d) Location of the Subdivision by quarter section, section, township, range and county. A small scale drawing of the section or government subdivision of the section in which the subdivision lies, with quarter section and section lines and with the location of the subdivision indicated thereon and oriented in the same manner as the main drawing.

(e) The approximate length and bearing of the exterior boundaries of the subdivision, such boundary to be indicated by a solid, heavy line.

(f) Location and names of adjacent subdivisions and the owners of adjoining parcels of unsubdivided land.

(g) Present village or county zoning on the property to be subdivided or resubdivided adjacent to the subdivision.

(h) Location, widths and names of all existing and platted streets, alleys, or other public ways and easements, railroad and utility rights-of-way, parks, playgrounds, school sites, public grounds, cemeteries, water courses, drainage ditches, permanent buildings, bridges and other pertinent data as determined by the plan commission within one hundred feet of the proposed subdivision or property owned or controlled by the subdivider.

(i) The water elevations of adjoining lakes or streams at the date of the survey and the approximate high and low water elevations of such lakes or streams. All elevations shall be referred to U.S. Geological Survey.

(j) Boundary of any flood plain area or zone, or area subject to flooding, as determined in Section 17.28.210.

(k) Layout and improved width of all new streets and rights-of-way, such as alleys, highways, unusual easements for sewers, water mains, and other public utilities.

(l) Direction and distance to nearest water and sanitary sewer mains and storm sewers or other drainage facilities to which the subdivider proposes to connect showing the size of existing facilities.

(m) Approximate dimensions of lots.

(n) Building setback lines shall be shown as a ". . . . . " line in accordance with the applicable zoning district.

(o) Approximate radii of all curves and lengths of tangents.

(p) Approximate location and area of any property proposed to be dedicated for public use or to be reserved by deed covenant for use of all property owners in the subdivision with the conditions, if any, of such dedication or reservation.

(q) Contours of vertical intervals of not more than two feet, with reference to U.S. Geological Survey datum, or at more frequent intervals if required by the plan commission for land of unusual topography.

(r) All corporate boundary lines on or adjacent to the proposed subdivision.

(s) A statement, near the owner's name, to read: PRELIMINARY PLAT, NOT TO BE RECORDED.

(t) A table of the following information: Total acreage of subdivision, acreage of streets, total number of lots, average area of lots, minimum lot acreage, and acreage of public lands to be dedicated other than streets. The developer shall estimate the approximate number of people who will reside in the proposed development.

(u) A complete listing of all existing covenants which apply to the land to be subdivided, and a complete listing of all covenants which are proposed by the subdivider to apply to the subdivided land, also a set of bylaws setting forth the establishment and operation of the planned development insofar as the maintenance of the internal improvements and common grounds are concerned.

(v) Where there is an existing subdivision and this submittal is a resubdivision, a certified copy plat of existing subdivision shall be submitted.

(w) A statement signed by the land planner, engineer, surveyor, or other person preparing preliminary plat that the plat meets the requirements of this article to the best of his ability and knowledge.

(x) A list of arrangements made to relieve the impact of the development on school district, park district, and the village.

(y) Distances between all buildings be shown.

(z) Distances between perimeter buildings and lot lines be shown.

(aa) Utility easement locations be shown.

(bb) All public improvements, including but not limited to, sidewalks, street lights, water mains, sanitary and storm sewer mains, detention basins, shall be shown.

When the submission of a preliminary plat has been waived pursuant to Section 17.20.030(G), such information as may be requested by the plan commission relative to the preliminary plat shall be shown on a separate sheet which shall be submitted with the final plat and be considered as part of the required documentation.

SECTION MM. That the following section be amended to read as follows:

17.24.040 Final plat preparation generally. A final plat of subdivided land shall conform substantially to the preliminary plat and shall meet the requirements specified in the following sections.

SECTION NN. That the following section be amended to read as follows:

17.24.050 Materials for plans. All plats shall be legibly prepared as follows:

(a) On tracing cloth or Mylar.

(b) With waterproof, nonfading black ink on a scale not more than one hundred feet to an inch. The scale used shall be indicated on the plat graphically in letters.

SECTION 00. That the following section be amended to read as follows:

17.24.060(a) The name or names of the owners or trust numbers (listing the names of the beneficiaries and their percentage in the trust) of the property.

SECTION PP. That Title 17 of the Wheeling Municipal Code be amended by adding the following sections:

17.24.060(1) That the subdivision is in the corporate limits or within one and one-half miles of the corporate limits of the village of Wheeling.

(m) Building setback lines shall be shown as a ". . ." line, in accordance with the applicable zoning district.

SECTION QQ. That Title 17 of the Wheeling Municipal Code be amended by adding the following section:

17.24.070(f) All public utility easements shall be specified on the plat.

SECTION RR. That the following section be amended to read as follows:

17.24.100 Documents to accompany final plat.

A. LEGIBILITY. To entitle a final plat to be recorded, such certificates as are required by law shall be lettered or printed legibly with black durable ink or typed legibly with black ribbon.

B. COVENANTS. All covenants shall be shown on the final plat, or in accompanying documents attached thereto provided, however, that in all developments there must be covenants running with the land for all common areas or grounds.

C. SURVEYOR'S CERTIFICATE. Certification, with seal, by a registered surveyor to the effect that the plat represents a survey made by him, that the monuments and markers thereon exist as located, and that all dimensions and details are correct. Surveyor's certificate must show certification by the surveyor that the subdivision is within the corporate limits of the village of Wheeling and that the village has adopted an official plan.

D. STREET DEDICATION. Notarized certification, by the owner or owners, of the dedication of streets and other dedicated areas for a specific public use.

E. APPROVALS. Approvals by county and state authorities as required, including, but not limited to the following:

1. Subsequent to approval of a final plat by the plan commission, but prior to approval of the final plat by the village board, the subdivider shall provide a copy of the receipted property tax bill for the most recent tax installment. This provision shall apply to plats of subdivision, plats of subdivision vacation, and plats of dedication.

2. Prior to final plat approval by the plan commission, all properties recorded in Torrens shall be processed through the Torrens Office to determine if the form of the final plat is acceptable for recording. The subdivider shall submit a letter to the director of community development that he has complied with this provision. At the time a final plan for property is recorded in Torrens, the subdivider, or his representative, shall accompany a village representative to the recorder's office to assist in the recording of the final plat.

If the subdivision is situated within 550' of any surface drain or water course serving a tributary area of 640 acres or more, prior to recording the final plat, the subdivider shall submit a copy of the approved plat to the Division of Water Resources, Illinois Department of Transportation, State of Illinois, for their flood hazard report which is sent to the county recorder's office. The plat shall not be recorded until such time as the county recorder has received the report.

F. IMPROVEMENTS. The subdivider shall sign a statement setting forth improvements he will make in the subdivision and agreement that such improvements shall be at his own expense, including all costs of inspections by the village during construction.

G. ENGINEERING SPECIFICATIONS. Specifications and engineering construction drawings, including profiles, cross-sections and details as applicable, of all public improvements. Elevations shall be referred to the established U.S. Geological Survey Datum.

H. ENGINEER'S STATEMENT. A statement signed by the village engineer approving the specifications, drawings, and estimates of cost.

I. BOND. Surety bond or including (a) United States government obligations and obligations of which both the principal and interest are guaranteed unconditionally by the United States government; (b) bonds of federal land banks; (c) bonds or debentures of national mortgage associations established by or under the National Housing Act; (d) notes or bonds secured by mortgage insured by the Federal Housing Administrator or debentures issued pursuant to the provisions of the National Housing Act; (e) mortgages or trust deeds running to the benefit of the village on real estate situated in the State of Illinois; or cash, as set forth in Chapter 17.20. Surety must be supplied to the director of community development prior to submission of the final plat to the village board for approval.

J. MANAGEMENT ORGANIZATION STRUCTURE AND BY-LAWS. Management Organization Structure and By-Laws where planned development is being submitted wherein individual dwelling units may be sold to the occupants.

K. TEMPORARY BUILDINGS. A temporary building for model apartments, condominiums, townhouses and/or office space in only a planned unit development may be permitted, subject to the following conditions:

1. The location of the temporary building shall be approved by the plan commission, at the time of the submission of the final plat. The final plat of the planned development shall be approved prior to issuance of any building permit for a temporary building.

2. Temporary buildings may be located by the plan commission without regard to setback requirements.

3. The temporary building shall be removed upon completion of the project, but not to exceed two years from the date of issuance of the building permit for said building. After two years the building must be removed by the owner or developer, or they must petition the plan commission for additional time within which the building will remain. The plan commission shall have complete jurisdiction as to granting the additional time without a public hearing, after a written report from the director of community development as to the condition of the building has been submitted to the plan commission.

4. Regular building permit fees shall be charged for the temporary building.

5. Any temporary building shall not be used for residential occupancy, but only for temporary models and/or sales or construction offices in connection with said project.

6. Sewer and water shall be connected to the temporary building.

7. The temporary building must have approval of the fire department and building department prior to final approval by the plan commission.

8. The cost of the subsequent removal of the temporary building shall be considered when computing the amount of requisite performance bond.

SECTION SS. That the following section be amended to read as follows:

17.28.080(1) The zoning ordinance and all other applicable ordinances of the Village of Wheeling, including flood plain regulations and the Storm Water Runoff Ordinance, Chapter 13.14.

SECTION TT. That the following section be amended to read as follows:

17.28.150 Alleys. A. REQUIRED IN COMMERCIAL AND INDUSTRIAL DISTRICTS. Alleys shall be provided in all commercial and industrial districts, except that the plan commission may waive this requirement where other definite and assured provision is made for service access, such as off-street loading and parking consistent with and adequate for the uses proposed.

SECTION UU. That the following section be amended to read as follows:

17.28.180 Public use facilities and areas. A. FLOODWATER RUNOFF. In addition to providing for streets and alleys and ways and easements for public facilities and utilities, provision shall be made for the dedication or reservation of such storm or flood water runoff channels and basins, park, playground, school ground and other public grounds as may be reasonably required by the plan commission to conform to the principles set forth in the official map which shall be a part of the comprehensive plan of the village, and this title. Provision shall be made for maintenance in perpetuity for all public facilities, either through private or public ownership.

B. MISCELLANEOUS PUBLIC LAND. In addition to subsection A above, any public grounds designated on the official map which lie within a proposed subdivision and which have not been otherwise provided for shall be reserved for the particular public use or uses so designated on the official map for a period of twelve months from the date of recording of the final plat or subdivision.

C. DESIGNATION ON PLAT. Such dedicated or reserved area shall be designated in the plat of subdivision by the proper words of "to be dedicated," or "reservation", designating the public body to which the land is dedicated or reserved.

SECTION VV. That the following section be amended to read as follows:

17.28.200 Easements. Eastments where required shall be provided along a lot line and normally centered upon the lot line. Evidence shall be furnished the plan commission that easements, and any easement provisions to be incorporated on the plat or in deeds, have been reviewed by the individual utility companies or the organization responsible for furnishing the service involved. Where easements will be used for rear or side lot drainage, they shall be a minimum of twelve feet wide and normally centered. All easements shall be considered and noted as both utility and drainage easements.

SECTION WW. That the following section be amended to read as follows:

17.28.210 3. RIGHT-OF-WAY PROVISION FOR MAJOR WATER COURSE. Each major river, drainageway or stream as shown on the most current U.S. Geological Survey flood hazard map, including but not limited to, McDonald Creek, Buffalo Creek, Wheeling Drainage Ditch, which borders or traverses the proposed subdivision shall be provided with a storm water easement or right-of-way conforming substantially with the lines of the water course and of such further width as will be adequate to accommodate observed, computed, or anticipated flood flows and heights and will provide access along the channel for operation of channel operation and maintenance equipment. In any case, the minimum width of such a stream right-of-way shall not be less than forty feet on each side of the center line of said major river drainage way or stream. If a major water course traverses through a subdivision, the water course shall be improved by the subdivider in compliance with plans and specifications on file in the village engineer's office. The improvements shall be guaranteed by surety as provided in Section 17.20.060.

SECTION XX. That the following section be amended to read as follows:

17.28.210 4. RIGHT-OF-WAY FOR MINOR WATER COURSES. Each minor drainageway, channel, or water course which borders or traverses the proposed subdivision shall be maintained as open channels with a storm water easement or right-of-way of adequate width to accommodate observed, computed, or anticipated runoff and flood flows. In any case, the minimum width of these channel rights-of-way shall be not less than twenty feet on each side of the centerline of said minor drainageway channel or water course. Upon indication of adequacy of design, as evidenced by the studies provided for in subsection 1, above, the upper reaches of such drainageways may be enclosed as a part of the storm sewer system. If a minor water course traverses through a subdivision, the water course shall be improved by the subdivider in compliance with plans and specifications on file in the village engineer's office. The improvements shall be guaranteed by surety as provided in Section 17.20.060.

SECTION YY. That Title 17 of the Wheeling Municipal Code be amended by adding the following section:

17.30.050 Use of fill. If fill, including any structure, is used to meet any of the above requirements, flood reservoirs, water retention dams, or extensions of the flood plain shall be constructed upstream of the fill, equal in volume to the volume of the fill deposited below the highest recorded flood level; all construction to be in accordance with the official village standards of the village of Wheeling.

SECTION ZZ. That the following section be amended to read as follows:

17.32.020 Required specifications designated - Directions for preparation. Simultaneous with filing of the final plat, six copies of construction plans and specifications, prepared by a professional engineer registered in Illinois and bearing his seal, shall be furnished to the village engineer accordance with the provisions of this section for the following subdivision improvements:

(a) Street pavements, including cross sections of the proposed streets and as applicable on the adjoining property.

(b) Sanitary sewerage system.

(c) Storm drainage including sewers and detention basins, if any.

(d) Water supply and distribution, including all fittings and appurtenances.

(e) A street lighting plan shall be submitted on a separate drawing.

(f) Sidewalks.

(g) Curb and gutter.

(h) Public utility locations.

(i) Street signs, guard rails, etc.

(j) Street trees and landscaping.

Construction drawings are to be made on F.H.A. plan and profile sheets to a minimum horizontal scale of one inch equals fifty feet and a maximum vertical scale of one inch equals five feet on which are shown existing and proposed construction. Six copies of the final plat must be submitted as part of this submittal. The village reserves the right to have any material tested by a testing laboratory of its choice. The testing may b done prior to construction or after the material is in place. The cost of any testing ordered by the village shall be borne by the developer or subdivider. The developer or subdivider shall be responsible for providing full time inspection of the work by the design engineer. Inspection done by the village in no way relieves the developer or contractor of their responsibility for the completed work.

Immediately upon completion of improvements, two marked sets of plans showing the improvements as built, shall be supplied to the village engineer by the subdivider or developer. The subdivider's or developer's engineer shall be responsible for coordinating and supervising the correction of any work not meeting the approval of the village inspector. He shall cooperate with the village on all matters concerning the improvements. All plans shall be complete enough so that it is not necessary for the field engineer or contractor to redesign the improvements as they are constructed. Should there be any revisions necessary to approved plans such provisions must be submitted to the village engineer for his approval prior to any construction.

SECTION AAA. That the following section be amended to read as follows:

17.32.070 Design standards - Streets. Pavement widths shall be measured back to back of curbs in A through F.

A. MAJOR STREETS. Major streets shall have a right-of-way width as established by the official village plan but in no case less than one hundred feet, a fifty-one foot pavement width, as described in the official Wheeling standards which are made a part hereof. The plan commission may require a grassed-in median of at least four feet in width, if they so desire in specific cases.

B. SECONDARY STREETS. Secondary streets shall have a right-of-way of not less than eighty feet, a pavement width of thirty feet, as described in the official Wheeling standards which are made a part hereof.

C. COLLECTOR STREETS. Collector streets shall have a right-of-way width of not less than sixty-six feet, a pavement width of thirty-nine feet, as described in the official Wheeling standards which are made a part hereof.

D. MINOR STREETS. Minor streets shall have a right-of-way width of not less than sixty-six feet, a pavement wideth of thirty feet, as described in the official Wheeling standards which are made a part hereof. The right-of-way width of minor streets in planned developments may be reduced by Board approval.

E. MARGINAL ACCESS STREETS. Marginal access streets shall have a right-of-way width of not less than forty feet, a pavement width of thirty feet, as described in the official Wheeling standards which are made a part hereof.

F. CUL-DE-SAC. Cul-de-sacs shall meet all the requirements for a minor street and, in addition, shall provide a turn-around as required in Section 17.28.110, and as described in the official Wheeling standards which are made a part hereof.

SECTION BBB. That the following section be amended to read as follows:

17.32.090 DESIGN STANDARDS - CURBS. No street shall be paved hereafter unless provision is made for the concurrent installation of concrete curbing along each side edge of the pavement. The type of curbing shall be designated by the village engineer and shall consist of either straight concrete curbs or combined concrete curbs and gutters. The installation, construction and design of the curbing herein required shall be in accordance with official Wheeling minimum design standards which are made a part hereof.

SECTION CCC. That the following section be amended to read as follows:

17.32.110B STANDARDS. No street shall be constructed unless provisions are made for the concurrent installation and construction of storm sewers. The installation, construction and design of the storm sewers herein required shall be in accordance with official Wheeling standards which are made a part hereof.

SECTION DDD. That the following section be amended to read as follows:

17.32.120A. MAINS. Water mains shall be installed in such a manner that every lot, parcel of land or building to be serviced thereby shall be serviced by means of a house connection within its own frontage and shall be so connected to the existing water distribution system as to be circulating. All water mains shall be looped. The installation, construction and design of the mains herein required shall be in accordance with official Wheeling standards which are made a part hereof. In those cases where water mains can not be looped, it shall be the responsibility of the property owner to extend the water main across the complete frontage of the lot or lots.

SECTION EEE. That the following section be amended to read as follows:

17.32.170 E. SCREEN PLANTING. Screen and decorative planting as approved shall be provided by the subdivider in all areas where buildings back up to streets. Live landscaping shall be provided in shopping centers and parking areas, as approved by the plan commission.

SECTION FFF. That the following section be amended to read as follows:

17.40.030 2. FLOOD HAZARDS. Where the downstream capacity of sewer system is inadequate and the proposed sewers will not handle the runoff, or where the topography of the ground is such that flooding can be expected more often than the period for which the system is designed, the developer's engineer shall point this out in his drainage computations report. The possibility of flooding can then be reduced through the use of a modified grading plan and overhead sewers and possible use of detention basins. Prior to planning any detention basin, the location must be approved by the village engineer and plan commission.

SECTION GGG. That the following section be amended to read as follows:

17.40.040 Standards for sanitary sewers.

1. MANHOLES. Manholes shall be of pre-cast concrete rings. Common brick shall not be permitted.

2. MINIMUM SIZE. The minimum size sanitary sewer shall be eight inches in diameter.

3. QUANTITY OF EFFLUENT. The quantity of effluent shall be determined in accordance with the standards established by Illinois Sanitary Water Board and shown in publication entitled "Rules and Regulations" governing the submission of plan documents and the design of sewage works.

4. MINIMUM STANDARDS FOR SERVICE. The sanitary sewer service shall be a minimum size of six inches in diameter and shall be installed on a minimum grade of 0.63%. The top of the sewer service shall be at least one and one-half feet below the bottom of the water service. The water service must have at least four and one-half feet of cover. Where it is not possible to obtain the necessary vertical clearance, services shall be placed in separate trenches.

5. CONNECTIONS. Where connections must be made at other than previously installed wyes or risers, use a shewer tap, a saddle encased in concrete, or other method approved to these standards. If a sanitary sewer does not meet with the approval of the Metropolitan Sanitary District's inspection, the village shall televise the sections of sewers which do not pass that inspection, with the cost of said televising being reimbursed by the developer before acceptance of the sanitary sewers.

10. FOOTING DRAINS, SUMP PUMPS AND DOWNSPOUTS. Footing drains, sump pumps and downspouts shall not be connected to sanitary sewers.

SECTION HHH. That the following section be amended to read as follows:

17.40.050 6. HYDRANTS. Traverse City hydrants shall Irene No. 8 Fri 7-15-77 legal 48983 GALLEY FIVE — — be used with threads as required by the village engineer. The grade line of the hydrant shall be set flush with the finished grade. The hydrant shall be painted in accordance with the recommendations of the village engineer. A minimum of one-half cubic yard of clean wash gravel shall be used for draining the hydrant. Maximum hydrant spacing shall be four hundred feet.

SECTION III. That the following section be amended to read as follows:

17.40.050 7. SERVICE STUBS. The water service stubs shall consist of a one inch tap with a one inch Type K copper pipe and a shut-off valve at the buffalo box. The buffalo box shall be located in the parkway approximately one foot from the sidewalk or at some location to be designated by the villag engineer. The type of buffalo box shall be as required by the village engineer. The main shall be tapped for the water service and the connection made under pressure. There shall be a separate buffalo box and water meter for each individual living unit.

SECTION JJJ. That the following section be amended to read as follows:

17.40.050 9. WATER MAIN TESTING. Testing and sterilization of water mains shall be done under the supervision of the village engineer as follows: Testing: The contractor shall fill the pipe with clean water under a minimum pressure of one hundred twenty p.s.i. and maintain the initial pressure over a two-hour period. Leakage to be determined by AWWA standards. Sterilization: Water mains shall be sterilized by experienced chlorination technicians using chlorine gas applied at a uniform rate throughout the treatment period. The chlorination technician shall collect bacteriological samples and transport same to the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency for analysis. Before the water is to be used by consumers, this analysis must be on file with and approved by the village engineeer.

SECTION KKK. That the following section be amended to read as follows:

17.40.070 Construction and material standards. Where not otherwise covered herein, all work and materials used shall be mixed and placed as provided in the Standard Specifications for Road and Bridge Construction of the State of Illinois, Division of Highways, adopted July 1, 1976, as amended.

(1) The village engineer shall be notified at least twenty-four hours before any phase of construction is begun:

(2) All bituminous concrete shall be mixed under the supervision and control of a competent testing laboratory with daily reports submitted to the village engineer, or the design engineer shall furnish the village engineer a report from the plant certifying that the bituminous material furnished was in accordance with specifications:

(3) Pozzolanic Base Course, Type A and Bituminous Concrete Surfacing:

a. The special provisions for Pozzolanic base course, Type A, prepared by the State of Illinois Department of Highways, Department of Public Works and Buildings, shall be strictly adhered to. Test cylinder may be required by the village engineer or inspector and the subdivider or his contractor will cause the cylinder to be cured and broken by a materials laboratory at no expense to the village.

b. After final rolling of the Pozzolanic base course and before any traffic is permitted, the base shall be primed with MC-0 at the rate of 0.2 gallons per square yard and the bituminous concrete binder course shall be placed according to State of Illinois standards.

c. After one winter and spring season, the base and binder shall be repaired or replaced, if necessary, to the satisfaction of the village engineer, and the surface course of I-11 bituminous concrete may be placed upon the primed binder course after approval of the village engineer.

(4) Bituminous Aggregate Mixture Base Course. The minimum Marshall Stability - 1900 lbs. The material shall be mixed under the supervision and control of a competent testing laboratory with daily reports submitted to the village engineer or the design engineer shall furnish the village engineer a report from the plant certifying that the bituminous material furnished was in accordance with the following specifications: After one winter and spring season, the base course shall be cleaned and repaired or replaced, if necessary, to the satisfaction of the village engineer, then primed with RC-70 at the rate of 0.15 gallons per square yard prior to the placement of the one and one-half inch bituminous concrete surface course, Class I;

(5) Portland Cement Concrete:

a. The minimum compressive strength at twenty-eight days shall be three thousand five hundred pounds per square inch.

b. The slump shall not exceed three inches.

c. Air content of the mix shall be five, plus or minus one per cent.

d. The amount of water added at the job site shall be noted on the truck ticket.

e. The truck ticket shall be available to the village engineer, or his duly authorized representatives.

f. White pigmented membrane curing compound shall be applied to the concrete for curing purposes.

g. The village engineer may require the subdivider's engineer or contractor to take a number of test cylinders to be cured and tested in compression by a materials laboratory at no expense to the village. The number or samples to be taken and the breaking dates shall be as determined by the village engineer.

SECTION LLL. That the following section be amended to read as follows:

17.44.150 Materials for standards and brackets. Standards and brackets shall be residential concrete standard, silver granite, water polished finish with precast butt base with eight feet bracket arm, one and one-quarter inch slip fitter, handhole and mounting height of twenty-five feet ten inches or aluminum break-away poles of the same dimensions. The developer shall commit himself in writing as to the type of standards to be used prior to the approval of the final plat.

SECTION MMM. That the following section be amended to read as follows:

17.46.010 Generally. In general, all the foregoing conditions shall apply for planned developments unless otherwise stated in the specific section of Title 17.

Planned developments may not be used to avoid other ordinance requirements or as a means to make improvements at a lower standard than otherwise required. All planned developments shall provide for ownership and maintenance of common areas. Common areas may not be dedicated to the public. No increase in density or resubdivision of the planned development arrangement may be allowed without new approvals.

Public dedicated lands shall not be used when computing density requirements.

Parking areas shall be assigned to each apartment unit. The number of parking areas cannot be reduced in the future.

A planned development, whether a new development or changed ownership of an existing building or project, is a subdivision of land and must comply with subdivision ordinance and be approved. When planned development is applied to existing buildings or projects, requirements for a preliminary plat may be waived by the plan commission.

All individually owned properties shall have access to a public street or to a common area which, in turn, has access to a public street.

SECTION NNN. That Title 17 of the Wheeling Municipal Code be amended by adding the following section:

17.46.020 Open space. Open space shall be provided which shall not be less than 25 per cent of the net site area. Open space shall be covered by grass or shrubbery suitably landscaped, or water areas as approved by the plan commission, and shall not be covered by buildings, parking areas or streets.

SECTION 000. That Title 17 of the Wheeling Municipal Code be amended by adding the following section:

17.46.030 Traffic regulation and control. The owner or entity owning any shopping center, apartment complex, or planned development, shall enter into a contract with the corporate authorities pursuant to the applicable provisions of the Illinois Municipal Code and the Illinois Motor Vehicle Act (S.H.A., Ch. 95½, Sec. 11-209 et seq.) relative to the control and regulation of traffic within the shopping center, apartment complex or planned development.

SECTION PPP. That Title 17 of the Wheeling Municipal Code be amended by adding the following section:

17.46.040 Refuse disposal. Areas for refuse must be provided by the developer in accordance with the following recommendations:

a. Planned development or apartment type developments' garbage should either be containerized, i.e. leach boxes, or compacted.

b. Developer shall submit in writing the type of service he expects to have, such as two or three pickups per week, to be approved by the village health officer.

c. The village health officer shall be consulted to determine size and number of containers required, also size and number of enclosures.

d. Areas shall be large enough to facilitate easy opening and closing of lids and, also, large enough to accommodate household materials which cannot normally be placed in containers.

e. Wooden or brick stockade type enclosures shall be required and located conveniently for residents.

f. Service for townhouse developments shall be treated the same as private dwellings, i.e. approved cans or plastic bags shall be used. Specific storage areas shall be included in plans.

SECTION QQQ. That Title 17 of the Wheeling Municipal Code be amended by adding the following section:

17.46.050 Fire Lanes. A seventeen foot (17') fire lane shall be provided if so required by the fire chief at the side and rear of all structures, and no parking shall be allowed in that area. The developer shall provide the fire department with a plat of the development indicating the street names and numbers before the start of construction. The fire chief, or his duly authorized agent, shall submit written approval of the final plat prior to its presentation to the plan commission. In addition, street numbers shall be at least 6" in height so that they can easily be seen from the street whenever and wherever possible, and street numbers shall be in a sequence to be approved, in writing, by the local postmaster or his duly authorized agent prior to submission of the final plat to the plan commission.

Further, all preliminary plat plans for planned developments shall be submitted to the fire department, at which time, the department shall determine the necessity for fire lanes. Fire lanes shall be required for buildings over two stories high and for any building to which there is not sufficient normal access for firefighting equipment, or at such other location as the fire chief shall designate. Fire lanes shall either be designed as a 10' wide drive or shall consist of two continuous concrete ribbons, each 42" wide separated by 36" of open area so that the total width equals 10'.

SECTION RRR. That the following section be amended to read as follows:

17.48.010 Generally. To defray the administrative costs of review and engineering and inspection costs incurred by the village, the developer is required to reimburse the village as provided in this chapter.

SECTION SSS. That the following section be amended to read as follows:

17.48.020 Fees for processing plats. For processing preliminary and final plat and documents (not including engineering improvement plans)' the following fees shall be paid before consideration of the subdivision by the plan commission or village board:

For any plat containing ten acres or less: Three Hundred Dollars.

For any plat containing more than ten acres: Three Hundred Dollars, plus Fifty Dollars for each additional ten acres or fraction thereof.

Once review of the preliminary plat of subdivision has begun, no portion of this fee is returnable.

For any public hearings held in connection with a request for variations from this title: One Hundred Fifty Dollars initial fee and One Hundred Fifty Dollars cost deposit.

The cost deposit is to be paid at the same time as the initial fee and from this deposit will be deducted the secretary and court reporter's hourly rate for each hour or portion thereof while conducting the hearing, and the actual cost of publication. Any unexpended sums of the said cost deposit will be returned to the petitioner and any sums in excess of the said cost deposit will be paid by the petitioner.

All fees are to be paid prior to the hearing.

SECTION TTT. That the following section be amended to read as follows:

17.48.030 Processing plans for public or private improvements. For review and processing by the village engineer of the plans and specifications for the construction of public or private improvements, a fee shall be paid before review by the village engineer after filing of the plans and specifications with the village engineer. A review fee will also be charged for a resubmittal or changes in plans.

The fee shall be set forth in Section 17.48.060.

Once review of the plans and specifications has begun, no portion of this fee is returnable.

SECTION UUU. That the following section be amended to read as follows:

17.48.050 Inspection of improvements generally. In addition to the full time inspection that the developer's engineer must furnish, the village will perform a limited amount of inspection as previously stated. The amount of village inspection will be at the discretion of the village engineer.
Irene No. 8 Fri 7-15-77 legal 48983 GALLEY SIX — —

The village engineer on behalf of the village shall charge the developer for all inspections of surface and underground improvements at the rate of $20.00 per hour.

The developer shall be billed periodically for inspection services performed by the village.

SECTION VVV. That the following section be amended to read as follows:

17.48.060 Fees for plan review, resubmittals or plan changes. The fees to be charged for the review of plans, resubmittals or plan changes are as follows:

Estimated Cost of Construction	Review Fee
For the first $20,000	2%	(Fees are for
For the next $180,000	1%	each development or unit
For the next $300,000	¾%	submitted for
Thereafter	½%	approval).

These fees shall be paid before the village engineer begins his review, and once the review is started, no portion of the fee is returnable.

The developer shall issue a check to the village of Wheeling for an amount equal to the above fee based upon the developer's engineer's estimated cost as approved by the village engineer at the time he requests review.

The village engineer shall review the final plans and report his findings in writing to the director of community development.

The developer shall instruct his engineer to make the necessary revisions and submit the final plans and specifications to the village engineer for approval, and the village engineer shall forward his recommendations to the director of community development.

SECTION WWW. That the following section be amended to read as follows:

17.52.010 Conditions required for granting. The village board may grant a variance from the provisions of this title in specific cases:

(1) Where the reasonable future volume or type of traffic may so warrant; and

(2) Where topographic or soil conditions may so warrant; or

(3) Where, by reason of an exceptional situation, surrounding or condition, the strict application of any provision of this title would result in peculiar and exceptional practical difficulties or particular hardship upon the owner of property abutting upon an existing or proposed street.

(4) Where the property in question cannot yield a reasonable return if permitted to be used only under the terms of this title and where the plight of the owner is due to unique circumstances and where the variation, if granted, would not alter the essential character of the area.

(5) Where construction materials equivalent to those enumerated in this title are not approved in writing by the village engineer.

In the event the village engineer does not approve any substitution of materials requested by the developer under subparagraph (5) above, the developer or his authorized agent may apply to the corporate authorities for a variation from the applicable provisions of this title. The corporate authorities shall then direct the plan commission to hold a public meeting as outlined hereafter.

Requests for a variance of this title shall be submitted to the village board. Such requests shall be submitted to the plan commission for a public hearing thereon. Notice of the time, place, and subject matter of such public hearing shall be published in a newspaper of general circulation in the village not more than thirty days nor less than fifteen days prior to the date of such hearing. After such public hearing the plan commission shall submit its recommendation in a report to the village board who may then grant or deny the variance requested. No variation shall be granted by the village board unless a public hearing on such variation has been held by the plan commission.

The plan commission shall recommend to the corporate authorities that any variations from the regulations of this title be granted so long as the variations are in harmony with the general purpose and intent and in accordance with the general or specific rules herein contained only in those areas where there are practical difficulties or particular hardship in conforming to the strict letter of any of the regulations contained in this title.

SECTION XXX. The invalidity of any section or provision of this ordinance hereby adopted shall not invalidate other sections or provisions thereof.

SECTION YYY. All other ordinances or parts of ordinances of the Village of Wheeling in conflict herewith are hereby repealed.

SECTION ZZZ. This ordinance shall be in full force and effect from and after its passage, approval and publication, according to law.

PASSED this 5th day of July, 1977.

Trustee Cole, aye; Trustee Powers, aye; Trustee Dahm, aye; Trustee Ross, aye; Trustee Kerr, aye; Trustee Sommerfeld, aye.
